Today

In Search of a Job.
Famous Last Words.
The Mighty Amazon.
What They Will Do.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

FORMER President Coolidge is in New York city. Reporters say he is considering "a job," preferably some executive position.

Every executive position worth while means entering the employ of a corporation.

It should not be necessary for a man who has been president of the United States to look for any job or go to work for any corporation.

ELECTION to the presidency should entitle a man at the end of his term to a pension, sufficient to make any other job unnecessary for the rest of the man's life, a pension certainly not less than $50,000, and preferably the full amount of the president's pay.

The people owe this not only to the presidency, but to their own self-respect.

ALLONS, "let us go," was the last word uttered by Marshal Foch. It is the first word of the French national hymn that he heard so often, the hymn to which the revolutionary soldiers marched from the south of France into Paris. "Allons enfants de la patrie," etc.

The last words of great men, piously collected, have little value. The great men probably did not know what they were saying. Mehr Licht, "more light," were the last words of Goethe.

Frederick the Great's last words are supposed to be tete d'armee, "head of the army." He often spoke French in preference to German.

PITT, whose genius kept Napoleon out of England, said as he died, "My country, how I leave thee." He was worried about the future.

What a man does while he lives is more important than what he says when he dies.

GERMAN scientists discover that the great Amazon, so wide at the mouth that boats on it go out of sight of land, connects with the river La Plata, forming the greatest river chain on earth.

That will interest thousands, who, as boys, read Kingsley's "Westward Ho!" and lived, in imagination, on the Amazon and the Orinoco.

ELIHU ROOT, great lawyer, says the world court is now an almost continuous tribunal. The statement is interesting, and you may add to it that the things that continuous world court would do to the United States if Uncle Sam ever submitted himself to its rulings would be continuous and quite expensive.

HOWEVER, the "right people," which means big people, including international financiers, want the United States in the world court in order that investments made recklessly abroad may be protected by court decision and backed by United States credit.

For that good reason the United States WILL PROBABLY GET INTO THE WORLD COURT in spite of Senator Borah and others who think George Washington was right. George Washington did not know high finance.

GERMAN health resorts refuse to admit poor Trotzky, once ruler of the Russian army, now exiled by the Russian government. Trotzky, ill, would like to take the German "waters." Owners of various "spas" say they don't want Trotzky, because he would drive away their richest customers, especially Americans.

What Trotzky would say about Marx's Capitalismus now would be emphatic.

A RUSSIAN murderer, "head of the Volga pirates," recalling the ancient Tartars, with his small black eyes and active body, on trial for 200 crimes, adds proverbs to his boasting.

His daughter "was a nuisance," so he killed her.

"You cannot make a good plank from rotten wood."

HE KILLED his uncle. "Buried men cannot bear witness, so I shot him with his wife and lodger."

After he killed his daughter, his wife called him a murderer, "so I threw her into the Volga, because flowing streams wash away sorrow."

His second wife "knew too much. I killed her because in the grave all knowledge ends."

All knowledge will soon end for this Volga pirate. Kuznetsof, soon to face a firing squad.

PRESIDENT HOOVER will be asked by Police Commissioner Whalen, of New York, only a short time in office, but with much knowledge of criminals, for "legislation to prevent criminals purchasing pistols." Commissioner Whalen says:

"Criminals are cowards, every one of them, relying on guns to attack women, children and defenseless men. Without guns they would be in constant fear."

THAT'S true, but how can you prevent their having weapons. The Constitution of the United States, which can not be lightly changed, forbids interference with the right of citizens to bear arms.

This can be interpreted to mean that the weapon must be visible, not hidden. Even so, a thug could buy a shotgun or repeating rifle, cut the barrel short, and hide it under his coat.

LEGISLATION thus far has kept respectable men from having pistols for their own protection. It has not interfered with crime or the purchase of weapons by criminals.

MRS. ALICE DE LOUVIERES

Mrs. De Louvieres, 16, who married George, 29, a Frenchman, only five months ago, today still hoped for his safe return from the Kinloch mine. He escaped in the last disaster after being entombed nearly 24 hours. (See story, Page 2.)

46 BODIES RECOVERED, 12 MISSING IN MINE

BOSSES RIP METRO PLAN

The Metropolitan District charter bill now before the Legislature will be stripped of its elaborate provisions for a metropolitan government and will be reduced to a simple form of charter measure.

The revised charter virtually is to be confined to the creation of a metropolitan district to gain the census standing of its population without disturbing the existing forms of government.

PROTESTS BRING ACTION

This information was contained in a statement issued by County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, Republican county chairman.

This decision, reached by city and county leaders, was the outcome of a series of conferences at which vigorous objection was voiced to the charter prepared by the Metropolitan District Commission after its study of the subject for about six years.

HEARING ON TUESDAY

Senator Max G. Leslie, who presented the charter bill and whose illness caused postponement of a hearing before the Senate Judiciary General Committee Tuesday, will present the amendments to the bill. He will be able to appear next week and at his request the hearing has been set for Tuesday.

The only important change to be effected in existing government indicated by Commissioner Armstrong is the increase of the Board of County Commissioners from three members to seven members, three from the city and three from the outlying districts and one elected at large. This change will not be effected until January, 1932. Other provisions of the commission's proposed charter will be deferred for future action, providing an opportunity for study and test, Armstrong stated.

MELLON THERE

The conferences were attended by W. L. Mellon, former Republican state chairman, Commissioner Arm-

DIPLOMATS TO CONVOY OWN RUM

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(INS.)—The Treasury Department today ruled that imported liquors transported from Baltimore's port to the foreign embassies and legations should be accompanied by a representative of the embassy or legation and should not be interfered with by federal agents.

The new order provides that American truck companies operated by Americans can legally carry such liquors.

This action follows the seizure a week ago of a truckload of liquors consigned to the Siamese legation. Later the liquor was delivered, but the truckmen were held for violating the Jones act. An old ruling prohibited American citizens from transporting diplomatic whisky.

Seymour Lowman, assistant secretary of the treasury, confirmed today that the orders have been issued to prevent interference with diplomatic liquor, although the treasury maintains that under the law diplomats do not have the right to transport liquor even though their personal effects are not subject to interference under the laws of the United States. Any peace officer who arrests a diplomat after he has been properly identified while transporting liquor or who disturbs the liquor would be liable to severe penalties under the laws regarding diplomatic immunity.

RESCUE WORKERS CARRYING COLLAPSED MINER TO SURFACE

As a rescue squad bore Lawrence Allshouse, 28, swathed in blankets and on a stretcher, up the steep entrance of Kinloch mine to safety today, Allshouse, entombed by the explosion, was one of those believed dead, but he walked into the rescue group 8,000 feet from the shaft and collapsed. After he reached the surface he regained consciousness.

HOPE FOR RESCUES FADES

The known death toll in the Kinloch mine disaster swelled to 46 victims with the finding of 21 bodies late today.

With the discovery hope faded that the 12 others unaccounted for were alive in the underground passages.

Rescuers had been inspired to renewed effort today when Lawrence Allshouse, 22, staggered into their arms after he had been held a prisoner by the flames and gas for 27 hours.

But discouraging reports came later when five bodies were removed and identified and 16 others were sighted, all victims of the blast which wrecked the mouth of the Valley Camp Coal Company's mine near Parnassus yesterday morning.

16 DEAD NEAR MOUTH

The five identified victims, found within a mile of the mine's mouth, were James Davis, pumper; Jeff Ando, motorman; James Poole, motorman; Adam Boyce, trackman, and John Ambrose, loader.

Within a few hundred yards of those bodies rescuers reported sighting 10 others and still another partly submerged in water near the mouth of the mine.

SAVED AFTER 27 HOURS

Lawrence Allshouse had been in a butt more than 1,000 feet from the slope entrance.

J. B. Weker, safety engineer for the company, who directed the rescue party, said the mine was now clear of water, gas and dirt for one mile in from the mouth.

Official estimates of the men unaccounted for ranged from 10 to 43, but rescue leaders were sure that at least four were safe behind a brattice in No. 6 butt of the main heading. They were bending all

FOCH MAY REST NEAR UNKNOWN SOLDIER TOMB

PARIS, March 22.—(AP.)—Mourning thousands again paid their humbled tribute to the memory of Marshal Ferdinand Foch today as the nation prepared to pay him its greatest honors, one suggestion being that he be interred beside the body of France's unknown soldier under the Arc de Triompe.

Enclosed in a coffin draped with the flag of France, the body reposed this afternoon under a silver crucifix in the mortuary chamber of his house.

At 2:45 p. m., the line of thousands of people who had been waiting to pay this last reverence began to file past the now closed coffin. When the doors of the Foch residence were thrown open this line, five files wide, extended for more than a quarter of a mile along the sidewalks of the Rue De Grenelle and became longer each minute.

OFFICERS STAND GUARD

Four officers stood at rigid attention, one at each corner of the marshal's bier, their swords reversed in tribute to their dead leader. At the foot of the coffin knelt two sisters of the Order of St. Vincent De Paul, silently praying.

The room was lit only by the light of tapers, six of them, each 5 feet high, burned at either side of the coffin and others at its foot.

In the shadows of a corner of the room an artist was busy with

Monongahela Fires Cause $14,000 Loss

ALLEGHENY HIGH PRINCIPAL ILL

Prof. William L. Smith, principal of the Allegheny High School and independent candidate for Mayor at the last election, is believed in a serious condition at the Presbyterian Hospital.

Today he was considered slightly improved after a collapse yesterday.

2 HELD IN CAFE RUM SALE

Restaurant patrons who desired a drink of liquor to top off a meal had no trouble in obtaining it from Stanley Filipak, of 3017 Brereton avenue, who made the rounds persistently, police testified in North Side Police Court today.

Filipiak admitted selling moonshine at 25 cents a drink, or 50 cents a half pint. When arrested, he had three half-pints, police testified. Filipiak and Chester Cole, 329 Cedar avenue, who admitted buying a half-pint from him, were held for court, charged with violating the Snyder act, by Magistrate E. M. Hough.

Chicago Reserve Rate Unchanged

CHICAGO, March 22.—(AP.)—Directors of the Chicago Federal Reserve Bank met and adjourned today without making any announcement of a boost in its rediscount rate. There had been widespread belief that the Chicago bank might take the first step in raising the rate, and even after the adjournment of the directors' meeting today without any announcement there were reports that action had been taken. At the bank officials said there was no statement to make.

JURY INDICTS BOWMAN

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 22.—(AP.)—The Dauphin county grand jury today indicted Harry B. Bowman, perfume salesman, for the murder of Miss Verna Klink, here, on the night of January 25.

Mrs. Ethel Miller, who has confessed to receiving gifts from the accused man, was also held for trial on several charges growing out of her alleged illicit relations with Bowman. Both cases have been called for trial during the week beginning next Monday.

The prosecution charges that Bowman killed Miss Klink by drowning her in the river after robbing her of $900. Bowman denies that he slew the woman.

Vare's Return Home Remains Indefinite

PHILADELPHIA, March 22.—(AP.)—The Evening Bulletin today says that United States Senator-elect William S. Vare has announced that he has not decided when he will return home from Florida. He has been on an automobile trip from his winter home in St. Lucia to Palm Beach, the first long outing he has taken since stricken last summer.

When Mr. Vare does come North, it is stated, he will go directly to his summer home in Atlantic City. This may not be for two months.

Coat Falls, Boy Shot By Hidden Revolver

ERIE, Pa., March 22.—A bullet was removed today from the knee of Gordon Welsh, 14, as a result of the accidental discharge of a revolver at Gridley Junior High School. While playing in the school yard, the lad brushed against a coat lying on a window sill. The coat fell to the ground and a revolver, in one of the pockets, was discharged. Police learned a 13-year-old boy had taken the revolver to school.

Corey, has expressed delight at the forthcoming marriage, and has agreed to double the amount of alimony he now is paying, making it $100,000 a year. In addition he will present the couple with a castle at San Remo, and has intimated he will make the Prince beneficiary to a considerable amount of property under the terms of his will.

Mrs. Corey divorced Corey in Paris on the ground that he refused to live in Paris. Her home originally was in San Luis Obispo, California.

Grief Follows Joy at Mine Rescue

The first laden stretcher that was moved hurriedly up the slope that leads out of the torn Kinloch mine bore joyous news for Mrs. Ellen Flynn today. It bore the unconscious but living form of her son-in-law, Lawrence Allshouse, who had been thought dead.

If there were tears in the eyes of Mrs. Flynn they were tears of a joy that followed despair.

And then the second stretcher moved slowly out of the earth. Stretched on it, lifeless, was her son, James Poole, 24, child of her first marriage. To a husband partly blind and fast losing his sight as a result of a mine accident, Mrs. Flynn carried the news home.

TORNADO KILLS 2 IN SCHOOL

ANNISTON, Ala., March 22.—(INS.)—Two small children were killed and eight other persons were injured today by a tornado which struck Merrellton, Ala., near here.

RESCUED MINER BARES FIGHT

For 27 hours he lived in a dark, stuffy hole in the earth.

Poisonous gases and flames were claiming the lives of his pals nearby. Escape was out of the question.

Today, on a stretcher, he was carried to the surface. Revived, he pleaded, "Give me a cigaret, please."

IN AIR POCKET

Lawrence Allshouse, 20, had escaped death in the blasted Kinloch mine.

For 27 hours Allshouse had huddled in a fresh air pocket of a room cut into the earth. Luckily, he had found the air pocket. And while his pals and workmen were dying a slow death from poisonous gases, Allhouse, unable to help them, lay himself in fear of death.

BEATS BIG ODDS

"I didn't hear the explosion," Allshouse related between puffs. "I did hear a hissing sound, so

JUDGE DREW ASKS COUNTY TO POST FORNEY REWARD

Judge James B. Drew, who announced last week that he would ask the County Commissioners to offer a $5,000 reward for the apprehension of Alfred W. Forney, missing racketeer, today forwarded his request to the commissioners in a letter.

Drew's letter contained a scorching arraignment of Forney, who was mysteriously absent when he was called to trial on 16 charges of maintaining gambling devices—slot machines. In the communication he proposed no specific sum as a reward.

"The public conscience is shocked by the brazen effrontry of this man; his conduct is an insult to our court. He has treated our law with contempt," Judge Drew wrote.

"Under these extraordinary circumstances it seems to me to be the plain duty of the Board of County Commissioners, in the fair exercise of their discretion, to immediately offer a reward for his apprehension.

"If this is done I am certain he will be brought to justice."

With Commissioners Joseph G. Armstrong and E. V. Babcock out of the city, Drew's request will not be acted upon before next week. The third commissioner, C. C. McGovern, has described Drew's plan as "ridiculous."

RESCUER FINDS TWO DEAD, BOTH ARE HIS BROTHERS

Two brothers, clasped in each others' arms, where death had left them, were found by a third brother serving as a member of a rescue team in the mine disaster at Kinlock.

Charles Oliver, 19, of House 102, Kinlock, who lived with his parents, and William J. Oliver 22, of House 71, were the brothers who met fate together. It was David Oliver, Jr., 22, whom fate selected to find their bodies.

And as death cast its shadow, their father, David Oliver, saved from a probable like fate by illness, prepared to enter the Citizens General Hospital, New Kensington, for an operation. Four children are left fatherless in the home of his son, William.

In House 102, the father and mother mourn the loss of two sons. Nine brothers and sisters, through their tears, try to ease the heartache of their parents. In House 37, a young widow sits and ponders over the fate that has left her children fatherless. Four children, Jenny, 8, David, 4, Phillip, 2, and Harry, 1, know their father is gone but their young minds cannot grasp the burden that is to be borne by their mother, Mrs. Jessie Oliver.

And while friends come and go from their mission of offering solace, Shep, a collie pup, whimpers on the front porch. Daily noon and evening, it has been Shep's fun to meet his master at the mine and romp home.

their efforts toward rescuing those men.

No accurate check on the number of men who entered the mine yesterday morning 15 minutes before an explosion sent flame and deadly black damp swirling through the workings could be had even as late as today. Mine Superintendent Oliver F. Taylor was certain that 234 had escaped.

While rescue workers fought to clear a path through falls of rock and coal to the trapped men in the No. 6 butt, three investigations of the blast were under way.

For the federal government, Daniel J. Harrington, chief engineer of the Bureau of Mines, arrived at Kinloch this morning and made a preliminary survey.

STATE STARTS PROBE

Pennsylvania Secretary of Mines Walter H. Glasgow and Ira Thomas, deputy in charge of bituminous mining, were on hand to lead rescue work and conduct an investigation for the state.

Westmoreland County authorities were gathering routine data for use in whatever action they might be required to take.

Attorney M. A. Musmanno announced that he would begin a personal investigation of the disaster. Laws governing safety conditions are too static to meet changing conditions in operations, he declared as he arrived on the scene today to interview survivors.

This morning, four bodies, all unidentified, were found near No. 8 butt center by rescuers in charge of George McCaa, engineer for the bureau of mines. The bodies were left in the mine while rescuers attempted to reach four miners believed to be alive in another butt.

SPUR RESCUE WORK

The belief that there might be living men, hungry and facing suffocation in the workings spurred the squads on, and for the time being task of taking out the dead was abandoned.

"If there are any more alive," declared Superintendent Taylor, "no time is to be wasted. We must make every effort to reach them immediately, and that is just what we are doing. We hope to have every part of the mine explored before noon."

Tales of heroism and stark misery were related by many among the 200 or more survivors as they received congratulations from friends and relatives today. Among the first group of 65 led to safety were several who credited their escape to the quick thinking of a young Negro snapper whose name was not learned.

NEGRO LAD HERO

This Negro lad, it was reported, erected a brattice at the main heading upon learning of the blast and ran back to warn the others. Meanwhile John Murhamer, assistant mine foreman, who had been knocked down and injured by the force of the blast, made his way back to the men and led them to safety through unfrequented underground passages to the abandoned drift mouth at Valley Camp. Murhamer is recovering from his injuries in the Citizens General Hospital at New Kensington.

Anxious friends and relatives stood all night in a drizzling rain near the slope entry awaiting word from the rescue crews which worked and slept in relays.

Now and then as bodies were carried to the surface by stretcher bearers and identification was made, wife, mother or sweetheart would hear the worst and drag herself off to her home in silent misery or else become hysterical with grief and be led away by solicitous friends.

It was the death watch for many.

A special committee of the Allegheny County Bar Association appointed at request of the Metropolitan Plan Commission to study the proposed charter met this afternoon to draft a report for submission to the association.

This committee consists of Joseph Stadtfeld, president of the bar association; John B. Eichenauer, W. W. Stoner, A. C. Hirsch and George J. Campbell. A special meeting of the association likely will be called for Monday, it was said, to name a committee to present the lawyers' views at a hearing in Harrisburg Tuesday.

LOOKING FOR "UNCLE BILLY"

PAUL HANSEL FRANK PAEZUL EDDIE MALLEK WILLIAM BAYNE

Eddie, 12, still has his father, who came home at 2 o'clock in the morning and escaped the Kinloch explosion, but his "Uncle Billy"—the uncle who remembered him always with dimes and quarters and birthday gifts—was in the blast. There was no trace of him and Eddie tearfully searches among the missing. His playmates sympathize.

Blast Horror Tales Related By Survivors

Charmed is the life of Hugh Dezden.

In the Harwick blast of 1927, Dezden, 45, was laid off work the day before.

He was one of those to escape death in the Marietta blast one year ago.

One year ago, when a dozen men were killed in the Kinloch mine, Hugh had taken the day off.

"Heavy steel structural work was twisted and bent into a shapeless mass all along the conveyor tracks," related Harry "Hap" Robinson, volunteer fireman, of Parnassus, one of the first men to enter the mine. "The interior is a horrible picture of ruin," he declared.

The Kinloch Public School is closed. The pupils were dismissed yesterday while smoke from the burning tipple shrouded the school. Nearly every boy and girl in the school had relatives or close friends of their parents among the missing in the mine.

"That ruined tipple proved a deceptive picture of destruction," Supt. Tom Styche, of the Monongahela mine of the Valley Camp Coal Company, pondered as he entered the mine on a rescue mission and found "it was a miracle the death toll could remain so low."

Misfortune dealt it second blow within two weeks in the home of Mr and Mrs. John Brem, in Kinloch, as their son, Albert, 18, died in the fury of the double blast. The mother, Mrs. Anna Brem, 38, is confined to bed after a collapse. The father is in the Citizen's General Hospital, New Kensington, unable to be at the bier of his son or the bedside of his wife. Two weeks ago, Mr. Brem's left leg was broken in a fall of coal in the mine that claimed his son's life.

John Stobanski, New Kensington miner who had been out of work since the flu struck him in December, applied Monday to the Valley Camp Coal Company for work in the Kinloch mine. He was deeply disappointed when told that no work was in sight for two weeks, but yesterday, he was one of the happiest men in New Kensington.

If Jess Ando and Lloyd Smith, miners, had heeded the advice of Ed Jobes, assistant mine foreman, they would not be among those unaccounted for today. The two men got into an argument with Jobes when the latter told them to follow him to the Valley Camp mouth of the mine. They insisted the only way of escape was through the Kinloch mouth. They were wrong and Jobes was right, for he led his other men to safety.

A father and son also disagreed as to the way of escape, but the former gave the boy no opportunity to have his way. He picked him up bodily and carried him more than a mile toward the Valley Camp mouth and to safety.

Pete Karatovich is being carried on the mine roll as having checked out yesterday morning, but his wife is wondering why he has not been home in 24 hours. "I can hardly believe he is out celebrating his escape," the bewildered wife said. Still, she is unwilling to believe that her husband is among those still unaccounted for.

BOY'S GRIEF FOR MINER VICTIM MOVES CROWD

Of all the tragedies in the Kinloch mine disaster none awakened more sympathy in the crowds that thronged the scene than Eddie Mallek's vain search among the missing for his "Uncle Billy."

Eddie's daddy Julius Mallek, was on the night shift this week and returned home early in the morning about the time that William Tyson—"Uncle Billy"— prepared to go to the mine with the day force.

AWAKENED BY BLAST

The roar of the explosion awakened Eddie, and leaping out of bed he saw the mine entry all in flames. He ran to "Uncle Billy's" room. Yes, he was gone. In an instant the 12-year-old lad realized the danger, but for a time found comfort in his father's "hunch" that the men in the mine would make their way out at the Valley Camp entrance.

Eddie had no breakfast. Hatless and coatless he ran with the crowd, dodging automobiles, flying ambulances and fire trucks. For two hours he eluded the vigilance of the state police and met the rescued and those who had escaped through the distant opening—but "Uncle Billy" did not come.

"'Uncle Billy' is done for, I'm sure," sobbed the boy. "And he played Santa Claus for all us kids only last Christmas, and was talking about bunnies for Easter."

SORRY FOR MOTHER

"There's another gang comin' out and maybe your 'Uncle Billy' will be among 'em," said his school fellow, William Bayne. Eddie Mallek has a lot of friends.

"I'm so sorry for mother," Eddie's grief took a fresh turn.

"Uncle Billy is her brother."

Tired out after his long walk over the steep hills, Eddie paused as darkness came on. Hope was abandoned for the remaining missing men. Lights gleamed, casting a ghostly glow about the entrance to the mine and the black old building which had been fitted up to care for the bodies of the dead. Paul Hansel, Frank Paezul and William Bayne, Eddie's chums, tried to comfort him.

The boys watched a sudden moving in the crowd and saw stretcher bearers move toward the old black building.

"'Uncle Billy's' done for," cried Eddie.

his crayon that future generations might know the simple beauty of the room where Foch lay in death. Of flowers there were none to be seen. Foch in his will asked that there be none.

FAMILY TAKES LEAVE

During the morning, the family of Foch looked upon his face for the last time. Other than members of the family, only Gen. Weygand, Foch's closest military associate, Father L'Hande and Dr. Heitz-Boyer were present when the body was placed in the coffin and the lid closed.

One by one these gathered about the bier, bent over the Marshal and bade him farewell. To the oaken cover were nailed seven golden stars, symbolic of the Marshal's rank.

Among the visitors today was Whitehorse Eagle, an aged American Indian chief.

U. S. TO PAY TRIBUTE

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(INS.)—The United States government will pay tribute to Marshal Ferdinand Foch. When Tuesday, the day of his funeral in Paris, dawns, the army will fire a salute of 21 guns. From then on during the day a gun will be fired at half hour intervals at every army post in the world, the War Department announced this afternoon. All flags will be flown at half mast.

American Ambassador Myron T. Herrick will attend the funeral as a representative of President Hoover, while Gen. John J. Pershing will represent the Army.

France Condoled By King George On Foch Death

LONDON, March 22.—(AP.)—A man who has won his own fight against disease condoled today with the nation of a man who lost in his fight.

King George, convalescent after serious illness, has sent a message of admiration for Marshal Foch and of condolence to the Foch family and French nation to President Doumergue.

The king's message read: "I offer to you, monsieur le president, and to the French nation, my deepest sympathy in the death of Marechal Foch. France mourns her greatest soldier, and my country the loss of one whose name is honored in the roll of British field marshals."

MINE HIS PRIDE, SAFETY HEAD IS KILLED

By a strange quirk of fate, William H. Eash, director of safety for the Valley Camp Coal Company, lies dead today, a victim of the blast in Kinloch mine, his especial pride, because he had made it "100 per cent safe" only a month ago.

The fatal explosion which claimed the lives of 28 men, possibly more, came exactly 13 months after an explosion which killed 12 in the same mine.

W. H. Eash

Eash was the last man to go down the slope before yesterday's blast. His body was found half way down the stairway alongside the twisted steel conveyer tracks by the first rescue team to enter the mine.

POPULAR WITH MEN

There was a peculiar bond between this man, who spent the best years of his life in the coal pits of Pennsylvania, and the men with whom he worked. He came to Kinloch about two years ago as safety director, having served in mines of the Johnstown district in the same capacity.

He introduced measures of safety among the miners in an understanding manner, having dug coal once himself, and the men took to the new regulations eagerly. Within a few months, every man had passed safety tests approved by the United States Bureau of Mines, and the workings were considered the most up-to-date in safety work in the district. A prize was awarded by the Valley Camp Coal Company for 100 per cent efficiency, and every employe took great pride in the distinction.

KILLED ON DUTY

It was Eash's usual custom to go down into the mine each morning for an inspection. That was his task when he started down the slope yesterday.

His widow and four children mourn his passing. Upon learning of her husband's fate, Mrs. Eash was prostrated by grief and was under the care of a physician in her home today. Besides his widow, Each leaves these children: Ethel, 18; Evelyn, 16; Joseph, 14, and Ruth, 10.

"HEX" SUSPECT STILL TRAILED

ALLENTOWN, Pa., March 22.—Arrest of a man wanted in connection with the death of Verna Octavia Delp, 21, whose body was found near the Catasauqua Gun Club grounds, near here, last Saturday, apparently was little closer today.

The man sought, police said, was seen Friday in an automobile with Miss Delp near the spot where her body was found and about the time it is believed her death occurred.

Interest was heightened when doctors announced that so far they had been unable to find any trace of poison in the girl's body. The poison theory may be dropped.

Victim of Amnesia May Be Indiana Man

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 22.—(AP.)—A man found wandering the streets early yesterday is being detained by the police for identification. He was nearly exhausted when taken to the City Hospital. He is about 35 years old, five feet seven inches in height and of swarthy complexion. In one of his pockets was a receipt for a battery from the Post Radio Company, of 605 and 607 Market street, Philadelphia. His hat bore the label of Dick Thompson, Indiana, Pa. He is believed to be a victim of amnesia.

The pardon restores Goldstein's citizenship rights, including the right to hold public office.

PRAYING MINER ESCAPES GAS AND FIRE

Escaping from fire, smoke and deadly gas in the blast-wrecked Kinloch mine, Robert Watson, Negro miner, is willing to pin his faith in prayer.

Watson lives in house No. 13 at Kinloch, but today as he recounted his experiences in feeling his way three miles under ground through water that reached to his chin, he scoffed at that fateful number.

Watson was with other miners about three miles from the mine opening when the explosion occurred. He received the same warning and started through the old abandoned entries that led to the entrance of Mine No. 1 nearly three miles distant.

Behind him rolled the deadly gas, he hurried on but became separated from the other men. He waded through water to his waist. In the darkness he ran head-on against pillars and stumbled prostrate in the black underground river. Where the roof was low he was obliged to stoop and the water reached his chin. It was a question whether the water would reach the roof of the mine and would cut off his retreat.

Then Watson prayed. And with his courage renewed, he stumbled on until he saw a faint streak of light. He was saved.

MINER RELATES DEATH FIGHT

I left my room and went to the passageway. I smelled gas. I hurried back to the room."

"I stood it as long as I could," he tells," and then this morning I made for the main entrance. The gas got me! I remember stumbling—and that's all."

For 100 yards the begrimed, weakened miner crawled and staggered on, overwhelming odds against him.

And then into the arms of a group of rescuers he collapsed. A stretcher carried him to the surface and from the hundreds of men, women and children who have kept a death watch outside the mine, there rose hoarse, frantic cheers of joy.

Through the night these people had watched, hopefue that the terrific blast that shook this Kinloch mine yesterday morning had not claimed the ones they loved.

"I saw only one body down there just before the gas hit me," Allshouse related. "It was huddled against a wall and the face was torn. I couldn't recognize the man."

MRS. DORIS MERCER KRESGE

DORIS MERCER SPURNS BILL

NEW YORK, March 22.—Doris Mercer, Pittsburgh girl, former wife of Sebastian S. Kresge, has refused to pay $52,000.26 for detective services in connection with her divorce from the multi-millionaire chain store owner. That was learned today when her attorney, Maurice Hotchner, announced that Mrs. Mercer would not pay Val O'Farrell, head of the O'Farrell detectives a cent.

"O'Farrell's papers do not contain enough evidence to substantiate his claims," declared Hotchner.

Mrs. Mercer is now in Paris training her voice. She married Kresge after leaving Pittsburgh for a career in New York.

6 HIGH NAVY OFFICERS ARRESTED

MEXICO CITY, March 22.—A decisive battle loomed today for the possession of Mazatlan, Sinaloa, largest Mexican seaport on the west coast, now in the hands of the federals. At the same time rebel forces were preparing to launch attacks on two other important centers.

Six of the highest officers of the Mexican navy, including Commodore-in-chief Herman Hernandez, were lodged in the Santiago Tlaltelolco prison here today.

FACE COURT MARTIAL

They will face immediate court martial, charged with revolutionary activities on March 3, when Gen. Jesus M. Aguirre, rebel chieftain executed yesterday, revolted and seized the port of Vera Cruz.

MEXICO CITY, March 22.—(INS.)—A decisive battle loomed today for the possession of Mazatlan, Sinaloa, largest Mexican seaport on the west coast now in the hands of the federals.

A powerful rebel force of between 5,000 and 6,000 troops, led by Gen. Roberto Cruz, has been viciously attacking the federal force of less than 2,000 at intermittent intervals during the last 24 hours, but at last reports the federals still held the city.

CALLES RUSHES AID

At the request of Gen. Jaime Carrillo, commanding the defenders, Gen. Calles has rushed 6,000 men from Torreon to augment the federal forces in Mazatlan.

Mazatlan, a city of about 30,000, is 700 miles south of the border and about 600 miles from Mexico City. It has rail connections to the national capital by way of Tepic, Unyarit and Guadalajara.

The situation has taken on a decidedly different aspect in the last few days, high officials here admitted today.

TWO BATTLES IMPEND

Official announcements, however, belittled the west coast force and indicated a government view that the port of Mazatlan was almost impregnable to an ordinary force of men. Possibility even of a siege intercepting food and water supply was scouted.

Where a few days ago the rebels were reported fleeing on all fronts, fighting appeared imminent today at two other points besides Mazatlan.

A decisive battle is now expected soon in Chihuahua either at Escalon or Rellano, between which towns the main rebel force is said to be concentrated.

ARMIES 100 MILES APART

Gen. Calles' main force is still concentrated north of Torreon, ready to continue his announced drive northward for the subjugation of Chihuahua and Sonora. About 100 miles separate the main bodies of both armies.

With the departure of Gen. Lozaro Cardenas at the head of 6,000 troops to reinforce Mazatlan, the federal concentration north of Torreon has been reduced to less than 20,000. The rebels at Escalon are variously estimated at between 6,000 and 9,000.

NACO ATTACK DELAYED

NOGALES, Sonora, Mex., March 22.—(AP.)—The attack on the border city of Naco, east of here, promised yesterday by the rebel leaders, had failed to materialize this morning.

Naco is held by 1,200 loyal troops under Gen. Lucas Gonzalez. They are firmly entrenched.

Revolutionary headquarters said one column of rebels moving toward Naco had stopped at Santa Cruz, 70 miles west of the objective, to repair a railroad bridge. Another rebel force was declared to have been halted at Del Rio, 51 miles distant, and still another at Cananea, 40 miles away.

WAIT FOR DELAYED COLUMN

The revolutionaries at Del Rio and Cananea were reported to be waiting for the force at Santa Cruz to join them.

Orders for an advance upon Naco from the east by troops under Gen. Ramon Yucupicio, at Agua Prieta, were reported to have been countermanded, pending the resumption of the advance from the south and west.

U. S WARNS BOTH SIDES

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(AP.)—Notice by American army officers at the Mexican border that they would resist firing into American territory by either Mexican rebels or Federals is considered by the administration to be the proper procedure, but Secretary Kellogg is hopeful that no strenuous measures will be found necessary.

The administration considers it has a legal right to prevent the firing of shells across the border line which might endanger American lives and property and would be prepared, if necessary, to take whatever steps might be needed to end such actions.

Secretary Kellogg said he did not wish to go into the matter of the possibilities of an American invasion of Mexico if any firing took place, but he did say that the United States would be entirely within its rights to proceed in whatever way was thought best to protect its people without any effect on its neutrality with the Mexico City government.

HUSBAND IN MINE, WATCHING WIFE FAINTS

State troopers hurrying Mrs. Ellen Rambos to medical attention. Hope was high as she watched thankful miners stagger one by one from a Kinloch mine entrance, but when the last blackened face was not that of her husband, Mrs. Rambos swooned.

GIRL WIFE, WED 5 MONTHS, SURE MINER WILL RETURN

"George is coming back to me, I am sure," declared Mrs. Alice De Louvieres, 16-year-old girl-wife of George De Louvieres, one of the miners still entombed in the dark pit of the Kinloch mine.

There was a note of confidence in the declaration of the young woman who became a wife only five months ago when she was little more than 15 years old.

Her husband, she recounted, was entombed in the last Kinloch mine disaster, 13 months ago.

"He was one of the last men to be rescued, after he had been cut off in the pit for nearly 24 hours and everyone had abandoned hope for his safety," Mrs. De Louvieres said. "So, why should I despair."

De Louvieres came to this country shortly after the war. He fought with the French army in the World War.

George Morrow, of 331 Charles street, Knoxville, a bookkeeper in the Mellon National Bank, advocates making regular deposits in a savings bank. His banking experience has taught him what a blessing a savings account frequently is to people on being confronted with emergencies that they cannot cope with unless they have something laid away for a rainy day. Mr. Morrow has a savings account himself in the Mellon National Bank, and his bank book, No. 12,826, was among those chosen for $5 thrift gifts. Mr. Morrow has been watching the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph daily for the numbers of savings accounts selected for deposits. He has been rewarded, as many others will be. If you have a bank book, you may be among them. The thrift gifts range from $5 to $50 each.

BOND IS GIVEN BY JUSTICE

Justice of the Peace Arthur F. Reed, of Greentree, charged with extortion, posted $1,000 bond with Alderman George Anderson today after learning that county detectives held a warrant for his arrest, the second warrant within a month. He is to be given a hearing Tuesday.

The warrant was sworn out by Chief County Detective George Murren yesterday after Annabel Moore, of Greenburg, had accused Reed of converting to his own uses $100 sent him for a bond. Mrs. Moore was charged with larceny by bailee by representatives of a Pittsburgh store and sent notice of a waivure and bond money to Reed, she alleged. The bond money never was sent to the clerk of courts, county authorities said.

Reed was arrested a month ago on complaint of a Greensburg woman, who accused him of extorting $400 from her by an allegedly false settlement of a suit she had brought against a man she accused of being the father of her child.

TIPPLE MAN CALLS BLAST 'SCORCHING HURRICANE'

Injured when the Kinloch mine explosion hurled him to the floor of the tipple as he was shutting off its controls, James Arnold, 25, of Kinloch, today ponders whether he will again risk facing the fury of a "scorching hurricane" or turn to safer work.

Arnold was the tipple operator on duty at the time of the explosion. His place of duty was far up in the tipple. A signal from the mine mouth told him to shut the controls just a few seconds before the first explosion.

HURLED TO FLOOR

"The noise of the running machinery shuts out all other sounds from the perch where the controls are located," Arnold said. "If a conveyor belt breaks, it is impossible to see or know about it until signalled by a horn from below. Coal was being loaded at the mine mouth, dropping from the cars into the conveyors. An order was sounded on the horn to shut off all controls. This took only a few seconds, there being four controls to touch."

"Just as I turned from the controls, the first blast occurred. Its force threw me to the floor. I got two cuts on my knees. As the flames shot high into the air, my first thought was to leap from a nearby window. I thought the tipple would collapse. But as I reached the window I could see it was possible to go down the back steps. My knees were very painful and the going down was difficult, but I managed to reach the ground without suffering any more hurts.

HEAT TERRIFIC

"When that first blast swept up the tipple, it was just a scorching hurricane. The heat sure was severe. My eyelashes were scorched and my lips and a part of my face stung with that hot force that knocked me over.

"After I got to the ground, men came rushing to the tipple from all directions, it seemed, and I was taken to the first aid room, where my cuts were dressed.

"Will this experience keep me from following mine work much longer?

"Well, I just can't say, but it makes me think that maybe I'll go back to the shops where I used to work."

MAN CHARGES DEPORTATION THREAT

Charging that he is being threatened with deportation, Stefan Rojak, 29, of East Pittsburgh, who claims to be an American citizen, has asked Federal Court for a writ of habeas corpus against Immigration Inspector W. H. Marshall. On motion of Attorney Thomas E. Whitten, counsel for Rojak, the court directed the issuance of the writ on the inspector to appear in court tomorrow to answer the allegations.

Rojak states he was born in Braddock and, 5 years old, taken by his mother to Czecho-Slovakia, where he remained with her until he went to Canada n April, 1925, entering the United States at Detroit the following January and coming to East Pittsburgh. In October, 1928, he was arrested by the immigration authorities and ordered deported, he alleges in his petition, despite his explanation of his departure and return to the United States.

He said that when he reached the age of 21 he was drafted into the Czecho-Slovakian army against his will.

Rum Ship Crew Drinks Cargo, Captured

SAN PEDRO, Cal., March 22.—(AP.)—Bacchus and Morpheus now are listed as prohibition enforcement officers.

Two asserted rum runners, Charles Bonberg and Alexis Singras, and the motorship Skandia were seized by customs officials yesterday, the result of the two men getting intoxicated on their own wares. Nearly 2,000 quarts of alleged champagne were found on board.

The Skandia blew a cylinder head yesterday 100 miles off San Pedro. For a night she wallowed helplessly. The McCormick liner West Mahwak, inbound from South America, saw the Skandia's distress signals and offered a tow, which was accepted.

The liner pulled the motorship right up to the dock, whereupon the customs officers found Bonberg and Singras asleep, "empties" scattered about.

LAWYERS FIGHT EARNINGS TAX

LOS ANGELES, March 22.—With the unanimous indorsement yesterday of the federal practices committee of the Los Angeles Bar Association and the individual approval of virtually every officer and trustee, a resolution strongly recommending immediate action on income tax law revision was ready for submission to the members of the association.

The resolutions, in addition to placing the association on record as approving the suggested increase to 50 per cent of the deduction permitted on earned income, urge that leading bar associations throughout the country take similar action and cite numerous cases of injustice under the present law.

The bar association committee, in making its recommendation, went even farther than some other groups by urging that a flat 50 per cent exemption be allowed in the earned income held taxable instead of making the deduction in the tax itself.

Another large and important organization joined the ranks of indorsers of the proposed revision when the Southern California Retail Grocers' Association, with 1,400 members, yesterday adopted a resolution urging the change.

STOCK BROKERS STRONG FOR TAX CUT

Pittsburgh brokers favor a reduction of the tax on earned incomes.

At the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange they are signing Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph petitions to Congress urging prompt action in a revision downward of the tax on the earnings of professional men and women, salaried people and all wage earners.

RUSH TO SIGN

A promising situation developed in the income tax fight when both bulls and bears joined in signing petitions placed around the exchange by Secretary A. L. Brinham. During lulls in the market there were rushes to sign the petitions and the news spread throughout Fourth avenue that brokers and employes of their offices were joining in the movement against taxing earned incomes.

"Stock exchange members will give strong support to this campaign," said Mr. Brinham. "I can't see how any person could conscientiously oppose the effort to scale down the tax on earned incomes. Business men will see that it is good business of the government to safeguard the producers of wealth among the country's wage earners, and I look for a great number of signers."

VOLUNTEERS ACTIVE

While brokers were signing in the stock exchange a number of volunteer workers were circulating petitions in Fourth avenue offices and in the entire downtown business area. These petitions are reaching the Sun-Telegraph in every mail.

The bridge clubs are finding a trump in the income tax situation. Some of the workers who obtained signers in offices and business houses during the day have been taking their petitions home for a canvass of neighborhood clubs and groups during the evenings.

VAST FARM AREA FLOODED AS MISSISSIPPI RIPS DIKES

QUINCY, Ill., March 22.—(AP.)—The swollen Mississippi, struggling with the heavy spring flow from its tributaries, crashed through the second levee of the Indian Grave drainage district today and inundated 12,000 additional acres of corn and wheat land.

It was the second break in less than 24 hours and put approximately 20,000 acres of rich land under an average of seven feet of water.

With millions of gallons of water pouring in through the two breaks, patrols fought frantically to keep dikes of some 50,000 additional surrounding acres from giving way. Eight hundred homes would be in the flood path if the levees of the Mark and Fabius districts across the river in Missouri, the Lima Lake region to the north and the South Quincy district gave way.

HIGHEST IN HISTORY

The Indian Grave levee district breaks brought a precipitous drop in the level of the river at this point. The river reached a stage of 20.5 feet, within a few feet of the all-time record, yesterday. From up-river, however, came reports of continued rise of the Mississippi. The Keokuk gauge recorded 18.85 feet last night, a new record, and a rise of four inches in 12 hours. Indications were that the rise would continue.

The Keokuk flood was so great as to close the wagon bridge between Keokuk and Hamilton, Ill., about two feet of water flowing over the approach on the Illinois side.

FACTORIES SHUT DOWN

Many of the factories in the Iowa cities along the river have been forced to shut down. Three pumps, each having a capacity of 40,000 gallons a minute, were at work in the Indian Grave district until water overflowed the pump house.

Soon after the first break became known, farmers began to move out their property. Some of the more cautious had taken corn and machinery from the region several days ago. Wagons, motor trucks and automobiles were piled high with furniture, chickens, hogs, dishes and odd articles as the farmers took to higher ground. Thousands of bushels of corn were dumped on surrounding bluffs.

ARMSTRONG'S STATEMENT ON CHARTER

County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong's statement on the decision of political leaders to replace the Metropolitan district charter bill follows:

The advantages of a great district of 1,600,000 people are so manifest that the proposed Metropolitan plan should command the interest and co-operation of every citizen. It will place Pittsburgh before the world in its proper light as a great community of industrious, prosperous people and will attract business and promote prosperity.

The Metropolitan charter bill has been under consideration by a number of men prominent in public affairs of the city and county and the bill, as presented by the commission appointed by the Governor, has been discussed and such changes have been suggested as it is felt would operate to the best advantage of both the City of Pittsburgh and that portion of Allegheny County lying outside of the city. The changes suggested have been substantially agreed to.

TIME HELD LACKING

The hearing on the bill was postponed last Tuesday on account of the health of Senator Leslie, sponsor of the bill and chairman of the sub-committee to which it was referred. However, the Senator will be able to be in Harrisburg next week and has sent a telegram to the chairman of the Judiciary General Committee of the Senate to have the hearing set for next Tuesday afternoon. The Senator expects to take charge of presenting the amendments, all of which have been gone over very thoroughly by a number of interested persons.

It is felt this will give an opportunity by the time the next session of the Legislature convenes to frame further amendments which would be beneficial for the Metropolitan district.

Because of the magnitude of Allegheny County and the greatness of the City of Pittsburgh it was felt that it would not be wise to make all of the changes suggested in the commission's original bill, as there will not be sufficient time before the adjournment of the Legislature to give proper study.

FOURTH PLACE SOUGHT

Those consulted agreed that Pittsburgh should have the same opportunity to attain its proper place and standing in the business world as other great cities have done which have adopted expansion plans similar to those the people interested in our city are attempting. Such, for instance, as the City of Greater New York.

It was felt that those citizens of the county not living within the boundary lines of the old City of Pittsburgh transact a great amount of business in the City of Pittsburgh and have the interest of the city at heart.

In view of the fact that the Metropolitan bill as amended does not take anything away from the outlying sections, there can be no good reason why they should not help to place Pittsburgh fourth in the column of cities, where it naturally belongs.

As stated above, this bill has been studied very thoroughly by men who have had years of practical experience in municipal and county affairs, and, while they feel that the Metropolitan District Commission has done a great work with credit to themselves, yet the distance to which they proposed to go without a fair try-out seemed to be too far without sufficient time for consideration of so important a subject.

AMENDMENTS SUGGESTED

For that reason a number of amendments have been suggested to keep it within proper bounds for present consideration. There will be plenty of opportunity later to provide for different conditions as they develop. It was felt that the bill as amended when presented to the people of the county will meet with their approval. The matter of presenting the amendments has been taken up with Senator Leslie, chairman of the sub-committee, and it appears from what has taken place that the Senator will be in harmony with the bill as amended, he having the interest of Allegheny County and the City of Pittsburgh at heart.

All county officers now serving, elected by the people, will continue in their offices until the expiration of their term and the elections for refilling the same will be as in the past, with the exception of the commissioners' office. It was agreed that since the county commissioners have just completed a large four-year program of improvements, from 1924 to 1928, then were re-elected by a very large vote and immediately thereafter went before the taxpayers and secured the approval of another large bond issue for the continuance of their work, it would seem only fair that they be permitted to finish their program of improvements under the same conditions and system as when the bonds were voted.

However, the commissioners feel that Allegheny County is growing at a tremendous rate and that it will be but a short time until the county will be of such size, both in population and finances, that it will be quite a task for three commissioners to handle the affairs.

BOARD OF SEVEN

For that reason they have agreed that while the present commissioners will carry out the schedule they have prepared during the past year, and which should be completed during their term of office, the next election of commissioners will be for a board of seven, three from the City of Pittsburgh and three from the outlying districts, with one to be elected at large.

The proposed municipal court has been left out of the bill, as it was thought that this matter would require a great deal of study, if it could be made practical at all.

The Welfare Department of the City of Pittsburgh will be continued as it is, with the city administration in charge of the institutions in which Pittsburgh has invested so much money.

HEALTH AND POOR BOARDS

The Poor Directors of Allegheny County, who are elected in the poor districts of the county, will continue as they are.

Before a consolidation of these two departments could be effected on a proper basis it was felt a great amount of study would be required.

The health departments of the cities, as well as the local boards of health in the various boroughs and townships, will function as they have in the past without change.

HOME RULE ASSURED

The amended bill has no effect upon mayors of the various cities, members of councils or any local officers of any city, borough or township of the county.

The police and fire systems of the county, including the county detectives, sheriff's office, and the local police officers of the various cities, boroughs and townships, and their local fire departments, will remain as they now are.

Without going into any further details, the effect of the amended bill would be to create a Metropolitan district with practically complete home-rule for all the cities, boroughs and townships within the county boundaries.

Nicaragua Marines Praised by Wheeler

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, March 22.—(AP.)—Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana, at a luncheon for American residents given at the legation by United States Minister Eberhardt, said that while he always had been opposed to American armed intervention in foreign countries, it pleased him immensely to learn from personal observation during this visit that the American marines have fulfilled their mission in a highly commendable manner.

Honduran Killed In Nicaragua Clash

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, March 22.—(AP.)—The government was informed yesterday that a Honduran resident was killed during a border clash by American marines and Nicaraguan National guards with outlaws. About 100 followers of Augustino Sandino were said to have been so closely pushed by the military that the fighting was carried into the town of San Marcos, Honduras. The opposing combatants soon recrossed the border and disappeared.

Mrs. Willebrandt Hits Job-Holders

NEW YORK, March 22.—(AP.)—Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant United States attorney general in charge of prohibition enforcement, told the New York Bar Association last night that she favored a "reorganization of the disjoined legal branches of the government along the lines of a modern law office."

Asking the support of the bar in a program to simplify the legal methods of the government, she said:

"This can be done, but it will take courage and determination. I have observed it takes all of that and sometimes much more to abolish offices and dislodge office-holders in Washington."

Describing her department's attempts to obtain interpretations of laws, including the prohibition statutes, that will serve for the entire country

"When this conflict appears, I do not view it as the province of our office to set up our own opinion of justice to the citizen, but rather to develop cases which will finally and definitely determne the question for the entire country."

Says Wife Left Him At Wedding Dinner

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., March 22.—Alleging that his wife deserted him on the day of their wedding, left the house while the wedding dinner was being served, and never lived with him, Anthony Werkowski, of Edwardsville, filed divorce proceedings against Cheska Werkowski. He did not see her until next morning, the husband says, and then she refused to live with him or have anything to do with him.

Freed in Rum Case, Sues for $50,000

IRONTON, O., March 22.—(AP.)—Howard Nolder, city sanitary officer, seeks $50,000 damages from Frank M. Smith, grocer, former sanitary officer and former fire chief, in a suit filed here yesterday in which Nolder alleges his credit and reputation were damaged by reason of his arrest March 11 on charges that he possessed liquor. The warrant for the search, it was claimed, was sworn out by Smith, and it was further stated that no liquor was found by officers who entered the Nolder home.

Hamburg-American Liner in Collision

HAMBURG, Germany, March 22.—The Hamburg American passenger liner, Thuringia, outward bound for New York, yesterday, in the Elbe Estuary, was in collision with a Russian steamer. The liner was damaged, but was able to return here under its own steam. The passengers were transferred to the liner, Albert Ballin, which sailed today.

Johnny Knew He Was Right All The Time

COLUMBIA, S. C., March 22.—(AP.)—Little Johnny in grammar school and Dr. William John Cooper, United States Commissioner of Education, have at least one thing in common. Addressing a convention of some 5,000 members of the South Carolina Teachers' Association, the Federal official declared that the end of "home work" assignments by teachers is to be desired.

Not that Dr. Cooper disparages the benefits, but he contended the teaching should be done in the classroom. "That is a highly professional work," he said, "and the real teacher must not expect the parent to do the teaching."

FAYETTE PRINCESS SHY OF NEWSPAPER PERSONS

UNIONTOWN, March 22.—It is thumbs down for newspaper men in the home of Mrs. Lenora Niccolls, mother of the Princess of Thurn and Taxis. Numerous attempts to interview the princess or to get an engagement for an interview have been futile. All that is necessary to get the telephone receiver at the other end of the line to go up with a bang is to mention that the speaker represents a newspaper.

An effort by a representative of the Sun-Telegraph to interview the princess brought these few words:

"I don't think the princess desires to talk to reporters" and scarcely had the "S" in reporters been sounded until the receiver clicked on the hook.

The voice was evidently that of the maid as it lacked the inflection characteristic of the Niccolls' family.

Early efforts to converse with the princess under other guises brought the information that she had not yet arisen or that she was unable to come to the telephone. The princess remains in seclusion and is not expected to appear until after the hearing today in Pittsburgh before Watson Adair, referee in bankruptcy, relative to any hidden assets that J. V. Thompson might have.

Jefferson Chalfont, 20, companion of Gerald Fitzgerald, son of the princess, continues to act as a messenger to and from the Niccolls' home.

JUDGE ORDERS CITIZENSHIP REVOKED

John Tapolcsanyi, 36, of Herminie, who, soon after being naturalized in Federal court, December 20, 1920, is alleged to have written a letter to his brother in Hungary in which he declared himself to be a "pure, red Communist" for eight years and that Soviet Russia is the only country for the workingman, is about to have his American citizenship cancelled.

Judge R. M. Gibson directed that a decree of cancellation be prepared. The court said that it seems quite plain that Tapolcsanyi, when seeking citizenship, did not have an intention to support the constitution of the United States and its form of government.

At a hearing last October in an action brought by the naturalization authorities seeking to cancel Tapolcsanyi's citizenship because of alleged "radical tendencies" he entertained when he swore allegience to the United States, the letter to the brother in Hungary was introduced as evidence. The letter, never reached its destination, as it was intercepted by the Hungarian government and turned over to American immigration authorities.

Tapolcsanyi denied the government allegation that he was a member of the Communist Party of America, but admitted being a member of the Workers' Communist Party of America.

Home Building Firm Sued by Contractors

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 22.—A suit to recover $33,951.85 with interest from October 15, 1926, from the Charleroi Home Building Company, has been filed by Eugene Bucanelly and Joseph M. Braun, partners, trading as Bucanelly & Braun, contractors, of Pittsburgh.

The Charleroi Home Building Company is the owner of the Maple View plan of lots in Speers borough, near Charleroi. The statement of claim sets forth that on February 15, 1925, the defendant company entered into an agreement with the plaintiffs by which the latter were to improve certain streets in this plan, construct sewers and lay sidewalks. The plaintiff firm claims that under the terms of its contract it completed all the work, with certain exceptions, according to the terms of the contract.

RUM PROBLEM HELD GRAVEST BEFORE U. S.

In entering a plan in the Hearst $25,000 temperance prize contest, which has swept the nation with enthusiasm from Atlantic to Pacific, Luke B. Henry, 214 Title Insurance Building, Reno, Nev., declares the liquor problem which has arisen under so-called prohibition is the gravest of any pressing for national solution. He adds:

"Americans realize that, for the sake of the future welfare of the country, it is necessary to attain and continue the highest degree of national temperance. That proposition is not disputed. The dispute arises over the question presented in deciding as to what method can best accomplish that temperance and still maintain that which is at the foundation of any organized society, namely, respect for and observance of the law.

"The sooner that adherents of any side of this problem realize that the dispute is as to form, or procedure, rather than substance, the sooner will a solution be reached.

"The liquor problem is not a political question and should not be treated along partisan lines. It cuts through the two major political parties and there are extremists on all sides of the question in both parties; consequently, it cannot be solved by an empty, arbitrary pronouncement of partisan policy.

"The problem calls for an honest, frank discussion by all of the people and for a genuine effort to discover a remedy for the ills and by a united, concerted effort to effect that remedy."

Other expressions of opinion obtained in interviews given to the Hearst newspapers are subjoined:

Lewis F. Byington

Lewis F. Byington, prominent lawyer, San Francisco:

"I understand that Mr. Hearst, in offering a prize for a plan by which to achieve temperance in this country as a substitute for the present prohibition law, seeks to do away with conditions that have outraged and violated so atrociously the fundamental rights and personal liberties of our citizens and have tended to debauch the public service.

"Lovers of our American institutions and the laws thereof once gloried in the declaration of William Pitt:

"The poorest man in his cottage bid defiance to all the forces of the crown. It may be frail, its roof may shake; the wind may blow through it; the storms may enter, the rain may enter; the king of England cannot enter—all his forces dare not cross the threshold of the ruined tenement!'

"With many officials these noble principles have lately become but idle words. I understand that Mr. Hearst's temperance prize contest seeks a remedy for these violations of our great fundamental constitutional rights—I wish him all success."

Morris Wolf

Morris Wolf, former police inspector, Boston Police Department, now general manager Wolf Secret Service Bureau, Boston:

"In theory and practice the prohibition laws are wholly wrong. We have only to look around us daily, in our community, in the social circle of which we are members, among our friends and business associates, to fully appreciate the evils of the situation as they exist and to know at first hand with what contempt and utter violation the prohibition laws are constantly being flaunted.

"There can be no doubt that Mr. Hearst's offer of a $25,000 prize for a plan to achieve temperance instead of prohibition is being hailed as a triumphant gesture by the best and most brilliant minds of the country. Those who have the honor, decency and future of the nation at heart are earnest in their desire to bring about a needed change and reformation of the liquor laws."

7 Rules for $25,000 Temperance Contest

The purpose of the contest is to obtain a practicable plan, as a substitute for prohibition, which will secure better actual temperance conditions, which will be more easily possible of enforcement by state and Federal authorities, which will offer less encouragement to crime and tend less to debauch the public service, and which will not so outrage and violate the fundamental rights and personal liberties of American citizens.

The rules and conditions of the contest are simple and are as follows:

1—Every person is entitled to enter the contest, but no person may submit more than one plan.

2—The practicable plan proposed as a substitute for prohibition must be set forth in an article containing not more than 1,000 words.

3—This contest will close April 30, 1929, and no plan which has not been mailed and postmarked on or before that date will be considered.

4—The articles submitted in the contest will be judged by a committee of eminent Americans, the personnel of the committee to be announced at a later date.

5—The full prize of $25,000 will be awarded to the contestant submitting the best plan as a practicable temperance substitute for prohibition.

6—If other plans not awarded the first prize, shall still be considered worthy of some compensattion by the committee, second prize of $5,000 and other prizes of $1,000 each may be awarded.

7—Articles submitting a plan to be considered in this contest may be sent to the temperance contest committee, care of the editor of any one of the following Hearst newspapers: Albany Times-Union, Atlanta Georgian, Baltimore News, Boston Evening American, Chicago Herald and Examiner, Detroit Times, Los Angeles Examiner, New York American, Omaha Bee-News, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Rochester Journal, San Antonio Light, San Francisco Examiner, Syracuse Journal Seattle Post-Intelligencer, Washington Herald, Wisconsin News (Milwaukee).

MICHIGAN KILLS 'LIFE-PINT' LAW

LANSING, Mich., March 22.—(AP.)—Michigan's "life for a pint" law, under which bootleggers were subject to life imprisonment for a fourth offense, was repealed today by the State Legislature.

The amendment will exempt approximately 120 minor felonies, including such "crimes" as wearing a lodge pin without authority from the class of potential life sentence offenses.

Only felonies for which a maximum sentence of at least five years upon first offense is prescribed now are subject to life imprisonment. The maximum sentence for a first liquor offense is four years.

GIRL SWUNG HIGH IN AIR, MAN MUST PAY HER $4,000

PHILADELPHIA, March 22.—(AP.)—The picture of a cloak room girl unexpectedly swung high in the air by an exuberant man who wished to demonstrate his strength on the street was drawn before a jury here yesterday. The girl, Laura V. Smith, received $4,000.

She told the jury how she left the hotel where she was employed to get some sandwiches for herself and other cloak room girls from a restaurant across the street. While she was waiting on the curb for vehicles to pass, she said, H. O. Rambo, a business man of Coatesville, Pa., emerged from the hotel.

She described him as a large, powerful man, possessing unusual strength, who in his exuberance was seized by a sudden impulse as he saw her standing with her back toward him, and without warning seized her about the waist and lifted her at full arms' length above his head, and there held her for a moment despite her struggles.

Miss Smith testified she was held in the air only for a moment before he let her down, but was severely injured.

Rambo denied the incident. He said he left the hotel perfectly sober and that Miss Smith, who was entering at the same time, was struck by a revolving door.

ARREST DOCTOR IN PROBE OF BOY'S DEATH

Howard C. Long, 585 Celeron street, Wilkinsburg, a chiropractor, is at liberty under $1,000 bail today pending a hearing before Alderman George Anderson on a charge of practicing medicine without a license, preferred by Chief of County Detectives George W. Murren.

Long was arrested last night at his home by county detectives following an investigation of the death of Donald C. Davis, 11, of 305 Lippert street, January 24.

A coroner's jury today found that the Davis lad had died from chronic heart trouble and referred the case to the district attorney's office.

Affidavits made by Frank E. Davis, father of the lad and Mrs. Grace Davis, the mother, submitted to the jury, set forth that their son had been given spinal adjustments by Long for several months prior to his death. The district attorney is seeking to learn whether Long was licensed to practice chiropratic. He has offices on the South Side.

2 IN AUTO FIRE DEATH SOUGHT

NEW ORLEANS, La., March 22.—(AP.)—Casting aside all theories other than murder, police today concentrated their efforts in an attempt to find two men seen running from the flaming automobile in which the charred body of Mrs. Janet Baker was found early Tuesday. Police say an arrest and startling disclosures are near.

Based upon statements of a boarder in the home of Mrs. Baker that he saw a man enter Mrs. Baker's car with her and drive off less than an hour before the machine was a mass of flames in Audubon Park, police believe the woman may have been murdered in her home and the body taken to the park for disposal.

The Sun-Telegraph Fifteen Cent Pattern

A POPULAR HOUSE FROCK

For the morning household duties—this Apron Frock is very desirable. It has comfortable lines, and attractive style features. Deep shaped yoke portions, that are cut with short sleeve extensions form the upper part of the frock. The tab extensions are crossed at the center, over the opening below the V neck. Serviceable pockets and a convenient belt, complete this model. Percale was used in this instance, with cambric for yoke, pockets and belt. One may use crepe, cotton prints, dimity or zephyr.

The pattern is cut in four sizes: Small, 34-36; medium, 38-40; large, 42-44; extra large, 46-48 inches bust measure. To make this style for a medium size will require 2¾ yards, 36 inches wide. To face yoke, belt and pockets with contrasting material will require ¾ yard 35 inches wide. To trim with bias binding as illustrated requires 6 yards. The width of the frock at the lower edge with plaits extended is 48 inches.

COUPON.

This pattern will be sent on receipt of 15 cents (silver or 2c and 1c stamps). Make number, name, address, etc., plain. Send to Pattern Department, The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa.

FLOODS AGAIN THREATEN IN SOUTH

CANTON, Mo., March 22.—(INS.)—Residents of Meyer, Ill., across the Mississippi River from here, today abandoned their homes in the face of an imminent levee break and fled to the hills. Farmers in the flat country surrounding the town did likewise.

Workers trying to save the levee were ordered to flee for their lives shortly before dawn when it became apparent that their efforts were futile. Only a picked guard remained to give warning of the actual break.

Canton also is threatened with inundation in case the wind shifts and sends the floor water pressing against the flimsy bulwark that the residents have erected a foot above the dike level.

RAINS IN SOUTH

MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 22.—(AP.)—Reports of two additional deaths and of a new and indefinite rise in the Alabama River and tributaries, due to heavy rains, were developments in the Alabama flood situation today. The condition of the rivers, government observers said, is very unfavorable.

All but a few areas in the three states had returned to normal today and work of rehabilitation was going forward with rapid strides. Disease, according to Red Cross workers, in refugee camps is well under control.

WINE GRAPES' BAN FOUGHT

SAN FRANCISCO, March 22.—(AP.)—Reports that President Hoover's projected prohibition commission would turn its attention to the manner in which California wine grapes are being consumed brought announcement from producing organizations today that steps were being taken to "protect the industry from any drastic regulation."

The Chronicle said Donald B. Cohen, head of the California Vineyardists' Association, is in Washington to oppose any move toward restriction of grape shipments or distribution of unfermented grape juice.

Edgar M. Sheehan, president of the California Grape Growers' Exchange, announced that he had been informed an investigation of the use of wine grapes was contemplated.

"We are of the opinion that this investigation is not designed to trace a small quantity of grapes into the home," said Sheehan. "Our understanding is that only those who may reasonably be suspected of making wine in commercial quantities are to be sought. There is no question but that the bulk of grapes shipped from California are made into wine."

114 DIE AS WOODEN MOVIE THEATER BURNS IN RUSSIA

MOSCOW, March 22.—(AP.)—A fire in a wooden moving picture theater that had only one exit caused the deaths of 114 men, women and children in the village of Igolkino, Vladimir province, 400 kilometers northeast of Moscow. The film caught fire and the flames spread rapidly through the frail structure.

In addition to the dead, 11 were severely injured and six slightly hurt. Because so many of the victims were parents, the education department has taken steps to care for their orphans. The state executive appropriated 15,000 rubles for the bereaved families and will adopt further relief.

An official commission already has started a vigorous investigation into the cause of the fire, which first reports attributed to carelessness of the drunken projection operator. The first companies were powerless when they reached the scene for the building was already nearly consumed.

FUTURE BRIGHT, BANKERS TOLD

The future of American business is a bright one except where the horizon is clouded by the farm problem, members of the Western Pennsylvania group of the Investment Bankers Association were told last night at a dinner to their national president, Rollin A. Wilbur, and executive vice president, Alden H. Little, in the Duquesne Club.

The speaker, President Wilbur, warned against an over-extension of credit for speculation. He foresaw a great flow of capital back to investment bonds after its employment in speculation among stocks.

11 U. S. SHIPPING BOARD VESSELS SOLD TO CHAPMAN

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(AP.)—The final step in one of the largest ship sales in maritime history was taken yesterday with the formal transfer of the United States Lines and the American Merchant Lines to Paul W. Chapman, Inc., of New York, for $16,300,000. Chairman T. V. O'Connor signed for the Shipping Board and Paul W. Chapman for the firm of Paul W. Chapman, Inc.

Eleven ships were included in the deal. Six of them, the Leviathan, George Washington, America, Republic, President Harding and President Roosevelt, all passenger-carrying vessels, belonging to the United States Lines have been called the "Pride of the American Merchant Marine." The other five, combination passenger and freight-carrying ships, were the American Banker, American Trader, American Shipper, American Farmer and American Merchant. All the vessels were in the North Atlantic trade.

The purchase price was $16,082,000 for the ships, and $218,000 for leaseholds on offices and terminal facilities now maintained by the board. The shipping board announced that the contract stipulated that there should be no interruption of service of either of the lines and that the Chapman firm had obligated itself to build two first-class vessels of high speed to supplement the Leviathan in a fast weekly mail service from New York to English Channel ports.

Plan to Call Ohio Mine Strike Denied

BELLAIRE, O., March 22.—Reports that the miners' union is planning a state-wide walkout of non-union mine workers for April 1, the second anniversary of the start of the Jacksonville scale strike that resulted in loss of Ohio by the United Mine Workers of America, were denied by Lee Hall, state president of the mine union, in a statement made public here today. Belief has persisted in mining circles for some time that the union would renew its efforts to get its old members, now working without a scale.

TRAGEDY OF MEXICO HITS LAD IN CHESTER SCHOOL

CHESTER, Pa., March 22.—(AP.)—A 15-year-old boy, pursuing his studies at the Pennsylvania Military College preparatory school, yesterday heard with soldierly bearing that his father, a rebel leader against the Mexican government, had been shot at sunrise.

The father was Gen. Jesus M. Aguirre, who was executed in Vera Cruz Province yesterday, according to dispatches from Mexico City, and the cadet son is Leon Humberto Aguirre.

Standing at military attention in his gray uniform in the office of Col. Frank K. Hyatt, vice president of the college, the boy was told of the tragic end of his father. Earlier in the day he had heard that his father had been captured yesterday and he feared that he would share the fate of his uncle, Simon Aguirre, who was executed last week.

TRY TO SAVE FATHER

The boy is popular at the college and school and when word came that his father had been captured by federal troops, steps were taken to save him from the usual fate of rebel leaders in Mexico.

A telegram to the president of Mexico was prepared by Col. Hyatt suggesting that for the sake of the boy and the general's family, that he be exiled and not executed. But just as the message was about to be sent, information came through the Associated Press that military law had already taken its course. The message was forwarded anyway.

Young Aguirre, who has been taken under the fatherly wing of Col. Hyatt since the Mexican rebellion started, was called to the Colonel's office just about lunch time to hear the news of his father's death.

Col. Hyatt said the boy was game. "He stood erect and looked straight at me," said the Colonel, "when I informed him. Whatever shock it was to him, he showed no outward emotion. I told him he must be a good soldier; and a father to his sister. 'Yes, sir,' he said as he stood at attention. I told him to bear up. He saluted like a soldier, and then there was a tear in his eye as he wheeled to leave my office."

MATES SYMPATHETIC

Just as he left the bugle call for mess sounded and the boy joined the passing line and marched bravely into the dining room.

His buddies instantly divined what had occurred and some of them threw their arms about him and sympathized with him.

During the afternoon the young cadet went through the routine of the school and was out on the parade grounds going through the regular drill.

Later the college authorities gave out a statement from the boy. It said:

"My father was a good man and a brave soldier. In life he held my admiration and deep respect. In death I hold him in reverence.

TO STAY AT SCHOOL

"Father always did what he thought was right. He placed his life in the balance in what he regarded as a great cause and he lost, but I must be brave and worthy of my father.

"I shall continue the program of education at Pennsylvania Military College outlined by him. I came to P. M. C. at the recommendation of Assistant Secretary of War Davison and Gen. Fechet, chief of the United States Army Air Service, close friends of father.

"I know it would be my father's wish for me to take his place as protector of my mother and sister. I shall try to be worthy of his trust and confidence."

Young Aguirre came to the school last September.

Col. Hyatt received a cablegram tonight from the widow of the rebel leader informing him that her husband's body had been delivered to her in Mexico City. Mrs. Aguirre requested the Colonel to notify her son that she wished him to continue his studies at P. M. C., and that he should not come to Mexico for his father's funeral.

BURIED ALIVE

Victims of Rheumatism, With Stiffened Joints and Racked With Pain, Suffer a Living Death.

Mr. Ross Gunage, of Washington, Pa., describes his recovery from this pitiable condition in the following letter:

"For years I suffered with Rheumatism, in the legs, arms and one shoulder. I grew worse and worse. The time came when I rarely could leave the house. My joints were stiff, swollen and inflamed, and I was tortured with racking pain for a large part of every day and night. My friends dropped away and I became like a man buried alive and longing for death to end my sufferings. A kindly neighbor told my daughter about 'World's Tonic' and how the helpful power of plants grown in their natural state are preserved in this famous new remedy. Until this time no medicine that I had ever taken had been of any real help. But I realized that ordinary patent medicines are too often nothing more than mere chemical extracts. So, when I learned that World's Tonic is different, in this important way, I decided to try it.

"The results were amazing. At the end of the first week the poison had left my blood, and the inflammation in my joints had left me. I was still quite stiff but I suffered no pain. Gradually as I kept on using World's Tonic the stiffness seemed to melt away. My stomach, which had also given me a lot of pain, strengthened, and I developed a fine appetite for good hearty food. In the second month I gained twenty pounds in weight, and after a few weeks more I felt like my old self again.

"I will never cease to be thankful for World's Tonic, which has made me a new man. I always will recommend it to my neighbors and friends, for I am sure that they will be benefited when they use it."

World's Tonic is on sale at all Dow's Stores (formerly McCulloch) and all other modern drug stores. (A-67)

DRY LEADERS MEET HERE, PLAN COMMUNITY DRIVES

Revival of local community committees in an effort to put dry forces of the country back of President Hoover's law enforcement program was planned at a meeting held in the William Penn Hotel by the administrative committee of the Anti-Saloon League. Among those here for the meeting were Bishop Thomas Nicholson, of Detroit, and F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the league.

The prohibition situation was reviewed and plans to back the government in making prohibition more effective were discussed.

McBride, upon his return to Washington last night, issued the following statement:

The day was spent in reviewing the entire prohibition situation and in making plans to back up the government in its efforts to make prohibition more effective. The view was expressed that the task is not alone one of federal administration, but also that of a renewed campaign of temperance education and the organization of sentiment in local communities for effective expression to the end that law observance may be promoted and better local and state enforcement secured.

The league plans in detail will touch every state and local community by reviving committees and, where necessary, building new committees in the churches and the different communities in order to put the dry forces of the country back of the President's program.

Great satisfaction was found in the fact that the inaugural address of the President and the enactment of the Jones law had created a new psychology in relation to the question of prohibition and its enforcement. Expression was given that prohibition is about to receive the chance to which it is entitled as a result of the larger appropriation by Congress, the attitude of the President, and the new legislation. The survey of the entire situation gave encouragement to the dry leaders.

Rum Only Vinegar Amazed Prisoner Discharged

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., March 22.—John Murphy, 20, of East Clarksburg, had an unusual experience in City Court here yesterday. Policemen arrested him as he was carrying a jug of liquid in a street, though he ran in an effort to escape them. When arraigned before Judge H. M. G. Ross he pleaded guilty to a charge of transporting moonshine. Somebody smelled the liquid and said it was vinegar. The chemist was called, the liquid was analyzed and sure enough, it was vinegar.

Murphy, dazed, was honorably discharged.

JANE LOWELL, FORMER MOVIE ACTRESS, WRITES NOVEL ABOUT SEA LIFE

By DOROTHY HERZOG.

(Copyright, 1929, by Premier Syndicate).

HOLLYWOOD, March 22.

SEVERAL years ago a young girl chugged into Hollywood by the name of Jane Lowell. She was tall and she was husky and hers was a robust personality that daunted the klieg rays. She worked inconspicuously in pictures. She met Thomas Buchanan, then a scenarist. They were married and later pulled stakes to go East. Miss Lowell has written a book, "The Cradle of the Deep," narrating her adventurous 17 years aboard her father's windjammer rigged schooner, the Minne A. Caine, plying between the South Seas and Australia. Jane Lowell in book form isn't quite so daunting to Hollywood.

The book is selling almost as fast as Scotch—almost. It stamps her a female Jack London and I reckon so long as Jane got her man in this village the village is entitled to comfortable reminiscences.

Some friends of Barbara dropped around to call 'tother day and brought with them a magnificent bug carefully imprisoned in a glass jar. Barbara took to the bug. She wanted it. She offered several choice playthings for it, but its owners were beautifully indifferent. Finally, Barbara hit upon a happy thought:

"I'll give you my little brother for it," she bartered.

But at this promising stage of the trade, parental jurisdiction interfered.

Peggy Wood Making Talkie

ONE of my Brooklyn readers asked me to look up a relative of hers, Spencer Gordon Bennet, who directs for Pathe. I did. Mr. Bennet is getting ready to make a serial with Walter Miller, ycleept "The Black Book." He has the unique distinction of having directed for the same company for 14 years. . . . Peggy Wood, musical comedy star, now emoting in a M. G. M. talky, and her "writer" hubby, John V. A. Weaver, chucked a "New York tea" 'tother afternoon at their Bev Hills home. Rosalie Stewart, the Elliott Nugents, Roland Young, Howard Greer, Jerry Mauisby, the Edward Knopfs, the Benjamin Glazers, John Gilbert, George Abbott and the King Vidors—all present. . . . Corinne Griffith and her husband, Walter Morosco, have sailed for Paris and a six weeks' sojourn. They will visit the playwright, Molnar, ere westward-o-ing it to the kliegs.

Al Jolson has presented everyone working on and in his new picture, "Little Pal," with a novelty sweater. 'Tis black. In white letters, beneath a white defined charcoal head of him is the word MAMMY. Rather whoopee-ish. . . . Camilla Horn is learning how to stay on a horse. And she's serious. Ask her how she sits down. . . . Mrs. Paul Sloane, well known on the concert stage before her marriage, has become such a popular vocal instructor that she has leased a studio. The Sloanes have a baby boy, John Paul, aged 1 year. Asked if the baby could talk yet, Paul chortled: "He can if you know how to interpret!"

Camilla Horn.

NOBODY has said a word, to be sure, but if two and two still equals four, Mary Pickford and Doug Fairbanks are plotting a lil' affiematic surprise. The surprise, so goes my deduction, will co-star them in a picture to go into production shortly after Mary's "Coquette" is publicly silver sheeted. Writers are busy whipping a story into shape. It may be costume, but it will be treated with modern gesture. Doug and Mary have threatened a joint appearance before, but 'pears it's in the 1929 cards.

Doug, apropos of a new paragraph, as some intriguing ideas on this talky racket. He visualizes American films released in foreign countries with the players speaking English. He visualizes foreign exhibitors giving their patrons a libretto to explain what's what. He visualizes the ultimate union of talky pictures, radio and television and the bringing of motion pictures into the home. This will not sound the death knell of theaters, for the urge to mingle en masse will always be uppermost in a mortal's makeup. Verily, the sinema is on the threshold of bigger if not better sociological adventure.

Doug. Fairbanks.

ROCKEFELLER BUYS TOWN, 46 OLD FAMILIES TO MOVE

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., March 22.—(AP.)—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., yesterday bought the entire village of East View, on the outskirts of Tarrytown. He paid $700,000, said to be three to four times the assessed valuation, for dwellings housing 46 families, general stores, postoffice and dance halls.

Most of the property will be used for the new main line division of the Putnam Division Railroad, and the rest becomes part of the vast Rockefeller holdings. It is expected that by May 1 every building will be torn down.

East View was a thriving village as far back as colonial times, when it specialized in the grinding of wheat in mills along the Saw Mill River. Some of the houses which will be torn down have been inhabited by the same families for seven generations.

Among those who will move is Mrs. Mary Jane Conners, who 35 years ago drove her horses to victory on the race tracks of New York.

Rich Thrill Bandit Gets 8 to 20 Years

MEDIA, Pa., March 22.—(AP.)—William H. Schwalbe, so-called "thrill robber," yesterday was sentenced to eight to 20 years in the Eastern Penitentiary after he had pleaded guilty to a charge of robbery in the Criminal Court. Judge W. Roger Fronefield also imposed a fine of $5,000 in addition to the costs of the prosecution, after denouncing the 27-year-old prisoner for his part in the holdup of a truck containing $12,000 worth of plush. Defense counsel said the crime was committed just to get a thrill. Schwalbe, he said, has been raised in a home of wealth and asked for leniency.

Deputy Killed, Dry Violators Suspected

SPENCER, Ia., March 22.—(AP.)—C. L. Plummer, special deputy, sheriff, died yesterday of wounds suffered Wednesday night during an attack by two unidentified men in front of the postoffice. Raid on Liner Nets $30,000 Liquor Haul

INQUIRY DENIED IN INDIA RAIDS

NEW DELHI, India, March 22.—(AP.)—Because discussion of the policy behind numerous arrests of Communists would be detrimental to public safety, the governor general yesterday disallowed a motion by Pandit Motilal Nehru, Nationalist leader, for adjournment of the legislative assembly to permit discussion of the policy.

Alleged Communists were arrested in large numbers by police in sudden raids at Calcutta, Bombay and Poona and masses of literature described as seditious were seized. Members of the "Youth League" were singled out and arrests included that of its chief, Dhundiraj Thegadi, former president of the Trades Union Congress. He was charged with "waging war against the King."

In the assembly Motilal Nehru asked for information on the arrests and searches. J. Crerar, home member of the executive council, replying, said there had been 31 arrests of "persons conspiring to promote the objects of the Communist Internationale, which objects included support of organizations and newspapers opposing the present system of government."

The home member expressed the hope the assembly would approve the government's policy of trying the conspirators under ordinary laws.

New Metropolitan Opera Scores Hit

NEW YORK, March 22.—(AP.)—As his fourth and last premiere of this season, Giulio Gatti-Casazza, managing director, presented at the Metropolitan Opera House last night "Fra Gherardo," an opera based on a tragic incident in medieval history. It was the first time the opera was presented in America. The composer is Ildebrando Pizzetti. Edward Johnson had the title role. A large audience received the premiere with even more fervor than displayed at the other openings of the season. Twenty encores were demanded and received at the curtain scene of the second act, a riot scene in which 250 colorfully-attired players participated.

"Dracula" will play three more performances in the Nixon—tonight, Saturday matinee and night.

One of the two freight lines would be operated by Ellis W. The bus application was made by the Service Auto Transportation Company for permission to carry passengers and baggage between Honesdale and Carbondale.

THE WORLD IS AMAZED

at these New Piano Values

$495

HUNDREDS of Pittsburgh homes have the possibility of piano ownership brought to them through these new Gulbransens—a Grand at $495, an upright at $275 and a Registering Piano at $395 . . . Quality, style, low price have been happily united. Hamilton's stamp this as the best value they have offered in the past 25 years. . . . Sold in Western Pennsylvania by S. Hamilton Co. Our usual liberal terms of payment. Open evenings for your convenience.

GOLDEN tone. Smart dainty design. Quality and value in every feature of construction. The name "Gulbransen" is all the guarantee you need.

CARLOAD after carload of these new Gulbransens is rolling into Pittsburgh in response to recognition of real Super-Values. Always the most popular seller, the new Gulbransens eclipse anything ever produced in the piano business.

Discard the old piano! No possible excuse now for holding onto it. Modernize your home musically with a new Gulbransen Grand at $495. Turn in your old piano.

Don't buy a used instrument! No need of it now. A new Gulbransen is yours for $275, $395 or $495, according to the model you select.

Have a piano of modern finish and appearance! All of these Gulbransens have genuine du Pont Duco finish. Wipe off with a damp cloth. Will not "check" or crack. Upright and Registering Pianos are low, handsome, space-savers. The Grand is the smallest, full keyboard instrument of its type in the world.

Know the manufacturer of the piano you buy. Nothing to conceal here. The name "Gulbransen" on every one. A. G. Gulbransen, the master piano builder, with more than 50 years experience in the music business, has created these exceptional instruments as his Golden Jubilee contribution to the American people. The honest selling price branded on each one at the factory. We want you to have this protection.

MODERN FAGIN GETS TERM FOR FORCING BOY TO BEG

LANCASTER, Pa., March 22.—(AP.)—Morris 'Buddy' Hall, 6, half-starved and ragged, was obediently going from house to house begging for money yesterday when police found him.

"Please don't stop me," Buddy said. "I must have $1 before night or my uncle will beat me."

There is no likelihood of that now, however, for the boy's uncle, William Harris, 24, who lives on the Strasburg road, near here, was sentenced to six months in jail. This modern Fagin was arrested by police who found him asleep in a potato bin in the cellar of his home and charged him with vagrancy.

Buddy came to live with his uncle two weeks ago. And every day since then he has been out on the streets, begging. Each day he failed to collect $1 he was punished. Only once was he rewarded, Harris taking him to the movies.

DRUG ADDICTION SPREAD OVER NATION

WASHINGTON, March 22.—Drug addiction is endemic, or general, throughout the country rather than sporadic, or local.

There is no state, scarcely a community, in the nation which is not threatened by the ever-present menace of dope.

In many states there is a wide discrepancy between the number of violations of the anti-narcotic laws and the number of convictions.

These salient facts on the narcotic evil were discovered in a survey just completed by Federal officials.

EAST AND WEST ALIKE

It was discovered that the center of the narcotic criminal population of America is in Central Illinois, only a few miles west of the center of the total population. The center of the criminal narcotic population for the area east of the Mississippi River is in Central West Virginia, while the center of the area west of the Mississippi is in Northeastern Colorado.

While the largest number of drug addicts are concentrated in the East, states west of the Mississippi River have the highest percentage for each 100,000 of population.

The rate of commitments in prisons for narcotic offenses for the whole United States was 7.1 per 100,000 of population. There were great variabilities for different parts of the country.

RANGE WIDE

For instance, the rates ranged from 59.43 per 100,000 in Nevada and 38.9 in California to 0.0 in Mississippi, New Hampshire and Vermont. The rate indicates a wide but variable distribution of narcotic offenders and probably also differences in local procedure respecting the disposition of these offenders other than by prison commitments.

The rate of conviction of persons not registered (chiefly addicts) under the Harrison narcotic law shows a general distribution of these offenders all over the country, although the percentage per 100,000 is higher west of the Mississippi. For instance, the percentage varies as follows:

Nevada, 34.88 per 100,000; Oregon, 9.99; Washington, 9.24; California, 8.39; Colorado, 8.32; Missouri, 8.99; Michigan, 5.29; Illinois, 3.74; Ohio, 3.36; Virginia, 4.25; Georgia, 2.99; Florida, 3.30; New York, 2.93; Maryland, 3.57; New Jersey, 2.80; Pennsylvania, 1.84, and Massachusetts, 1.30.

UNREGISTERED FIGURES

Reported violations by unregistered persons is largest in the West, the highest percentages being:

Nevada, 43.19 per 100,000; Washington, 11.24; California, 10.33; Missouri, 10.26; Michigan, 7.04; Florida, 10.29; District of Columbia, 13.79; New York, 5.54; New Jersey, 3.51; Pennsylvania, 2.81, and Massachusetts, 2.08.

For violations by doctors, druggists and other registered persons, the percentage rate is highest in Colorado, 11.39; Wyoming, 8.61; New Mexico, 5.17, and Texas, 4.78. Because of a stringent state law it is lowest in California, with .24.

Beaver Falls Church Contract Awarded

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., March 22.—Trustees of the First Presbyterian Church have awarded the contract to Cook-Anderson Company of Beaver for the new church edifice. The church will cost $250,000 when completed. Ground will be broken at special exercises Sunday afternoon.

Woman Convicted Of Shooting Man

BEAVER, Pa., March 22.—Mrs. Edna Swanson, 32, of Rochester Township, was found guilty in court of shooting George Kelly, a neighbor, in the foot last August. Kelly testified he was training dogs, and was ordered away by the woman, but before he could comply she shot him.

Fire in Washington Causes $4,000 Loss

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 22.—Damage of $4,000 was caused by fire to the property of J. N. Henry, 602 North Main street. The flames broke out in the attic, apparently from crossed electric wires. The entire upper part of the building was in flames when the firemen arrived.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

School Girls Arriving Home From East for Spring Vacation

EVEN though Holy Week, the last week of Lent, will be more austerely observed than any other period of the Lenten season, there'll be a bit of cheer. The sub'debs and their brothers will be home for the Easter holidays, and their volatile spirits, repressed by many weeks of school duties, will add a much-needed note of light-heartedness. No matter how profound a misanthrope one may be, it's hard to resist the unforced good spirits of young folks.

Their elders will be pre-occupied. I've heard rumors, in conferring with their sub-deb daughters on final details for debuts next year. Already we've a goodly number of our prospective buds in town.

Anne Stewart, daughter of Mrs. Douglas Stewart, of Solway street, came home yesterday morning from Miss Porter's school at Farmington, and will spend the holidays with her mother. Anne will be a debutante of next fall. She'll also be here for our "little season." Don't you recall I mentioned that her aunt, Mrs. Remsen V. Messler, would give a dance for her on June 24?

Another debutante of 1929 is home from Miss Porter's for the Easter holidays, Mary Louise Bickford, daughter of the Warren I. Bickfords, of Devon road. Mary Louise's younger sister, Gretchen, is also home from the same school.

Laura Evans, a Farmington girl and one of the 1929 bouquet of buds, is spending a few days in Atlantic City with her mother, Mrs. Howard S. Evans, before coming back.

Another of Miss Porter's girls home for Easter is Mary Franklin Robinson, daughter of the William Christopher Robinsons, of Sewickley Heights. Whether Mary will make her bow in 1929 or 1930 hasn't been definitely decided, I understand.

Home from Spence School is Frances Reed, daughter of the James H. Reeds, who'll be presented to society in the fall, too. Frances arrived in the city yesterday.

Elizabeth McKay, daughter of the Thomas J. McKays, who'll make her curtsy to the social world in 1930, came home yesterday, too, with her classmates at Farmington.

When I was talking about Anne Stewart, I forgot to mention that her mother, Mrs. Douglas Stewart, has just returned from a West Indian cruise.

NOW I want to tell you some bits of interesting news about some of our society folks who are still tarrying in the South.

Down at Miami Beach the annual regatta, held Wednesday, was a social as well as a sports event, of course. Among those entertaining were the William J. Morrises, of Pittsburgh and Miami Beach, who had as their guests aboard their yacht, The Wampus, Mrs. A. E. Rickmers, among others.

THE horse show, down at Aiken Wednesday, marked the climax of the season, with more than 1,500 spectators in attendance. Among the women and girls riding mounts in the show was Pittsburgh's young horsewoman, Nancy Lee Byers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Fredric Byers, of Sewickley.

MADELEINE ALEXANDER, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Maitland Alexander, will not be home for the Easter holidays, but will join her father and mother at Palm Beach. She goes to Miss Porter's School at Farmington, Conn. The Alexanders' son, Charles B. Alexander, who is attending the Fay School at Southboro, Mass., is already at Palm Beach.

GEORGE L. M'COOK has just arrived at White Sulphur Springs, where he's stopping at the Greenbrier.

NEWS has reached us that the Raymond Willeys, of Beacon street, have been at the Hotel Del Monte, Del Monte, Cal.

NEW YORK visitors of late include Mrs. Simon T. Patterson, of Darlington road, and Mrs. Howard H. McClintic, of Beechwood boulevard.

MR. AND MRS. RAYMOND N. EHRHART, of the Schenley apartments, have been touring Florida and are now at Miami Beach for the remainder of the season.

THE marriage of Miss Katharine S. Schwartz, daughter of the late J. J. Schwartz, of the North Side, and Albert B. Sabina, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Sabina, of the North Side, was solemnized last night at 6:30 o'clock in the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. John Schillp, Jr., of Pemberton street, North Side, by the Rev. G. D. Simen, of Christ Lutheran Church. The bride wore ivory charmeuse and silk lace with a veil of ivory tulle, and she carried a shower of Ward roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Mabel Thoma, as maid of honor, appeared in green charmeuse and carried Killarney roses. Emerick Sabina was his brother's best man. Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Schillp sang. Mr. and Mrs. Sabina have left for an eastern trip and after April 1 will be at home in West View.

MISS GERTRUDE DOYLE, daughter of Joseph A. Doyle, of Beaver, whose marriage to Wallace Brownlee Hunter will be solemnized April 12 at 7:30 o'clock in the bride's home, has asked Mrs. David E. Jones, sister of the bridegroom, to be her matron of honor. Her own sisters, Miss Suzanne Doyle and Miss Catherine Doyle, will be bridesmaids, and R. A. Shaw is to be best man. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Richard M. Fowles and will be followed by a reception in the Beaver Valley Country Club.

Aspinwall Club Has Unusual Program

MEMBERS of the Aspinwall Woman's Club enjoyed a somewhat unusual program in the clubhouse yesterday afternoon. The literature and arts department presented the program, which was in two parts, the first half being entirely musical and the latter literary. John Austen Holland pleased his audience with two groups of piano numbers, the works of American composers; Mrs. William Wilson Colledge, of the Oakmont Woman's Club, contributed soprano solos, accompanied by Mrs. J. B. Henry, and Mrs. Henry and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Ormond Henry, offered piano duets. Mrs. F. E. Sturgeon, who was chairman of the day, introduced the second part of the afternoon's entertainment by reading "The Wonderful Country of Books," and then presented Miss Emma Mellor Campbell who, in a most delightful book talk, reviewed Strachey's "Elizabeth and Essex," Virginia Wolff's "Orlando," Mrs. Thomas Whiffen's biography, "Keeping Off the Shelf," "Rasputin," by Rene Fulop Miller, and Abbe Dimnet's "The Art of Thinking." Mrs. I. H. Milliken, chairman of the home economics department, has asked Mrs. H. C. Reller, a former president of the club, to give her account of her trip around the world before the next department meeting, and has opened the meeting to the club members in general and their guests. May 3 is set as the club's annual guest night and musical.

NEWSBOYS BALK, HARVARD SOCIALIST PAPER HELD UP

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 22.—(AP.)—A corps of newsboys engaged to deliver "The Harvard Progressive," new magazine conducted by undergraduate Socialists at Harvard University, announced their withdrawal from the Socialists' employ yesterday.

They said they had been warned that they would lose their regular employment if they undertook the new jobs. The debut of the magazine therefore has been postponed until Monday.

It was learned that the warning to the newsboys ensued after the substance of the leading article in the issue became known. Under the title, "President Lowell Should Explain," the article, written by Gardner Jackson, a Harvard graduate, deals with the connection of many Harvard men with the widely heralded Sacco and Vanzetti murder case. Jackson was chairman of the Sacco-Vanzetti defense committee, a body that tried unsuccessfully to save the two radicals from the electric chair.

LOWELL ON COMMISSION

President A. Lawrence Lowell, of the university, was a member of a commission appointed by former Gov. Alvan T. Fuller to investigate the case. The commission's report was unfavorable to the condemned men and the Governor later declined to grant them a pardon or commute their sentence.

Matthew Luce, regent of the university, denied knowledge of the new magazine. He would not venture an opinion on possible action by the university officials after its publication.

The Crimson, an undergraduate daily newspaper, has lent its support to its contemporary in an editorial which described the withdrawal of the newsboys as "a temporary victory for the powers of tyranny."

CAPITALISM BLAMED

Declaring that "the forces of capitalism are being driven to more and more dastardly lengths in their efforts to keep the public in ignorance of the truth about their nefarious schemes of oppression," the Crimson editorial, in conclusion said:

"Every true upholder of American liberty must hope that the Harvard Progressive will emerge the victor, even if its editors have to carry out their promise to peddle the copies themselves."

U. S. SIGNS PACT TO END SLAVERY

GENEVA, March 22.—(AP.)—The United States yesterday deposited with the League of Nations its accession to the anti-slavery convention and thereby took another step in which international circles see an increase of its moral prestige in the world. Following upon the successful reopening of negotiations for entrance into the World Court of Justice, officials believed that yesterday's action immediately would influence the further abolishment of slavery in so-called backward countries and would help to discredit forced labor for public purposes.

The support of the United States for the convention had been sought by American foreign mission organizations and the American Federation of Labor.

Merritt, Discoverer Of Iron Range, Dies

PASADENA, Cal., March 22. —(AP.)—Lewis J. Merritt, 81, discoverer and developer of the great Missabe iron range of Minnesota, died in his sleep yesterday at his home. For many years Merritt was a co-director with John D. Rockefeller and John D. Rockefeller, Jr., in numerous iron mining, steamship and railroad companies in the Great Lakes district. Merritt was the son of Lewis Howell Merritt, one of the founders of Duluth, Minn.

BALDWIN SCHOOL SUIT BEFORE SUPREME COURT

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

IT WAS to be expected that Ben Bernie, my favorite maestro, would come through with a suave remark. Mr. Bernie, at the Stanley this week, (this is not publicity or I'd say ALL this week), is a gentleman who polishes his wise cracks in such fashion that they gently strike the ear, penetrate delicately into what is jokingly referred to as the brain, and there cause that delightful reaction which comes from smooth humor. Mr. Bernie said that in New York they sing "I Faw Down and Go Boom," whereas there occurs a transposition of the line in Chicago which infers that in that city one goes boom first and then one faws down.

I remember Mr. Bernie when he came here in a day when he was not famous in a big way and I still remember how he used to ask his musicians all to start out at once, if possible, as he had reason to believe a critic of Variety was in the house. Since then I have listened to his radio renditions with considerable pleasure. Most leaders on the air intrude themselves too much; Mr. Bernie, it occurs to me, strikes it just right.

That's all right, Mr. Bernie, glad to say a few words to the local firemen about you. No, no, I'm not the fellow who tossed the rose at you the other night. As a matter of fact I didn't get to hear you at all. I gave up after the first half was over in the scrimmage outside the gates. Just a fractured collar-bone—nothing serious.

Officer Harry Abromowitz caught a rabbit on his beat in Oakland the other night and took it to the police station where Sergt. Morgan O'Brien, apparently a rabbit expert, told

Officer Abromowitz that it was a wild rabbit. "How do you know it is?" asked the officer. "Well, wouldn't you be wild if someone was holding you up by the ears."

ONE of the hardest problems in a town of any size is parking. In Pittsburgh there is a Better Traffic Committee steadily at work trying to unravel the skein of difficulties that beset our town. Mainly, he problem is to keep traffic moving. At the other end of the pole, however, is a bother that worries motorists—how to find a means to stand still for a reasonable length of time without engaging a parking lot in inconvenient places or without taking to any of the wharves along the local rivers.

The average motorist taking his machine downtown to visit, say, a theater, is up against the v. d. (very devil). After a 20-minute cruise going through dense traffic he comes to a place that seems free of entanglements and just as he gets himself backed in a gentleman with leggins and a badge comes along and gives him the thumb in a beckoning motion.

The sad part is that there is no relief in sight. I have always been curious to know at what hour those drivers come downtown who manage to get a place just about four doors away from the theater they intend to visit.

No one objects to a walk from his machine, but this thing of being forced to park your car in an alley, whose darkness suggests that you can expect any moment Lon Chaney to hop out of a window, slide down a pole and onto your back, is not so interesting.

If all effort is used now to expedite the movement of traffic, why not consider the fellows who don't care about moving fast so much as they care about getting a place to stay awhile. A few streets blocked off and given over to parking only might help. Of course, the idea can't be much good or it would have been tried long ago. Why not another committee called: The Better Parking Committee?

Spring Is Here, Hurrah! And Pittsburgh's Youngsters Know It

SPRING IS HERE AND A GAME OF JACKS PROVES IT

Pittsburgh today is having its second day of spring—beautiful spring, the poets say. But its' here, really, because Marie Nardel and Dolores Verlotta on the playground at West Liberty Public School say no one plays jacks until it is spring.

"PUT 'ER OVER, YOU SCAREDY-CAT!"

Richard Dlhopoleck on the South Hills sandlot is enthusiastic about his spring, but if his enthusiasm affects his judgment—well, that's why James F. Rice is back there.

CONTRACT CASE APPEALED BY TAXPAYERS

Justices of the State Supreme Court sitting here today heard the appeal in the case of John A. Schuck and other taxpayers against the Baldwin Township school district over the awarding of the contract for the Six Mile Ferry road school house to A. C. Slencamp for $36,990 instead of to the Dick Construction Company, whose bid was $34,740.

Other cases argued included:

Application for charter for the Pittsburgh Chevrolet Dealers' Association appealed from by S. J. Hebeler and others, the lower court having refused a charter.

Max Engelberg doing business as the Prudential Realty Company, appellant, against Mayme G. Brower, a dispute over a real estate sale.

Reinhold Dzaack, appellant, against the Bell Telephone Company. Dzaack had been hurt by a telephone pole falling on his automobile and was awarded a verdict of $8,625. The court held this was excessive and ordered a new trial unless he agreed to accept $6,000. After he agreed the court vacated the order and granted a new trial. He is now appealing against the new trial.

Today's Flagism

On March 22, 1847, an American army and naval force under command of Gen. Winfield Scott bombarded the City of Vera Cruz—one of the important engagements in the brief war with Mexico. It was with little difficulty that Old Glory was definitely planted in Mexican territory until such time as peace was declared—on America's terms.

JOINT MEETING PLANNED

Reports of plans made for the joint meeting of the Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions clubs, April 19, in the Penn Lincoln Hotel, Wilkinsburg, were made yesterday at the regular meeting of the Wilkinsburg Lions Club. Sixty-five members, one guest and a visitor, attended the meeting.

A proposal from the Business and Professional Women's Club of Wilkinsburg, that the Lions join in a public concert during music week, beginning May 6, was rejected. Dr. Irvine D. Metzgar, president of the state board of medical education, was the speaker.

Announcement of the delegation to attend the installation of a Wilmerding Lions Club, was made, and two new members were accepted. They are Edward H. Reed and Dr. Charles Cochran.

WED, DIVORCED, REWED SEEKS SECOND DIVORCE

Asking to be divorced a second time from her husband, whom she had once re-maried, Mrs. Roberta Belle Thompson, 49, of 709 Vermont avenue, Glassport, testified before Judge James H. Gray against William L. Thompson, farmer, of near Volant, Mercer County, Pa.

The first time she divorced him, in 1908, was on grounds of misconduct. She took him back and remarried him in 1909, and now charges him with extreme cruelty. She told Judge Gray he had not worked for eight years. Once, when she had broken her arm by falling off a hay wagon, she said Thompson forced her to plow a field while she had her arm in a sling. When she refused to spend her money for sheep feed she said he hit her with his fist and knocked her into the bathtub. He threatened to slash her throat with a butcher knife, it was testified, and declared he would shoot her and hide her body in the woods. She finally left him about a year ago and is earning her living in Glassport.

GIRL MOLESTER CAUGHT, FINED

Mildred Pricer, of 4650 Howley avenue, testified in Morals Court today that for a second time, last night, Gust Bona, 32, no home, had seized her and had thrown her to the ground. Last night's attack, she testified, took place at Penn avenue and Forty-fifth street. Pedestrians heard her cries and caught Bona after a chase. He admitted seizing the young woman, but said he was drunk. He was fined $100 with the option of spending 60 days to the workhouse by Magistrate A. D. Brandon.

SCHOOL BONDS APPROVED

Swissvale's new school, to be known as the Dickson school, became a possibility yesterday when voters of the borough approved the $250,000 bond issue at a special election. Less than a thousand voters visited the polls, it was said.

The building is to be erected at Monroe street and Shoyer avenue, adjacent to the Swissvale athletic field. It will contain 24 classrooms, an auditorium, gymnasium and a manual training department. A meeting of the school board with the architect was held last night for acceptance of plans and specifications.

ASK $45,000 IN TAXI CRASH

Joseph W. Shidel and wife and William P. Lyons, of McKeesport, have filed suits in Common Pleas Court totalling $45,000, against the Tube City Taxi Company as the result of a fatal collision between a taxicab and the Shidel automobile February 24. Mrs. Lyons was killed and her husband asks $25,000 recompense. The Shidels ask $10,000 each for their injuries. They charge the taxi came around a street car at St. Clair and Sixth streets, McKeesport, and crashed into the automobile.

Reported Killed Spouse Returns, Wife Says

A telephone call from her husband in New York telling her that he had shipped for three years aboard a sailing vessel, followed later by an anonymous call saying he had been killed in an automobile accident in Ohio, and then his appearance intoxicated at her home some time later, made up some part of the anxiety in which she was kept, according to Mrs. Anna C. Morgan, 1606 Wesley street, McKeesport, in her suit for divorce before Judge James Gray against Dr. Dewi Morgan, a chiropractor, of First street, Duquesne.

Dr. Morgan was her second husband, the woman testified.

KILLER MISSES DEATH CHAIR

Tony F. Siciliano, Logan street fruit dealer, who shot Frank Sesto, Jr., a competing merchant, to death on September 1 last, will escape the electric chair. He was found guilty of first degree murder on January 17, and the death penalty was recommended. But Judges James B. Drew and Charles M. Culver offered to grant a new trial today on condition that Siciliano plead guilty to murder in the second degree. He promptly did so, and was sentenced to serve from 10 to 20 years in the penitentiary.

Willis Hill, steamboat fireman, was found guilty of felonious assault and battery by a jury in Criminal Court today and was sentenced to serve from 1½ to 3 years in Western Penitentiary by Judge J. He pleaded guilty to a charge of jail breaking in escaping from the West Elizabeth lockup, but sentence was suspended.

Rules of the Quest

1. This is a selective search, not a motion picture popularity or beauty contest. It is an honest and sincere effort to find the Typical American Girl.

2. A National Committee of Judges appointed by Smart Set will make the final decision and make the $5,000 award in New York, at a date set by the publisher of Smart Set Magazine. This committee is composed of Rosamond Pinchot Gaston, Vina Dalmar, Jesse L. Lasky, John Golden, Guy Hopp, and Margaret Sangster, Editor of Smart Set, and a seventh member to be selected.

3. A local committee of judges appointed by each co-operating newspaper will select the regional winner.

4. A candidate cannot propose herself. She must be proposed by some individual or organization. This proposal must be sent to the Quest Editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

5. Each candidate's proposal must be accompanied by her photograph, biographical sketch, listing age, weight, height, coloring, education and her social, business and athletic activities. Her qualifications will be considered by the committee of judges appointed by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

6. The minimum age is 17.

Three other youths, Salvador Petrocco, of 1 Pride street; John Soroko, of 15 South Twelfth street, and Joseph Kowol, of 904 Winnebago street, were held on charges of larceny and breaking and entering in connection with thefts of provisions at the South Side market house.

In Mill 45 Years Gets Service Medal

Harry A. Shephard, Bell avenue, North Braddock, a school director of the borough, has received his 45-year service medal from the rolling and heating department of the Edgar Thomson Steel Works of Braddock. Shephard was born on the present site of the steel mill 60 years ago.

SCHOOLS, STORES JOIN IN QUEST FOR TYPICAL GIRL

And the Quest goes on!

The latest quirk in the search conducted by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph for the Typical American Girl is the enthusiastic part several of the department stores of the city and the women's dormitories at Carnegie Institute of Technology are taking in it.

The several department stores joining in the Quest are working in different ways toward the same end. Some work directly through the employes' association of their firm, others encourage the girls individually to aid in the search and yet others are attempting to secure nominees from each floor.

TECH JOINS HUNT

At Tech, the Dormitory Council is making arrangements to have each of the 12 dormitories represented by one or two nominees.

The arrangement of the dormitories is by groups of two to four from each class, giving the freshmen, the sophomores, the juniors and seniors each a group.

There can be no doubt that the young ladies offered by these organizations will be prominent in their fields of activity. Will they be typical? Will they exemplify the spirit of America's girlhood?

VACATION AND CASH

Someone is going to be picked from this great group of the Pittsburgh District's nominees to represent Western and Central Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia in the final contest in New York City, where 16 other girls will go from all over the country to enjoy a week's recreation at the expense of the Hearst papers and Smart Set Magazine and to compete for the $5,000 cash prize which is to become the property of the Typical American Girl.

The Quest Editor emphasizes that every care is being and will be taken to keep objectionable features from this contest. The Typical American Girl is not to be paraded before the public or exploited in any way by the Hearst Newspapers and may be assured of the best possible protection of her dignity.

Send in nominations now before the rush of the last few days. The judges will be named in this paper the first of next week. Watch for them—their eminence in their professional fields will please you!

Will Rogers Says

NEW YORK, March 22.

Best line in the news comes from Mexico. Gen. Acosta wired the President, "Captured Gen. Aguirre, and am holding court martial." President Portes Gil answered, "Take photographs before and after."

No wonder comedians come from Oklahoma. Did you ever read our constitution? It says, "A governor is to be duly elected and seated, and serve till duly found out, and unseated."

It's the one state where a lieutenant governor always gets a break, if you can call it that.

Yours, WILL.

Falls Through Trap Door, Asks $25,000

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 22.—Damages of $25,000 are asked for injuries alleged to have been suffered by Libe Rubin when she fell through a trap door that had been left open in the floor of the Barone fruit store at 161 West Main street, Monongahela. The suit was filed against Emil A. Grodecour, owner of the building, Tony and Marine Barone, the tenants, and the Donora Plumbing and Heating Company, which was doing the work in the basement.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy cheeks—sparkling eyes—most women can have. Dr. F. M. Edwards for 20 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave his patients a substitute for calomel, made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. Know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—now and then to keep fit. 15c, 30c and 60c.

Sign This Petition and Help to Cut Taxes

To the Congress of the United States:

We, the undersigned, respectfully urge that the Congress of the United States give immediate consideration to the proposition that there be a downward revision of all income taxes on all earned incomes such as salaries or fees, or commissions for personal services. We urge this because of the many instances where wage or fee or commission earners sometimes have just a few years of good incomes and prior to and after that period have substantially less incomes. Their period of better earnings which might give the average wage earner a chance to accumulate some capital is heavily taxed and they seldom have a new opportunity for the accumulation of savings which might tend to make more useful citizens of them.

Labor in general, lawyers, doctors, architects, clerical workers, salesmen, dentists, engineers, journalists, accountants, actors, motion picture actors, singers, musicians, and all the other professional people are in the same plight in the matter of earned income as distinguished from earnings on capital, and since they represent a great percentage of the citizenry of the country, we beg the gravest consideration of this proposition. Each signer below hereby enrolls as a member of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph League for the Downward Revision of Taxes on earned incomes and will work with that newspaper toward the end stated.

Permission is hereby granted the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph to list the signer in the proper Labor, Clerical or Professional Division of the said League for presentation of our signatures to the United States Congress for the stated purpose.

The signer is not obliged to make any kind of contribution or to do anything except to give his moral support to this movement.

ERIE MAN SLAIN AT WORK; HUNT FOR WOMAN

ERIE, Pa., March 22.—Mystery surrounds the slaying of Michael Geckel, 58, fireman at the Pennsylvania boiler works, 12th and East avenues, whose body was found yesterday in the boiler room. The firm has offered a reward of $1,000 for the arrest and conviction of the slayer.

Police are of the opinion that revenge was the motive for the shooting, and said it was evident that Geckel's assailants had taken him by surprise, standing in the south door of the boiler rom about 25 feet away and firing a single shot. At the time of the killing Geckel was the only man in the plant, having relieved the night watchman sometime before. When workmen arrived, they found no steam in the shop and upon investigation, found Geckel dead on the floor in the boiler room.

Employes at the plant were of the belief that Geckel was slain by a man who sought his job. Police, however, are seeking a woman who is expected to throw light on the tragedy. Geckel, who was a Roumanian, carried four life insurance policies, aggregating in excess of $3,500, his friends say. He leaves a widow and three children in Europe.

"KONJOLA FIRST MEDICINE THAT BENEFITED ME"

Happy Experience With New Remedy Is Described by Grateful Pittsburgh Man.

What happiness has Konjola brought into the world! What gladness it has put into the hearts of countless thousands who have found in this new medicine the first and only relief after years of seeking health so long denied them! How this super-compound of 32 ingredients works is being explained by the Konjola Man, who daily is meeting scores of sufferers at the Dow Drug Company (formerly McCulloch's) Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, this city, and pointing out to them the amazing record of success that Konjola has achieved wherever this astonishing remedy has been introduced. It is a remarkable fact that Konjola triumphs over those obstinate cases that have baffled everything else tried. This is so because Konjola attacks the disease at its source. It goes right after causes. Every ingredient of this super-compound has a mission to perform in clearing the system of poisons. Konjola paves the way for new, abundant and glorious health. Take, for instance, the case of Mr. Ulysse Grotticelli, 636 Boggs Avenue, Mt. Washington, Pittsburgh. Mr. Grotticelli, who was assistant professor of chemistry at Naples, Italy, called on the Konjola Man and made this astounding statement:

MR. ULYSSE GROTTICELLI

"How I wish that all who are ill could know of Konjola. It was the first medicine that benefited me. I had been suffering from constipation for years and years. My food never digested right; it always fermented and formed gas which pressed against my heart, causing wild palpitation. I was unable to sleep good at night and was forced to rise several times because of bladder actions. This had been my condition for years and although I tried many medicines I failed to find one that reached the source of my troubles.

"The many recommendations that Konjola had been receiving in Pittsburgh convinced me that there was real merit to this medicine. Finally I made up my mind to find out what it would do for me. I bought just one bottle and was hardly prepared for the surprise it gave me. Before I had finished it I knew that, at last, I was on the road to health and traveling fast. My stomach was strengthened and cleansed; food digests perfectly and I have regular bowel movements daily. I can eat what I please without any distress afterward. I enjoy my work a great deal more and have greater energy and vigor. Words fail me when I tell what I think of this wonderful medicine."

So it goes; success after success when Konjola is given its chance. It is logical to believe that what this modern medicine did for Mr. Grotticelli it will do for all who suffer—and for you.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Company (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, where he is meeting the public daily, introducing and explaining the merits of this master medicine.

Approve this New Way to Whiten Teeth without Injury!

Kolynos Dry-Brush Technique Removes the "Yellow"

Whitens Teeth

3 Shades in 3 Days!

A half-inch of Kolynos on a dry tooth brush—just try it for 10 days and see the difference in your teeth.

Teeth 3 shades whiter in 3 days and lustrously beautiful in 10! And an entirely new sensation of oral cleanliness!

The Correct Principle

Kolynos is a highly concentrated, double-strength dental cream of unique germicidal and antiseptic properties. It is active in principle—foams in the mouth. Thus you can use it on a dry tooth brush.

This means you can use it full strength; also that the brush bristles retain enough of their stiffness to properly scrub the tooth surfaces, penetrate the crevices between the teeth and the pits and fissures in the teeth.

The "live" and antiseptic Kolynos foam spreads itself all over the teeth and throughout the mouth. It dissolves and washes away the mucoid coating on teeth that makes teeth look yellow and dingy. It cleans teeth down to the gleaming, white, naked enamel without harm.

The foam pushes it way into all the crevices between the teeth. It cleans out and disinfects all those places where food particles lodge and decay. It stimulates the gums and combats tartar. Destroys germs and mouth acids and makes the whole mouth sweet and clean.

Try it FREE!

Kolynos comes in two sizes—30c and 50c tubes—at all toilet counters. But a two-weeks' tube of Kolynos is free for the asking. Mail the coupon or a postcard.

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

Man Is Woman-Ruled

"ARE men bossed by their private secretaries?" asks an editorial writer.

ARE they? Oh, my! If I wanted to rule a man, I wouldn't try to marry him. I'd first get a job as his confidential secretary.

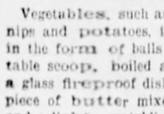
The woman who knows most about a man is not the one who darns his socks and shares his pillow; she's the one who files his letters and shares his business secrets. Not the one who counts his laundry and cooks his dinner—but the one who keeps track of his engagements and cooks up his alibis.



HELEN ROWLAND

A man may value his wive above rubies and even above his favorite collar button—but only a good private secretary is invaluable!

Between his wife and his personal secretary, many a perfectly good man is leading a "double life" without even suspecting it. He moves like a shuttle between these two women, morning and evening—and half the time he doesn't know which one means more to him.

* * *

A small boy may be kept in order by one nurse, but it takes two women to keep any man going straight.

* * *

It takes two women to think for him, to remember for him, to fib for him, to pick up things after him, to find things for him, and to keep his desk and his conscience clean. Whether he wants it or not, two women are continually revolving around him, like the sun and the moon—and staving off all the other little constellations and shooting stars that try to wedge in between.

* * *

Two pairs of eyes are always watching him; four hands are taking turns at pulling on the curb-bit, and two nervous systems are alternately getting worked up over his carelessness, his "cruelty" or his digestion.

* * *

The only chance he has to side-step from the straight and narrow path is between the breakfast table and the office—or between his desk and the dinner table.

And if wives and secretaries would only co-operate, no man would ever get very far from the dotted line!

Certainly. Every man is woman-ruled, these days. But of the two women who run his life and make his world and guide his thoughts and keep his morals vacuumed, the wife is by far the less influential. She is only the auxiliary manager or assistant boss. It is his secretary, whom he consults in all the important matters, and to whom he confesses all his worries and even his mistakes and sins and weaknesses.

And—Shush!—if he had to dispense with either of the two, he could probably get along far more easily without the woman who shares his breakfast than without the woman who shares his secrets.

* * *

If Peggy Joyce or Lorelei Lee should cast an eye on the man I loved, I MIGHT put up a fight. But if his private secretary should make up her mind to marry him, I should hand him over without a murmur. I'd know that I could never win against THAT combination!

Attractive Additions

Vegetables, such as carrots, turnips and potatoes, if scooped out in the form of balls with a vegetable scoop, boiled and served in a glass fireproof dish with a tiny piece of butter mixed with them and a light sprinkling of chopped parsley, are attractive additions to any dish.

Polish for Tinware

A good polish for tinware can be obtained by making into a paste with water about one wineglassful of finely-powdered whiting and a quarter of pound of ordinary mottled soap, shredded. Apply with a piece of flannel, polish with a dry cloth and a little powdered whiting.

Violets -:- -:- By Truda Dahl

VIOLETS! The emblem of faithfulness! And she wonders, as she fastens the cluster of the first tiny flowers she has found this spring, whether HE knows their meaning. He may not know the language of the violets, but he cannot mistake the language of Love. And this he sees shining from her dewy eyes so closely resembling the flowers which she fastens to his coat.

Shy, sweet flowers—how symbolic they are of everything that is dearest and loveliest in Love! To me if there is one flower in the world that is symbolical of everything in love, it is the violet! Unafraid, shy, timid and lovely, reflecting the blue of the skies and the depth of the universe in its lovely heart—how can it be otherwise! Therefore, I say, Love's own flower, the violet!

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Kissing Baby a Very Dangerous Practise

"DO not kiss me. I don't want to get sick."

Newark, N. J., has a sensible health commissioner. He is my friend, Dr. Charles V. Craster, who is ever alert to maintain the health and well-being all its citizens of his city and Commissioner Craster has worried over the dangerous spread of colds, pneumonia and other diseases of the breathing organs of children. He is determined to do everything humanely possible to spare the innocents.

DR. COPELAND

What do you suppose this progressive man purposes doing? He is going to send to every baby born in Newark a bib printed with the warning I quoted: "Don't kiss me. I do not want to get sick."

All the old fogies will laugh at this. Too many persons, who know better, will laugh at it. But everybody who realizes the infectious or cantagious possibilities of colds and other diseases of the breathing apparatus, won't laugh. They will wonder why somebody didn't do such a thing long, long ago. Bravo, Dr. Craster!

I doubt if anybody in the world loves babies more than I do. I am positively rude at time, stooping over a baby carriage to get a glimpse of a sweet, smiling baby. It is a sight for sore eyes!

Of course you want to kiss the baby. I wanted to kiss mine and I am afraid I did, too many times. But I know better now.

There is not so much business nowadays for the old-time cowboy, with his pistols and aggressiveness. I can suggest a real place for the cowboy, however, a place more important than the one he filled so well a generation ago. Let's put him on guard to keep the babies from being kissed!

Do you know that a man with a hard cold or the influenza, who sneezes in a crowded street car fails to cover his face—do you know that he is really more dangerous than a man with a loaded pistol? If a crazy man fired one shot into a street car he might inflict a painful wound, but his chance of killing somebody is not nearly so good as the sneezer has.

"Droplet infection," that is the infection from the infected secretions of a person with an infectious disease of nose, throat or lungs, is a real menace to the public health. Kissing a dear little baby by such a person should be made a state's prison offence.

If you must kiss the baby, kiss the top of the head, or the back of the neck. By the way, that's a fine place to plant a kiss. That sort of a kiss may tickle enough to make the baby laugh and it won't do any harm. But, I beg of you, don't kiss the baby on the mouth.

If the baby could think and talk and knew the significance of it, I am sure it would say in no uncertain tones: "Don't kiss me, I don't want to be sick."

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Malicious Gossip

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

There is a young girl, 16 years of age, who calls at my home frequently and always with a line of gossip. The old saying is, "A dog that will carry a bone will take one." I find this is very true, as I keep hearing things from her younger sister—terrible things about me. My husband does not like to have her call here, but what can I do when she comes so much? I cannot hide, as she will search the whole house. I always treat her very well. Should I continue treating her well or should I snub her or simply tell her not to come?

MRS. C.

A GOOD adage that you quote—I'd never heard it, and I am delighted to have it in my collection. This young gossiper is, I should say, an extremely dangerous person to have about, and the sooner you stop her visits the better. Life is too short and too lovely to have this kind of visitor poisoning it. Since she is a bore and a nuisance and a vicious influence in your home, make it clear, by your manner, that she is not welcome. If she does not interpret this soon enough or clearly enough, explain to her that your busy days do not permit so much time spent in chatting of things that do not interest you.

Passing Plates

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

When there are four persons seated at the dinner table, one on each of the four sides, and the hostess serves a plate to the one seated on her left, does the person served keep the plate or pass it on to the one at the end?

2. When at a night club or cafe with a gentleman is there any form I could follow when ordering dinner? Do I not give my order to my escort and he in turn to the waiter?

3. Are creamed peas eaten with a fork or spoon?

A READER.

THE hostess should indicate for whom she is passing the plate. That is, she should say, as she passes the plate, "This is for Mary," or "Will you please pass this to Mrs. Allen?" or "Please keep this for yourself, Florence," or "Alice, this is for you, and I hope that this is the way you like your meat."

2. Yes, you give your order to the gentleman with whom you are dining, and he gives both orders to the waiter.

3. With a fork. Of course, if you insist on enjoying the "last drop" of cream sauce, it is not criminal to use the spoon!

LOVE'S AWAKENING

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Marion Agrees to Meet Stepfather "Halfway"

MARION considered my question thoughtfully, evidently weighing her answer.

"No, I wouldn't say my overhearing that long-ago talk of yours and Uncle Dicky's is wholly to blame for my not—liking—Mr. Underwood," she said slowly, "but it certainly started me along the road to hating him. Ever since he came back I've been wondering if he'd get around mother and try to keep me away from her."

"Marion!" Her name was an exclamation of horrified reproof.

"Yes, I know, Auntie Madge, that's pretty raw," she said ruefully, "but I just couldn't help it. I think I'm over that particular angle, though. It seems to me as though he really was trying to be decent and if he keeps it up I'm going to try to meet him halfway."

There was an unconscious egotism in her voice, which roused all my combative instincts, but I held firm to the counsel I had given Lillian. Far better to let things rest as they were until the girl's departure for school. One thing, however, I felt that I must say to her.

"I think that is all your stepfather asks or expects that you meet him halfway," I told her, "but there is one thing I must tell you. Mr. Underwood is a very different man today than when he and your mother separated. All the selfishness and ruthlessness seem to have been burned out of him by his terrible experiences. You must not judge him today by what he was then. Some day when you are older, I am going to tell you his story—and your mother's in the days when you were kept away from her. I think it will help you understand them both better."

"Why not tell me now?" she asked quickly.

"No, you are not ready for it yet," I said firmly. "Now I'm going to give you the advice I just gave your mother. Take these last weeks with her that your stepfather's thoughtfulness has provided, and enjoy them to the utmost without worrying about him at all. He will have your mother's society all next year while you are at school, so there is no need for you to be quixotic over the matter. As I told you before, if you feel honestly that you can ask him to come back before your vacation ends, do so by all means."

I did not tell her that by so doing she could accomplish the ancient paradox of "eating her cake and having it, too." I was very sure that Harry Underwood, no matter how gratified he might be by her invitation, would be very careful not to accept it. But there was no use discouraging the first generous gesture she ever had made toward him.

"I'm sure I can do that," she said thoughtfully, "and—I'll try awfully hard to to be good—and I do like him a little better than I did—at least I don't dislike him so much"—she amended honestly. "But I do love you,' she finished emotionally, rushing toward me and sweeping me into a "bear hug."

"And I do love you, dearest," I told her truthfully as I left her, feeling as if one of the problems troubling me at least held possibilities of being worked out to a satisfactory solution. If only the mystery concerning the checks, which Dicky's young niece was making out to the unknown "Janet Rawdon" held as promising a clue, I should be content. But since even Harry Underwood's keenness and resourcefulness had failed to catch the name and address on the envelope, Mary had mailed at Riverhead, I was distinctly discouraged.

No use brooding over the matter, however, and I busied myself with the dozen or so seemingly inconsequental trifles, which eat up the time of the mistress of a house. When I had finished, I joined Lillian on the veranda while Mary and Marion played apparently interminable sets of tennis on the courts back of the lilac hedge.

Then the big new car with Mr. Underwood at the wheel purred into the driveway, and I saw Lillian's fingers tighten upon the telegram her husband had caused to be sent to him, and which she must pretend to think genuine.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Saturday, March 23

THIS day's astral activities bespeak the joys, the benefits and aspirations of true life and true love, with the capacity for maturing all that they forecast, either in the direction of business or personal ambitions. Both departments of being will be crowned with success and gratification. Speculative and financial operations should thrive under a benign and expanding Jupiter, and social, domestic, romantic and artistic associations should react to the benefices of Venus.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of an important year, with matters of both personal and business import flourishing and bringing desired fruition and gratulation. But there is slight peril from glibness and writings.

A child born on this day should be endowed most graciously and sturdily with all those qualities and graces making for personal happiness and worldly success. But a tendency to expediency, "cleverness," or prevarication should be nipped in the bud in youth.

Menu for Sunday's Dinner

By PRUDENCE PENNY

SUNDAY MENU
Crown of Roast Pork,
Roast Potatoes,
Creamed Brussels Sprouts,
Frozen Cheese Salad,
Chocolate Sponge Roll,
Coffee.

IT'S the sort of weather for roast pork, and a crown of roast pork is a dainty way to serve it. Select two loins, containing ribs. Trim the rib ends to make them even without making them too long, and dredge with seasoned flour—which means that you add salt and pepper to the flour before dredging the meat with it.

Place in a baking pan, rib ends down, also put in the pork trimmings. Bake in a hot oven for two hours, basting every 15 minutes with the drippings. When done, remove to a heated platter, the ribs up. Surround with browned potatoes and small baked apples, alternating.

Then, for the final touch of exclusiveness, garnish the rib ends with paper frills, and place a large bunch of fresh, crisp parsley in the center.

NEXT comes the Brussels Sprouts recipe—and it is an excellent one, too. Clean a quart of the sprouts by removing the outer imperfect leaves and cutting the stalk off close to the head. Soak in cold water for 10 or 15 minutes, to remove dirt and any unwelcome insects.

Cook rapidly in boiling salted water in an open kettle. From eight to ten minutes of cooking is sufficient. It is easy to overcook sprouts, and to make them soft and unpalatable. Drain thoroughly.

IN the meantime, make a white sauce of a tablespoon of butter, a half tablespoon of flour, a half teaspoon of salt, pepper to taste, and either a cup of milk, or a half cup of milk diluted with a half cup of meat stock. Pour the sauce over the sprouts and serve at once.

A frozen cheese salad is a choice delicacy. Mash a package of cream cheese, add three tablespoons of an eggless mayonnaise slowly, blending well. Add a half cup of whipped cream, a half cup chopped dates, a half cup of crushed pineapple and two tablespoons of lemon juice. Pour into a mold and pack with ice and salt. Serve on lettuce leaves, either with or without salad dressing.

AND here's the Chocolate Sponge Roll recipe: Add a cup of sugar to two well-beaten eggs, then quarter cup of hot water. Add a teaspoon of vanilla, two squares of melted chocolate and two tablespoons of shortening, without beating. Sift together one and a quarter cups of flour, two teaspoons of baking powder, and half teaspoon of salt together three times and sift into the mixture, folding in as lightly as possible.

Pour into a large baking pan lined with oiled paper (the batter should not be more than quarter inch thick) and bake in a slow oven about 20 minutes. Turn out on a wet hot cloth. Remove the crust from all four sides, spread with plain icing, and roll while still warm.

THERE is something very attractive about escalloped foods served steaming hot in good-looking casserole dishes. They look as though they ought to taste good, and they usually do!

One of the many virtues of escalloped dishes is that they require milk—and milk adds nourishment and tastiness.

ESCALLOPED ASPARAGUS is made by placing four hard-boiled eggs, divided in halves, at the bottom of a greased baking dish. Cover with fresh cooked or canned asparagus cut in pieces.

Prepare a white sauce of 1½ tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, salt, pepper and 2 cups of milk. Pour over the asparagus. Cover with buttered crumbs and bake in a moderate oven until crumbs are crisp and brown.

Try an escalloped meat and vegetable dish combined for a nourishing main course. Melt three tablespoons of butter, add two tablespoons of flour, salt and pepper and one-quarter cup milk diluted with three-quarter cup chicken or meat stock.

Stir until the boiling point is reached. Into a buttered casserole put a layer of cooked spinach, then a layer of cooked chicken cut in medium-sized pieces. Cover with the milk sauce. Repeat and cover with buttered crumbs. Bake until heated through and crumbs are brown.

FOR the next bridge, why not serve escalloped salmon or tuna fish, instead of a tuna fish salad? Drain the liquid from the fish and flake. Make a white sauce.

Put a layer of the fish into a buttered baking dish, then put slices of boiled potatoes and hard-boiled eggs. Cover with the white sauce. Repeat. Cover with crumbs and bake until brown.

If you use tuna fish, chopped pimento and parsley make tasty additions.

POTATOES can be served in this form, too. Boil the potatoes in their jackets until they are almost done. Remove the skins and cut in quarter-inch slices. Arrange in buttered baking dish in alternate layers, sprinkling each with salt, pepper and grated cheese. Repeat. Add milk, cover and bake in slow oven until potatoes are tender.

And if you want to serve a food that's simply filled with vitamins, try escalloped cabbage. Cut a small head of cabbage into eighths and cook in boiling salted water for eight minutes. Place layer of boiled cabbage in oiled baking dish, then cover with white sauce, green pepper and cheese. Repeat. Sprinkle top with buttered crumbs and bacon chips and brown in medium oven.

DUTCH APPLE CAKE—Sift together 2 cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1 tablespoon sugar and teaspoon salt. Mix in 4 tablespoons shortening. Add 2-3 cups water to a beaten egg, and then add this to the dry ingredients to make a soft dough. Spread one-half inch thick in greased pan. Pare and core 4 apples into eighths and press into dough. Dot with butter. Mix together ¼ cup sugar and 2 teaspoons cinnamon and sprinkle over top of cake. Bake in moderate oven until apples are tender—about 20 minutes. Serve hot with hard sauce or cream.

TOMATO SAUCE—Two tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon chopped onion, 1 bay leaf, 2 tablespoons flour, ½ cup water, 1½ cups tomato pulp, pepper, 1 teaspoon salt.

Cook the onion and bay leaf in melted butter until golden brown. Remove from the fire, add the flour and stir until smooth. Add the water, tomato and seasoning. Boil

Now!—An Utterly New Way in Home Washing

That Ends Both Soap Fade—"Soap Eat" of Fine Things Regardless of How Often Washed

We washed one of these cob-webby chiffon stockings 31 times, with ordinary soap and found that its color still matched that of its mate.

Gold encrusted chinaware washed 386 times with ordinary soap, without trace of dishpan wear or fade.

Stops Ruining Fine Things—Cuts Washing Time One-Half or More

NEW light has been thrown on saving fine fabrics from ruin and fade and fine china from dishpan wear, that often saves the average family hundreds of dollars yearly, and the housewife countless heartaches.

A fadeless way of heavy washing has been found. A way that makes the worst "hard" water and ordinary household soap into a perfect NO-FADE cleanser.

Fine lingerie is washed 50 times or more—without noticeable fade. Expensive hosiery saved from fade and wear almost unbelievably. And results are proved before this new way goes to you.

What It Is

It is a preparation called Climalene that you add to your washing water. Just a tablespoon or two.

Instantly, it takes all the harshness out of that water. Makes it soft as rain water. So soft that it does the work with ONE-FOURTH the soap you use now. And thus ends danger of "soap eat" to fragile things.

At the same time, due to certain bland cleansing agents, it instantly DISSOLVES all dirt, stains and grime. And thus cuts washing time, too—in either dishpan or washing machine—ONE-HALF or more.

10¢ packages (12 OZ.)

CLIMALENE

Use the soap or soap flakes you ordinarily do. Then see for yourself the amazing results. Some 2 million women now are using Climalene—for washing, for cleaning and in the dishpan.

Laboratory Proved

To assure results to you, we buy fine things, lingerie and delicate fabrics. Then by repeated washings, try to spoil or fade them.

We wash delicate lingerie, often 50 times—without perceptible fade. Children's rompers, 60 to 90 times. That's over a year's home washing.

We wash gold encrusted china hundreds of times—without a trace of gold gone. And thus prove the blandness of this way.

Consider, please, what those things mean to you. Consider, too, that the minute you put this creation into water, all harshness is taken away—your hands protected from roughness, made soft, smooth and white. Then try it.

Remember the name—Climalene. Your grocer has it in 10c and 25c packages.

three minutes, stirring constantly. Strain and serve. A can of tomato soup, undiluted, makes an acceptable sauce with merely heating.

BROILED HAM ON TOAST—Broil thin slices of boiled ham under the grill, and place on slices of buttered toast. For the Creole sauce chop together one onion, one green pepper and one stalk of celery. Saute this mixture in two tablespoons melted butter until tender. Add two cups of stewed tomatoes and cook until quite thick. Serve over the ham.

COFFEE JELLY—Soak two tablespoons gelatin in ½ cup of water. Put 1 cup water, 2 cups strong coffee and ¼ cup sugar in a saucepan and let come to a boil. Remove from the fire. Add the gelatin and pour into a mold. Set aside to cool, and serve with whipped cream.

BLACK WALNUT CAKE is indeed a delicacy, and it's sure to find favor. Cream two-thirds cup of butter, add gradually two cups of sugar, then the yolks of four eggs, well beaten. Beat these three ingredients until they are light and creamy. Sift three and one-half cups of pastry flour, one-half teaspoon of salt and three teaspoons of baking powder together, and add a small amount to the first mixture, then add a little milk; continue adding the first mixture then the milk, until a cup of milk has been used.

Add a teaspoon of vanilla and a cup of chopped black walnuts, beating well; let the batter stand while the egg whites are beaten stiff, but not dry. Fold them in carefully, pour the batter into two greased loaf-cake pans, filling them about three-quarters full. Bake in moderate oven for from 40 to 50 minutes. When cool, cover thinly with boiled white icing.

BACON OMELETTE—Cut six slices of bacon into half-inch squares, fry gently until crisp and add a small onion chopped fine, a tomato cut into tiny bits, and a green pepper minced. Cook for 15 minutes. Rub the spoon with a clove of garlic, break six eggs into a bowl, add one-half teaspoon salt and one-eighth teaspoon pepper. Beat gently, and turn into a frying pan in which a teaspoon of butter has been melted. Cook until the omelette has nearly set, fold the bacon mixture into the omelette, saving part of it to garnish with and to spread over the top, turn onto a hot platter, and serve with devilled mushroom and tomato sauce.

CURRIED SALMON—Melt four tablespoons of butter, add one-third cup of flour and a teaspoon of curry powder. When thoroughly blended, add two cups of milk and stir constantly until thick and smooth. Then add a can of salmon—or, if you prefer the fresh salmon, add two cups of it—cooked and flaked. Cook until the salmon is heated. Season to taste, and serve on toast.

COLE SLAW—Mix together in a bowl a half head of cabbage, cut fine; a green pepper, a medium-sized onion, 3 sprays of celery, ¼ teaspoonful of salt, 3 teaspoons of sugar and a pinch of pepper. Then brown three strips of bacon, cut very fine, in a pan. Beat an egg, add ¼ cup of vinegar and a teaspoon of flour, and add to bacon. When it thickens, pour over the cabbage mixture. Mix well and serve.

* * *

GRAHAM CRACKER CAKES—Cream together 3 tablespoons of butter and a cup of sugar, then add the yolks of 2 eggs. Roll the contents of a large box of graham crackers very, very fine, add 3 level teaspoons of baking powder and mix thoroughly. Add to the butter, sugar and egg mixture, alternately with a cup of milk. Fold in the egg whites which have been beaten stiff. Bake the cake in two layers, fill with whipped cream, and spread whipped cream and nuts plentifully over the top.

FRUIT FILLED COOKIES—Cream ½ cup of shortening, add a cup of sugar, then a beaten egg and ½ cup of milk; add 3½ cups of flour, ½ teaspoon salt, and 4 teaspoons baking powder which have been sifted together. Roll out thin on a floured board, and cut in heart shapes; place a teaspoon of the following filling in each cookie, cover with another one, press edges together and bake in a moderate oven for from 12 to 15 minutes.

FILLING—Mix 3 teaspoons of of flour and ½ cup sugar together; add ½ cup water, ½ cup chopped raisins and ½ cup chopped figs. Cook until thick, being careful not to burn. If you like, cover the cookies with icing.

PRUNE CREAM—Wash a pound of prunes, then soak them over night in cold water to cover. Bring them to the boiling point, boil until tender, and push out the stones. Soak two tablespoons of gelatine in a half cup of cold water, add enough boiling water to the hot prune liquid to make two cups.

When dissolved, add to the prunes; add the juice of one lemon, the juice of an orange, the rind of a half orange and the rind of a half lemon. Next add a cup of sugar, and set aside to cool.

When it just begins to harden, fold in a cup of stiffly beaten cream and a cupful of chopped almonds. Pour in a mold and put in a cold place to harden. When cold serve with whipped cream, flavored with powdered macaroons.

Felicia Fears That Judge Will Refuse to Grant Dick a Divorce

CHAPTER XXIX.

MORNING sunlight streamed through the windows of the courthouse, into the room where not so long ago the Desert Rat had fought for his life. Today the place was crowded. Tragic faces and happy ones, faces curious and indifferent. Dick Stuyvesant sat at a long table beside his lawyer, looking down at his hands.

Just behind him, Betty Rogers, whom once he had held in his arms and kissed passionately, sat very still, her drawn face not quite matching the gay little frock, the saucy hat pulled down over her fair hair. A lean young man bent forward, his eyes never wavering from her, but not once did she so much as glance at him.

Reporters—a battery of them from the big west coast cities, come to follow the Stuyvesant trial—sat bored and inattentive, only now and then glancing at Dick. Attendants moved lazily about.

A newspaper photographer asked Dick to pose. He refused, looked up at the man. A flashlight boomed, a camera clicked. The photographer hurried out.

The court!

Judge Cooper entered briskly and mounted the bench. The crowd rustled, settling itself for the morning's entertainment. The clerk's voice, nasal, twanging: "Hear ye! Hear ye! This honorable court is now 'n seshun!"

Dick's head was spinning. Before all these people, he must take the stand and answer the questions Constance's lawyer would put to him. How could she have done this thing? And without warning. . . . His face flamed with resentment.

Of course she had heard about Felicia! The old dog-in-the-manger story. She did not want him herself, had never wanted him—but now she would try to keep him from the woman he loved!

In the rear of the courtroom a woman giggled. Dick winced. Before the curious, the vulgar, he would have to say things which he had never said to a living soul! It seemed a high price, even for freedom.

The clerk was approaching Judge Cooper; the sound of rapping silenced the room.

The clerk's voice rose:

"Stuyvesant versus Stuyvesant."

The courtroom was hushed. The reporters stopped yawning and sat up.

"Mr. Stuyvesant is here? If you will take the stand, Mr. Stuyvesant—"

He started for the chair, felt his arm pulled by his attorney, heard his voice.

"If the court please, we believe we can show cause why this case should be heard in chambers."

Judge Cooper turned kind blue eyes upon him, glanced at Constance's attorney. Constance herself would not appear, Dick had learned, gratefully.

"This plea is contested?" The judge inquired.

"It is," replied Constance's attorney, advancing to join Dick and his lawyer before the bench.

Another flashlight flared, and Dick's thoughts raced back to that day on the train, when he had foreseen all this. Ugliness. News. Sensationalism. . . . The lawyer went on: "We have a counter suit, your honor. We . . ."

Dick started. "A counter suit! Then she wasn't opposing the divorce, only fighting to get a decree in her name!"

"If the court please—" It was Fairchild, Dick's lawyer. He moved close to the bench and spoke in a low tone, inaudible to the straining ears of the waiting men and women.

Judge Cooper nodded. Constance's lawyer joined them, and they grouped there—"bringing the football huddle into the courtroom," one reporter described it.

"The case will be heard in chambers," Judge Cooper said, distinctly.

Relief surged over Dick; Fairchild beckoned to him, and he followed the judge and the attorneys through a rear door.

Judge Dillon mounted the bench.

"Next case!"

"Rogers versus Rogers."

Judge Dillon accepted the pile of documents. Betty Rogers, a little confused, took the witness stand. One hand on the Bible held out by the clerk, the other high, she repeated the oath.

The lean young man caught forward, his eyes on her face.

Felicia and Mrs. Henley-Martin entered the courtroom quietly and slipped into seats.

The lean young man caught Betty's eye. She flushed.

Her testimony was unconvincing. She was turned over to defendant's counsel for cross-examination.

Mr. Rogers was cruel? Yes, Mr. Rogers was cruel.

He had struck her? No-o-o, he'd never struck her. He wasn't that kind.

He had abused her, called her vile names.

Well, No-o-o, not that, but—

He had threatened her, bullied her? No. He wouldn't bully anyone.

He had scolded her, complained about her cooking? Indeed not. He always said she was a wonderful cook! But he had fussed, or seemed to, sometimes.

Felicia listened, without expression. Where was Dick? What was he doing? Her eyes searched the courtroom.

"Mrs. Rogers, has your husband ever been unfaithful to you?"

So far as she knew, he had not, but—

"Has he ever raised his hand against you?"

No-o-o, he had never done that. Still—

J. B. Slipped in silently, whispered in Adrienne's ear.

"Dick's case is being heard in chambers," Mrs. Henley-Martin repeated to her daughter. "There'll be no public hearing. We can go out—"

Judge Dillion was addressing Mrs. Betty Rogers, his face stern. He had the manner of a nice old grandfather, admonishing a beloved grandchild. Marriage, he told her, was a serious thing; more than that, it was a sacred thing. One did not give up a job one had undertaken just because it proved difficult . .

Felicia listened, her lips parted. Would Judge Cooper say those same words to Dick? Her heart was heavy. She knew, really, so little about Constance Stuyvesant. Neurotic, hypersensitive—oh, she had heard all that! But what did it mean?

She had never thought very much about Dick's wife, had never even seen a photograph of her. What was she like, this other woman Dick had loved and married? She was fighting the case. How much power did she have, this woman who still by every law was Mrs. Richard Stuyvesant?

The Judge was speaking solemnly, and the full import of his words sank, like stones, into Felicia's consciousness.

Mrs. Rogers was refused a divorce. Her grounds were insufficient.

And suddenly Felicia stared at the young woman.

Betty had faltered to her feet and stood, swaying slightly at the edge of the witness stand. Her eyes turned slowly from the Judge until they found the face of the lean young man who was her husband.

"Jimmy!" she cried, and stumbled down the steps from the witness chair straight into his arms. "Oh, Jimmy, I'm so glad! I'm so glad he wouldn't let me have it! I've been crazy and bull-headed! I've never loved anyone but you—not really, Jimmy, darling—"

Felicia pulled at her mother's arm. "Please let's go," she whispered. "We can wait at Ann's until Dick is through."

They went into the corridor and as they moved toward the steps that led down into the street, a door opened.

Adrienne Henley-Martin seized her daughter's arm.

Dick Stuyvesant, ashen-faced, with great beads of perspiration standing out on his forehead, came into the hall. He saw them, and his eyes, deep with anguish, clung to Felicia's face.

She took a step toward him, then paused, her own eyes imploring his.

A Case of Suspicion By LOUISE PEPLE ARMSTRONG Daily Short Story

"A TERRIBLE misunderstanding," Dolly Winston heard her husband saying.

She saw the strange girl nod at him mutely, making a visible effort to keep back tears. "Nothing to be done now," the girl murmured hopelessly.

"But you'll take the gift—I've kept it for you all these years, Caroline!"

"I—don't think I have the right now to accept."

"Nonsense," Tom exclaimed over-bruskly. "It's yours, dear. If you don't accept it I'll feel that I've hurt you too . . . too much. I had to tell you."

"Oh, I'm glad you did. We've always been honest with each other, Tom. You remember the last time we were together . . . before you left for college . . . we said we'd always be frank with each other. I thank you for telling me, Tom."

"I looked for you for years, Caroline. At last I gave up . . . I expected never to see you again. Imagine your walking in here today!"

Dolly Winston, standing in the empty corridor outside her husband's office, felt a merciless hand of ice grip her heartstrings. Mechanically, she tip-toed down the stairs whence she had come so softly to surprise Tom at his work. She had been the surprised one. She couldn't yet believe her ears . . . the words Tom had spoken to the handsome girl, the tones of his voice and the looks in his eyes! An old sweetheart. And he said he'd been looking for her for years . . . never expected to see her again.

Tom Wintson had always appeared a quiet, reticent fellow. When he came to Camden to open a law office six years ago he had seemed almost to avoid the girls of the town. Plenty of social invitations had been extended him, but he went out very little, and when he did attend a dance he was usually to be found sitting off in a corner with Judge Evans, talking shop. But when he suddenly and violently fell in love with pretty Dolly Holworthy, she had found him a most romantic, engaging suitor. They were married that fall.

"Our Dolly couldn't have picked a steadier, more sensible husband," Father Holworthy had said pridefully. Mother Holworthy had at once set about spoiling her handsome son-in-law, just as she spoiled her own 17-year-old Jackie. Tom had fitted right into their hearts, as he had fitted into the life of Camden town, for he was popular everywhere. And Dolly was pridefully adoring.

He had never spoken of having an old sweetheart. Why hadn't he spoken? Dolly remembered that she had told him frankly of all her past flirtations; he had taken them so calmly she had been slightly piqued. A little jealousy on the part of a husband was flattering. Then she had consoled herself with the thought that Tom was too big for jealousy. Now she wondered. Had she been merely a consolation prize? Had his heart always been given to another . . . a hopeless love? That look in his eyes . . . and the girl was beautiful! Her handsome fur coat had clung snugly to her graceful, willowy form, brown as her big, questioning eyes, as her wavy hair that swept like a dark wing from beneath the brim of the green helmet that fitted closely to her proudly held little head.

There was something essentially genuine about her, the tones of her voice portrayed a cultural refinement. No, she wasn't the sort to indulge in a cheap intrigue. Whatever there was between her and Tom Winston, it was something real and deep.

Jane, the colored maid, had built a fire in the living room, and the place was warm and cozy when Dolly Winston returned home. But she stood in the center of the room, looking about her as though it were some strange place. It was strange. She had thought it a home . . . but she had been mistaken. It was just a make-believe place, like rooms they dressed for a play on the stage. Nothing real. The French prints Tom brought her that time from New York . . . the lacquer tea-wagon in the corner by the chimney-place, with its burden of fragile Sevre cups and saucers . . . the twisted brass candlesticks on the mantel, fashioned from machine gun shells, mementoes of the war—her hand-painted parchment shades Tom had thought so artistic. All, all . . . they didn't mean a thing now.

He was an hour late coming in for dinner, and when he did come he looked haggard and worn. She let him kiss her, a coldly abstracted little peck, and she fetched the afternoon paper from the hall as she always did. But though he sat in his accustomed seat at the left of the fire, under the bridge-lamp he didn't read tonight, just sat staring into the flames.

"Is there anything wrong with you, Tom?" she finally asked.

"Nothing in the world," he replied, far too lightly. "Just tired."

She nodded and was silent; the silence between them continued during dinner and for the remainder of the evening. At 10:30 Dolly crept miserably up to bed. But even then she couldn't sleep and forget. She lay in the dark, counting the hours. Eleven, twelve, one . . . what was the matter with Tom? Were they really true, the terrible thoughts she had been forcing out of her mind all evening?

She arose, flung a dressing gown about her shoulders, shivering in the cold air from the open window. She saw the light still on in the living room as she descended the stairs.

Tom was sitting there by the dead fire. He saw her coming through the doorway and started in surprise. Dolly observed that he hastily thrust something into his pocket, something which glittered in the mellow lamplight.

"What's the matter, Tom?" she asked in a pleading tone. "Something's the matter. . . . Can't you tell me about it?"

"Nothing's the matter, dear," he said. "I've just been thinking . . . about the past. Saw an old friend today, and it's made me rather sad."

"Friend?" asked his wife. "That girl in your office today?"

Tom looked his astonishment. "Thought it mighty funny you said you'd drive me home and then didn't show up. Why didn't you come right in?"

"Didn't like to . . . to interrupt you," Dolly replied. "You never told me about her," she added impulsively. "Why haven't you, Tom?"

"What was there to tell, except that she's an old friend."

"And yet you're about to give her a handsome piece of jewelry—that you've been saving for her for years and years!" Dolly was immediately ashamed of her words, the accusing words of an injured, suspicious wife.

Tom looked at her queerly. "Who told you that?" he demanded.

Dolly bit her lip fiercely, blinked her blue eyes. She wouldn't let herself cry . . . she wouldn't. "I saw you put it into your pocket just now, Tom."

Tom Winston looked thoughtfully into the gray ashes on his hearthstone. "Maybe I'd better tell you all about it, Dolly," he finally said. "Caroline Miller, whom I have known since my childhood and hers, lived with an old aunt, a wealthy, irrascible old woman, but the only living relative she had. They never got on, their temperaments continually clashed. Finally the girl ran away and married a scamp, and we never heard from her again. The aunt sent for me when she was on her deathbed. Told me she had willed her fortune to charity, and she still could not bring herself to change the will. It seems she'd told some of the hospitals and organizations of her bequests. It was like a promise she felt she must fulfil. But she was sorry about the breach with Caroline. She gave me a handsome diamond necklace, asked me to find her niece and give it to her, with her love and blessing."

Tom pulled out his old pipe and lit it carefully. "I've tried several times to trace Caroline Miller, by her husband's name, and failed. Only today did I learn they'd been divorced shortly after her marriage, and she'd taken back her own name. She's on the stage, making quite a success. But she, too, has had twinges of conscience about leaving her aunt to die alone. There's quite a lot after all to family ties—there's a lot in loyalty and faith. She's taking it hard, though, poor girl. That's all, except tomorrow I deliver the gift and my commission is done."

He pulled out the necklace and flung it on the table between them. "Beautiful, isn't it, dear? I could give you a gift like that. Maybe some day . . ."

Dolly arose, looking down at the glittering band of platinum, diamonds and sapphires. Something glittered in her eyes just as brightly. "I've had far better gifts, Tom," she said in a small voice, "gifts I'll try and appreciate better than I have. I've a home . . . and . . . and you, Tom! You're right about loyalty and faith. Suspicions and misunderstandings never bring anything . . . but remorse!"

Tom scooped the necklace up in his big hands with a laugh. "After which eulogy we'd both better try and get a little sleep tonight," he said in a placidly humorous tone. And he turned to hug his little wife with bearlike, contented affection.

When Pain Comes

Two hours after eating

What many people call indigestion very often means excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. And the best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali in water will neutralize instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this. Go get a small bottle to try.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drugstore.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade-Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

GREGALACH WINS STEEPLECHASE

SPORT COMMENT
by JAMES J. LONG

McLarnin vs. Tradition, Few Win After Kayo. Jimmy Looks Exception.

Another Playing Pilot, Harris in Sub Roles. Buc Shake-Up Rumored.

TRAYNOR AT THIRD, GRANTHAM SECOND

JIMMY McLARNIN will have to upset fistic tradition, and the old Queesberry theory that knockout history nearly always repeats, in order to come out of his bout with Ray Miller in New York, tonight, on the winning end. For on November 30, last, in Detroit, Miller put a stop to McLarnin's sensational rise by scoring a technical knockout over him in seven rounds, and boxing dope has it that a man once knocked out by a certain opponent is rarely able to turn the tables on that foeman in a return bout. The memory of the kayo always lingers and puts the victim under a mental handicap in the second engagement.

Ray Miller

There have been only a few notable exceptions to the rule. One was Stanley Ketchel, who, after being knocked out by Billy Papke in 12 rounds on September 8, 1908, came back and kayoed Papke in 11 rounds on November 26, of the same year. Recently Jimmy Maloney won a decision over Tom Heeney, who once stopped him in a round. Ace Hudkins beat Sammy Baker after losing to the latter on a technical kayo; Paul Berlenbach did the same against Jack Delaney and so did Joe Gans against Frank Erne.

BUT in the great majority of cases, history has repeated. Men once knocked out have failed to reverse the result in second meetings. That was the fate of Bob Fitzsimmons against Jim Jeffries; of Peter Maher against Fitzsimmons; of Terry McGovern against Young Corbett, and of Joe Gans against Battling Nelson.

So McLarnin will have tradition against him when he meets Miller again tonight, but in spite of that it will not be surprising if Jimmy succeeds in coming through with a victory. That technical knockout in November was due largely to the fact that one of Miller's early left hooks cut a gash on Jimmy's cheek bone that 18 stitches were required to close the wound after the fight. That was a tough break as much as anything else. Since that date, Miller has come back in fine style, and though against Joe Glick it looked as if he had lost some of his speed in taking on more weight, he looks, all around, like the probable winner tonight.

THOUGH he probably does not go so far as to expect that he will be as successful in the case of Carl Mays as he was when he brought Jack Scott back to life after the Reds had pronounced him dead in 1922, John McGraw appears to believe that Mays will be worth all the time and money spent on him.

The veteran "submarine" hurler was out of commission for a time this spring, after sucering a fracture of the thumb of his left hand in an early workout, but he has returned to active duty on the firing line and his latest exhibition filled McGraw with confidence.

Carl Mays

MAYS pitched only four complete games last year, and the Reds figured him as worthless when they let him go unconditionally, just as they had figured in the case of Scott six seasons earlier. But McGraw opines that Carl is far from being done. "Mays made a strong impression on me the other day when he made his first start and allowed only three scratchy hits and no runs in six innings," said the Giant manager. "Of course, it is too early to predict that he will come back this year and be as good as ever, but his shooting certainly indicates that his arm is all right and he should come along nicely. Don't count him as being through."

IN his squawk against the recent action of Commissioner Landis in declaring nine ball players free agents, President Clark Griffith, of the Washington club, insists that Ed Wells, now pitching for the Yankees, comes under the same classification and that the Hugmen will have to turn him loose. Indications are that Griffith will lose his point and that Wells will remain with the Yanks.

For his case is not like the others affected by the Landis ruling. Wells, a left-hander, is a former Bethany College pitcher, who joined Detroit in June, 1923, and remained with the Tigers until transferred to the Senators by waivers in July, 1927. Washington sent him to Birmingham for 1928, and New York bought him for this year.

IF Washington had bought Wells and then turned him back to Birmingham, he probably would have been made a free agent, as the Senators would have been suspected of covering him up, in line with the other sharp practices they were charged with in the cases of Whitey Glazner, Jimmy Partridge and Ralph Judd.

But the Yankees figuring as the purchasers, the buying of Wells from Birmingham looked like a deal that was made in good faith, particularly as the Hugmen are giving the southpaw every chance to make good on the spring trip. So it is unlikely that Griffith's claim will be given any consideration.

Bucky Harris

JUDGING from present signs, Billy Southworth, should he decide to break into the lineup of the St. Louis Nationals this year as an outfielder, will not be the only playing manager in the big leagues after all. Recently it looked as if Southworth would be in line for that distinction, as Bucky Harris was said to be definitely out as a player; Walter Johnson's avowals of pitching intentions were not taken seriously, and all of the other pilots in the majors are bench generals. But Harris appears to have changed his mind, and if Southworth takes an active part in the Redbirds' games, he may have to share the managerial playing spotlight with the manager of the Tigers.

RECENTLY Bucky began to work out at third base as well as at second in the Detroit club's practice sessions, and he admits now that he may break into occasional games during the approaching season. "I am getting the feel of third," Harris said. I never played there before, but I'm becoming well acquainted with the position.

"So I'll be ready to substitute at either second or third for the Tigers in case of a pinch. Richardson will substitute for shortstop, and we'll have Heilmann and Alexander for first base. That will take care of our infield. It is my opinion that I won't have to do much playing at either position, but I'll be ready if the emergency arises."

FROM the Pittsburgh baseball club's present base of training operations in San Francisco comes the tip that Manager Donie Bush

EASTER HERO IS CLOSE SECOND

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service.

AINTREE, England, March 22.—English horseflesh triumphed over the best American stables had to offer today when Mrs. M. A. Gemmell's Gregalach, a 100-to-1 shot, raced home over a heavy course to win the 1929 Grand National Steeplechase by six lengths.

Of nine American horses entered in the race, only one placed. This was J. H. Whitney's Easter Hero, who finished second in the grueling contest after making a valiant but futile attempt. Easter Hero had led the field until the final two fences—the most difficult on the course—when the strain of carrying top weight of 175 pounds began to tell upon him. He finished gamely, trailing Gregalach by six lengths.

Richmond II, also an English horse, owned by R. McAlpine, took third place, followed by Milleray's Belle, owned by W. Wilson, of England.

Billy Barton, the American bred horse owned by Howard Bruce, of Baltimore, upon whom American bettors had staked their hopes, failed to place. He went to the barrier with the betting odds on him at 100 to 6.

Gregalach was considered a dark outsider, carrying odds of 100 to 1. Easter Hero paid 9 to 1 and Richmond II, 40 to 1.

Gregalach won approximately $65,000 for his owner.

BILLY BARTON FALLS

The Americans found plenty to cheer about as Easter Hero led at the end of the first circuit and the "100 per cent American," Billy Barton, came up to pass him as they started the opening stretch of the second round. But the American hopes for a Billy Barton victory were destined to be lost in the second and last wild gallop around the treacherous course as horses and men went down together in a tangle of legs and hoofs at the nineteenth jump, where Billy Barton failed to negotiate a rail, ditch and difficult hedge.

It was revealed after the race that Easter Hero twisted a plate during the second circuit, and this misfortune probably deprived him of the victory.

A colorful international crowd of men and women turf enthusiasts, estimated at 300,000, witnessed the classic. Thousands of them had been on the grounds since early morning.

A pale sun which had played peek-a-boo with clouds throughout the morning, managed to break through the cloud barriers just as the 66 horses began lining up for the start. A drizzling rain had been falling for the better part of an hour, bringing out thousands of umbrellas, but this ceased as the horses went to the barrier.

The race was run in the best weather that has favored any Grand National of recent years.

EASTER HERO TAKES LEAD

A great cheer went up from the throng as the bunched horses shot out from the barrier. Easter Hero forged into the lead early. He was in the foremost of the jumpers as they went over the first two fences. Maloney was making a supreme ride. At the completion of the first circuit of the course, 44 of the 66 entries had dropped out. Easter Hero was in the lead.

As the horses swept around the difficult track on the second lap, American hopes ran high. Easter Hero appeared a likely winner. More horses dropped out. Cheers for the American horse blended with throaty cries of encouragement for Gregalach.

At the second-to-the-last jump it became apparent that Easter Hero was tiring under the strain. The American horse and Gregalach took the last obstacle—the fearsome "water jump," together. For how paces they ran neck and neck, then Gregalach forged ahead, to win by six lengths.

The American sportsmen took their defeat in good grace. A number of them rushed over to Mrs. Gemmell and heartily congratulated her on the victory for her horse.

JOCKEYS INJURED

Although there were fewer spills this year than in any similar race in recent years, a number of jockeys suffered minor injuries and bruises when their mounts fell at one of the obstacles or ditches.

One horse, Start, an outsider in the betting, owned by R. L. Right, fell and broke his neck.

Although the course was heavy from the recent rain, the pace was fast. Gregalach's time was 9 minutes 47 2-5 seconds which is only 2-5 seconds above the record for the grand national course.

Some of the gamier owing to years was lacking today owing to the absence of King George, who is now convalescing from his long illness. Prince George was present however, and a close observer of the race.

It was estimated there were fully 2,000 Americans in the crowd.

Only seven horses in all completed the course, although 66 started out.

Mrs. Gemmell, to whom all the steeplechasing sportsmen of the world now owe homage, was one of five women owners represented in the race. Her chances had been considered exceedingly small and indeed the prospect of a feminine victory at all had been deemed very slight.

Although disappointed over the showing of Billy Barton, his owner, Howard Bruce, was smiling.

"Billy wasn't too happy on the soft course," the Baltimorean told International News Service.

"It is grand National luck," said Whitney, who was proud that his Easter Hero lived up to the high tributes of the experts.

McLarnin Ready for Test Against Ray Miller

Baby Face Jimmy McLarnin, Seattle junior-welterweight, faces Ray Miller, of Chicago, in an important battle before a soldout arena in Madison Square Garden, New York, tonight, in an effort to avenge a technical knockout defeat of a few months ago at the fists of Miller, a great left hooker with a fine record of knockout victories. Jimmy will not be weakened by making weight this time, as he was in their earlier clash in Detroit, and vows he will turn the tables. Since both pack much TNT in their fists, a battle of thrills is anticipated. McLarnin had to "resign" in his corner before the eight round at Detroit, because of a badly cut eye. Miller had a decided edge in the fighting throughout, however. McLarnin has been installed a 3-1 favorite for tonight's

SCHOOL QUINTS RESUME TITLE PLAY TONIGHT

By JESS CARVER.

Finalists in the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association championship basketball tournament will be determined in the Stadium Pavilion tonight when Sharon meets Altoona and Hazleton meets Reading in the semi-finals, the winners to clash tomorrow night on the same floor for the state championship. The first game tonight is scheduled to start at 7:45 and the second an hour later.

Sharon, Western Pennsylvania's entry in the tournament, won its way to the semi-finals by defeating Homestead High School at the Stadium pavilion last Tuesday night, 24 to 19, the victory giving the Mercer Countians the right to represent Districts 7 and 8; Hazelton, winner of the state laurels last year, earned the right to represent Districts 1 and 2, by defeating East Stroudsburg at Easton, 29 to 19; Altoona won the right to represent Districts 5 and 6 by vanquishing Meyersdale, 37 to 27, while Reading qualified for the semi-finals as representative of Districts 3 and 4 by scoring an overwhelming decision over Williamsport, 64 to 44.

READING RECORD ENVIABLE

All teams entered in the semi-finals arrived in Pittsburgh accompanied by large followings of supporters, special trains being chartered for the tournament games. Indications are that the two games tonight and the final battle tomorrow night will be attended by large crowds.

Hazelton, winner of the championship last year and a favorite to repeat, arrived in Pittsburgh yesterday accompanied by its entire student body, as well as numerous townsfolk. School yesterday was suspended to allow the students to travel to Pittsburgh. The team had to win its way to four sectional titles before qualifying for tonight's contest, its record showing a string of 26 consecutive victories.

FANS ON HAND

Those who saw Sharon defeat the pride of the W. P. I. A. L. last Tuesday night for the right to represent Western Pennsylvania, are firm in their contention that the Mercer Countians stand a good chance to reach the final, although they are scheduled to meet a tough opponent in Altoona tonight. Little is known about the Altoona team, but its record includes impressive victories over such well-known teams as Johnstown, State College, Clearfield, Franklin and Lock Haven.

Reading likewise boasts an enviable record, the Berks Countians having defeated the strong high school quintets in their section of the state. This district is noted for the high caliber of basketball teams developed there and Reading had a difficult task to accomplish before reaching the semi-finals. This team is certain to bear watching tonight. The probable lineup:

Sharon.		Altoona.
Deems	F	Wileman
McCamant	F	Bricker
Murphy	C	Weld
Haycock	G	Rush
Mitchell	G	Thomason

Hazleton.		Reading.
Kerany	F	Swiger
Feeley	F	Nittinger
Hildebrand	C	Reuben
Weston	G	Hering
Powell	G	J. Kubacki

BRUINS WIN AGAIN

BOSTON, March 22.—(AP.)—The perfect defensive game of the Boston Bruins gave them another 1-0 victory, their second, over Les Canadiens, here last night. When the bruising struggle ended, the Bruins had a commanding lead over the International Division winners and needed only another win to enter the Stanley Cup final of the National Hockey cup.

N. B. A. Lifts Joe Dundee's Crown

CHICAGO, March 22.—(AP.)—The National Boxing Association will recognize the winner of the Jackie Fields-Young Jack Thompson bout here Monday night as the world welterweight champion, President Paul Prehn has announced.

The association gave Joe Dundee of Baltimore six months in which to defend the title and as the time limit expired last night with no move on Dundee's part to post a $5,000 forfeit, insuring he would defend the title against a suitable opponent, the title was declared vacated.

DEMARCO BOXES LA ROSE; BIG RING NIGHT

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

Boxing is in for one of its biggest nights tonight.

Gaze upon what's doing:

Cuddy DeMarco meets Tony La Rose, of Cincinnati, in the main bout of the weekly show in the Moose Temple.

Tony La Rose.

Jimmy McLarnin boxes Ray Miller in a return bout in Madison Square Garden, New York, with Jackie Rodgers, local Negro bantamweight flash making his metropolitan debut against Sammy Tisch, of New York, in one of the preliminaries, and Joey LaGrey, formerly of Johnstown, boxing Freddie Polo in a 10-round bout on the same card.

Tommy Freeman vs. Tillie (Kid) Herman, 10 rounds, Erie.

Opening of National Intercollegiate championship tournament at Penn State College, with Penn State, Navy, Penn, Syracuse, Georgetown, Western Maryland, New York University and Massachusetts Tech competing.

Kid Chocolate vs. Johnny Vacca and Ernie Schaaf vs. Al Friedman, 10 rounds each, Boston.

Farmer Joe Cooper vs. Jack Britton, former welterweight champion, 10 rounds, New Orleans.

Clyde Hull vs. Art Dula, 10 rounds, Fort Worth, Tex.

Eddie Roberts vs. Pete Myers, 10 rounds, San Francisco.

Homer Sheridan vs. Joe Roche, 10 rounds, San Francisco.

Pittsburghers in Middle States amateur tournament at Gary, Ind.

LA ROSE BUSY MIXER

DeMarco, McKeesport veteran, will have to go some tall stepping to outmaneuver La Rose in the windup in the Moose Temple. La Rose gets around the ring like a left-handed Harry Greb and is a busy smacking bee. He doesn't hit hard, but lands often, and nothing short of solid hitting will slow him down. In the absence of a knockout wallop, Cuddy figures to have to do some nifty blocking and fast boxing to outscore his Italian rival for the decision.

Buck McTiernan, of Swissvale, and Young Guido, of Sharon, meet in the semifinal; Bobby Burns, of Swissvale, and Al Iovino, of Natrona, in the second bout, and Johnny Michaels, of Swissvale, and Jackie Griffiths, Negro newsboy, of the Hill, in the opener.

Local fans will be as much interested in the outcome of Jackie Rodgers' six-round preliminary tonight as they will be in the McLarnin-Miller return battle in Madison Square Garden. If Rodgers gets off to a good start in the big town, he may, with his showmanship, become as good a card draw as Kid Chocolate, the Cuban featherweight.

MOTOR SQUARE BOUTS

The Motor Square Garden program for its reopening show one week from next Monday night, is gradually being rounded out. Joe Krone, the Pennsylvania Railroad middleweight, and Bob Concrete, former marathon dancer, will meet in one of the four-round bouts and Al Iovino, of Swissvale, will box Georgie Tomosky, of Wilmerding, in another. Andy Martin, of Boston, and Midget Mike O'Dowd, of Columbus, are paired for the main event, and Buck McTiernan and Hessey Solmen for a six-rounder.

DUDLEY GOLF LEADER

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 22.—(AP.)—Ed Dudley, Los Angeles, led the first half of the finishers of the morning round with a 68 in the first day's play of the $15,000 La Gorce open golf tournament today. Dudley's four birdies on the first nine holes gave him 31, but a high wind and 8 mixed difficult route forced him to accept 37 on the return trip.

Al Ciucci, Flushing, L. I., conquered a high morning wind from the South with 33 on his outbound trip. TAUSCHER HITS HOMER IN TENTH

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 22.—The class of Comorosky has proved to be one of the most interesting developments in the training season of the Pirates. As the club points for the championship stuff that is to come, the Polish flyer stands out as the most conspicuous player on the roster.

Commy connected for three doubles yesterday in the 10-inning collision with the Missions, his last two-sacker driving in the winning run. The Pirate victory carried a 5-to-4 count. Wallie Tauscher, finishing pitcher of the day, cracked out a homer in the tenth that put the Bucco in the lead, and Commy later drove over Adams with the run the Pittsburghers had to have to win, inasmuch as Catcher Hofmann came through with a homer in the home half.

FINANCIAL FLOP

On three separate occasions the bow-legged Pole rattled drives off the right-field fence. His spree was a continuance of the form he has displayed throughout the preparatory weeks, despite a bruised toe that threatened to keep him out of the game. Commy races all over the centerfield range in quest of drives, and he rarely lets anything get through him.

The long siege of the Buccos in San Francisco may be an artistic success at the close, but it probably will be a financial flop. Less than 1,000 were on hand yesterday, the attendance being similar to that of other week days. The weather is cool, for the most part, but there doesn't seem to be much general enthusiasm over the contests. Perhaps the fans are saving their money for the opening of the Coast League season next Tuesday.

FOUR GAMES REMAIN

Four more games are scheduled here before the team departs. The Missions are to be met this afternoon, tomorrow afternoon and again on Sunday morning. On Sunday afternoon the Seals will take on the Buccos in the last scheduled game of the exhibition series. Early Sunday night the Pirates will head for Los Angeles and Santa Ana, the Portland club to be met on the latter spot on Monday. After this game the rich Coast will begin.

The games here are affording lots of work for the big leaguers who are getting close to top form. Carmen Hill and Tauscher divided yesterday's contest, and each was impressive on the slab.

BRICKELL INJURED

The game brought a rather painful injury to Fred Brickell, recruit rightfielder. Fred twisted one of his ankles in sliding back to first base. He had to be assisted off the field. An X-ray photo will be made of the wound today. Pie Traynor is still on the bench with his ailing hip.

Lloyd Waner had not reached camp when the Buccos went to bed last night, but it was believed he would be among those present today.

DEMPSEY SIGNS AS PARTNER OF FUGAZY

NEW YORK, March 22.—(AP.)—Jack Dempsey today entered into a two-year agreement with Humbert J. Fugazy, Metropolitan rival of Madison Square Garden, for the promotion of boxing matches here and in other sections of the country.

Announcement of the agreement was made by Dempsey's attorneys after a series of conferences between the former heavyweight champion and Fugazy. Fugazy termed the new fistic alliance "an international combination," indicating that bouts also might be staged abroad.

TO BUILD ARENAS

Fugazy said the bulk of promoting would be done in New York and Detroit, where Dempsey also is interested in the promotion of horse racing. For the present, contests must be staged in the open air, although Fugazy said he intends to build arenas as soon as plans can be drawn up.

No announcement was made as to financial consideration, nor would Dempsey say that he would box again as part of the new partnership.

LOCAL BOXERS TRIUMPH

NEW YORK, March 22.—In the best series of amateur bouts seen at the Crescent A. C. in Brooklyn this year, two Pittsburgh battlers topped New York and Boston last night.

Mose Butch, of Pittsburgh, staged a thrilling slugging bee with Frank Garcia, of Boston, throughout four torrid rounds of fighting in the 118-pound class. Butch's superior boxing skill won for him in the final round, as Garcia rushed to give way and slugged toe to toe with his rival.

Andy Andrucci, of Pittsburgh, had little trouble in disposing of Charles Napoli, unattached, of this city, in the regulation three rounds of the 138-pound class. Andrucci was too clever for Napoli and outboxed him throughout.

Although Butch's fight with Garcia was a thriller, the 147-pound class combat between Jack Graham, Holy Name Club, New York, and George Bretch, of Pittsburgh, had the spectators roaring wildly during three heated rounds of slugging, which featured Graham's victory.

HEIDELBERG HAS FINE RECORD

By TOM BIRKS.

With the winner of the Heidelberg-Corinthians game Sunday at Curry, booked to meet the Cleveland Magyars, or the Detroit River Rouge team, in the Western final, local soccerdom is sure to wend its way to Curry.

With the Clevelanders feeling that the Magyars will take the Michigan team on Sunday, Heidelberg fans are naturally pulling for their favorites to again tangle with the Forest City Club, which has met Heidelberg each year since the inception of the national amateur tourney.

The first year found Heidelberg and the Magyars meeting in the Western semi-final and that game found the Magyars scoring two goals in the last five minutes of play to beat the Green and Gold, 3 to 2. Hoffman, big center forward, was the hero. The writer refereed the Western final and the Chicago Swedes beat the Magyars, 2 to 1, at Cleveland.

The next meeting found Heidelberg and the Magyars fighting a terrific battle in Ohio, and the game ended 1-1. In the replay at Heidelberg, with the greatest crowd on hand that ever watched a local game, Heidelberg won, 5 to 1. That was the year Heidelberg was beaten by the Defenders in the final.

Then the Green and Gold came back the next season and won the title from the La Flamme team. Last year Heidelberg lost to the Magyars in a blizzard, when the game should not have been played. Should Heidelberg and the Magyars come through the semi-final, it would constitute a record for teams meeting in the final rounds of one national cup.

Fans going to the game by auto should go out through Carrick and turn left at the South Hills Country Club. The game will be called at 2:30.

EVERYTHING is New about this Wing Tip Brogue, except the Old English Bespoke Custom Bootmakers who produced it.

Bartley & Sons of London have been making shoes for the best dressed men in England for more than 100 years and now hold Royal Warrants of Appointment to His Majesty the King and to His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales.

We paid Five Pounds Sixteen Shillings ($28.04) for this original hand made Wing Tip Brogue in Bartley's Shop on Oxford Street, and we asked him to make up 39 more pairs so that we could show you today one of Bartley's ($28.04) originals with the ($6.60) Regal Reproduction, side by side in 78 Regal stores in U.S.A.

Our representative brought back with him the original last that Bartley whittled out by hand to get just the right spring, swing and swagger in this new semi-square toe. Our last makers used Bartley's original as a model and turned out thousands with electric lathes.

Every hole in the perforations and decorations of the original Bartley Brogue was punched by hand with an awl. We made a die for this design, and with one click of a machine, reproduced the pattern exactly.

The Upper Leather in Bartley's Brogue is an Imported Burgundy Brown Calfskin tanned in Oisterwyk, Holland, and in the Regal Reproduction we are using the same identical tannage. Bartley's Brogue is made and sewn by hand. Our shoes are sewn by the same machine as practically all high priced American shoes.

But there isn't any secret about it. The Volume in 78 Regal Stores makes this Value possible in your Regal Store—We make a thousand pairs to Bartley's one pair.

FORMER FIGHTER DIES

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 22.—(AP.)—Tommy West, 47, former prizefighter, promoter and sports writer, died at the home of his sister here after an illness of two weeks. In his fighting days he was known as "Louisville Tommy," and the late J. Pierpont Morgan is said to have aided him.

MISS TURPIE CHAMP

BILOXI, Miss., March 22.—(AP.)—Marion Turpie, of New Orleans, won the Gulf States women's golf title from Mrs. Dalton Reymond, of Baton Rouge, La., in the final round here yesterday, 4 and 3.

RAY NEWTON SHADED BY MELLOW

Johnny Mellow, clever Detroit boxer, put the skids under the hard-hitting Ray Newton, of Mansfield, O., last night in the main bout at the Palisades, McKeesport, winning the referee's decision over Newton after the judges had disagreed in their verdicts. The bout was a close one and it was only through a tenth round rally that Mellow earned a shade over his youthful opponent.

The Blond Tiger came to McKeesport sporting a record of 11 knockouts in 12 bouts, and started off in a nice manner against Mellow, who was in no hurry to begin working on the Mansfield slugger. Newton took the first three rounds by close margins, showing a snappy and hard left jab that caught Mellow repeatedly as the Detroit veteran came in.

HAS HARD RIGHT

The Mansfield boxer also displayed a hard right, which stopped Mellow repeatedly in his tracks. Newton made a play for Mellow's jaw early in the fight and kept landing hard rights and lefts, but they failed to slow up the ever-dangerous Michigan battler. Mellow worked hard to tie Newton up in the clinches and excelled in the infighting throughout the early rounds.

Newton was well aware of the fact that Mellow was a punishing fighter in the clinches and strove to stay on the outside at all times. Mellow's first indication of fighting came in the fourth round when he caught Newton with a hard right to the jaw. He followed this up with more hard rights and lefts to the Mansfield boxer's head and kept Ray back-pedaling during the greater part of the round. Newton came back in the fifth and stung Mellow with his hard right. Although Johnny blocked the majority of the Ohioan's leads from the sixth to the tenth, the fight was decidedly to Mellow's favor and the Detroit boxer made a strong comeback to win the decision.

TIGER NEARLY FLOORED

In the sixth round, he nearly floored the Blond Tiger with a hard right and kept punching Ray all over the ring. Newton's left, which he kept playing in Mellow's face, brought blood from Johnny's nose in this round, but this failed to halt Mellow, who took the round by a neat margin.

Mellow was boxing cleverly in the seventh and eighth and, although Newton elected to lead during both of these sessions, Mellow blocked the greater number of his punches.

During the ninth round Mellow's cleverness in the clinches gave him the edge, while in the tenth he tried hard to end the bout with a knockout, but always found Newton a willing opponent. Ray fought hard in the tenth, but Mellow outscored him, landing repeatedly with his right to the head. Judge Jock Simco voted for Mellow, while Judge Johnny Graff thought Newton won.

Referee Al Grayber settled the issue with a Mellow vote. The weights were announced as: Mellow 135¼, Newton 133.

SMALLWOOD WINS

Chet Smallwood, Akron southpaw, made a successful debut before Tube City flatie followers when he punched his way to a clean-cut decision over Ken Hartgraves, New Kensington Negro, in a six-round semi-final. Hartgraves took the first round, but was trailing after that session, as Smallwood threw hard rights and lefts at him. Smallwood had a habit of hitting with an open glove and, while he landed the majority of the blows, they did not have much effect on Hartgraves, who refused to be bothered. During the early rounds, neither fighter showed much inclination to lead and at the start of the fourth session, Referee Grayber warned them to show a little more action. Smallwood weighed 134¼, while Hartgraves scaled 132.

TWO KNOCKOUTS

Two knockouts featured the early preliminaries, both the opening and the second bout ending before the prescribed limit. In the curtain-raiser, Eddie Anderson of Washington, weighing 141¼, scored a technical knockout over Sammy Borland of McKeesport, weight 137¼, in the fourth round. Referee Grayber stopping the bout after Anderson landed a hard left hook to Borland's jaw which floored the Tube City fighter. In the third round, Borland was on the floor from a hard right on the jaw, but the bell rang as the referee reached the count of eight.

Henry Firpo Hands Rudy Ceder Beating

YOUNGSTOWN, March 22.—Henry Firpo, Louisville middleweight, handed a terrific beating to Rudy Ceder, Pittsburgh, in the 10-round bout here last night. After going down from a left hook to the chin in the first round for a count of seven, Firpo reversed the order by flooring Ceder with a right to the jaw. After that the Pittsburgher, cut, bleeding and badly used up, never had a look-in.

By JULIUS LEVIN.

The Y. M. H. A. passers, champions of the A. A. U. and Institution League, will face one of their hardest tests of the season tomorrow night when they meet the crack Penn five of the West Penn League, on the Y. M. H. A. floor.

The Penn five will include in its lineup Ferraro and Arture, Pitt stars, and is certain to present a strong front against the local champions. The Bellefielders are entered in the national Y. M. H. A. tournament, scheduled in Atlantic City, March 30 and 31, and this is one of the games arranged to raise funds with which to send the local club East.

Interest in the Y. M. H. A.-Penn Five game is high and indications are that a large crowd will attend. Thursday night the locals will leave for Atlantic City.

The Duquesne Lafayettes will meet an all-star County League team at Duquesne High School next Monday night, the proceeds to go to Wes Pfieffer, Lafayette star, who was injured in a recent game at Steubenville. Pfieffer is one of the most popular players in the County League and a large crowd is expected to attend the benefit contest.

More than 100 teams will begin play tonight in the annual Monongahela valley tournament, at Monongahela High School. L. C. Healey is conducting the tournament. Entries have been received from all sections of the tri-state district.

Segrave Wins World Speed Boat Title

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 22.—(AP.)—Before a colorful crowd that lined the shores of Biscayne Bay, Major H. O. D. Segrave, of England, won the world motorboat championship, in listless fashion, despite the fact that he finished the 12-mile race one and three fourths laps behind his opponent, Gar Wood, of Detroit.

Segrave's victory in the championship was computed on a point system in a two-day competitive race between the two internationally known sportsmen, and had no bearing whatever on the mile straightaway record of 92.8 miles an hour now held by Wood's brother, George.

WHY THE TWENTY ONE FIFTY IS BETTER VALUE THAN OTHER CLOTHES IN THE SAME PRICE LINES

¶ We planned with one of the foremost manufacturers of high grade clothing to produce for us Suits and Top Coats to retail at TWENTY-ONE FIFTY that we could GUARANTEE our customers to be the BEST VALUE at the price.

¶ We selected our own fabrics—the fashionable patterns and colors for Spring—we arranged to have the garments produced under our personal supervision and subject to our own approval.

¶ Through giving the maker a DEFINITE OUTLET for an ENORMOUS QUANTITY of garments we were able to bring the manufacturing cost down to a minimum—FAR LESS than such garments would cost if produced under regular conditions.

Long's Sport Comment

shortly will announce another shake-up in his infield. Possibly it will be put into effect before the Pirates say goodbye to San Francisco on Sunday with a double-header against the Seals and Missions.

George Grantham

Though the Corsair skipper has not definitely announced any change in the present arrangement of the inner defense, it is said that he has about made up his mind to order the shift that many fans have felt sure from the start he would eventually make—the sending of Pie Traynor back to third base from shortstop, as soon as Pie is able to resume playing.

BUT that isn't the only change that Bush is planning, according to rumor. The general dope has been that if Traynor were sent back to third, Sparky Adams would go to shortstop and Dick Bartell to second base, or vice versa. According to latest reports, however, when Traynor is moved to third base, Bush will put Adams at shortstop and will bring George Grantham in from the outfield to play second base. This latter shift is based in all likelihood on the expectation that Paul Waner will report soon, the manager probably figuring that with Adam Comorosky or Fred Brickell working with the Waners in the outfield and Grantham at second base, he will have a stronger all-around combination than he would have with Grantham in left field and Bartell at second base. In other words, Comorosky or Brickell would appear to promise a stronger punch than Bartell, plus the ability of either to play the outfield better than Grantham. Perhaps the move will be only a spring arrangement. Grantham failed twice as a second baseman, and Bush may be bringing him only for a time in order to get the benefit of his uncommon spring hitting ability. On account of this latter item, it is a safe bet that Grantham will be squeezed into the lineup for the early stages of the season, at least.

When the planets are favorable, it is an easy matter to secure or hold a position, but when they are unfavorable, everything seems to go wrong.

In my Astrological Readings I endeavor to give you the exact days and dates when the planets are in a favorable or unfavorable aspect for business and social affairs, such as signing papers and contracts, seeking employment, speculation, stocks and bonds, travel, love, courtship and marriage, as well as dealing with health, accidents, lucky days, etc.

What a great comfort it would be for you to have a lengthy, detailed Astrological Reading close at hand, to obtain advice on so many of the affairs of life—one that you could consult today and prepare for what is coming tomorrow.

My fee for an Astrological Reading, covering 17 pages, is $1.00. Order now. It may change the whole course of your life. Enclose a $1.00 bill with your name address and birthdate. You will be more than pleased.

Stocks Rally — Wall Street Quotations

STOCKS RALLY AT CLOSE OF TRADING

NEW YORK, March 22.—(AP.)—A sweeping reaction in stock prices today reflected Wall street's growing uneasiness over the credit situation. "Bull" traders succeeded in bringing out an early rally on the strength of no chance being made in the New York Federal Reserve rediscount rate, but Chicago dispatches indicating the possibility of an increase in that city, coupled with reports that the Federal Reserve Board was in session in Washington, finally brought a large volume of selling into the market, checking the advance and sending scores of issues 2 to 7 points below yesterday's final quotations.

Call money renewed at 9 per cent and appeared to be in moderate supply at that figure, with only a nominal calling of loans. But time money and bankers' acceptance rates were firm at the highest levels in eight years, and Wall Street came to the conclusion that further measures to restrict the volume of speculative credit must be taken at once.

GAINS MELT AWAY

Pool operations were responsible for the early rise. When it became apparent that the rallies merely invited increased offerings, organized buying operations were abandoned and prices melted away rather rapidly. Advance Rumely common ran up to 5½ points to a new high at 97½ and then broke to 89, Greene Cananea moved up 5½ points to 192⅛ and dropped to 183. A. M. Byers fell from 167½ to 159, Union Carbide from 228 to 221¼ and Anaconda from 174 to 165¼.

A further advance in copper prices to 24 cents a pound, the highest since the war, failed to stem the flood of selling in the copper shares. Kennecott and Utah each broke about 5 points, International Nickel 4 and a number of others in that group 2 to 3 points.

Wright Aeronautical was hammered down 7 points, National Cash Register 6, Johns Mansville, Simmons Company, May Department Stores, Bethlehem Steel and U. S. Steel common all sold down 4 to 5 points under the storm of selling orders which blew into the market in the early afternoon.

The fact that no announcement was made after the meeting of Chicago Federal Reserve Bank directors was generally interpreted as an indication that there had been no change in rate, and this started a brisk rally in the late dealings. Many of the speculative shares rallied 2 to 4 points from their low levels of the morning. Baldwin, which dropped from 271½ to 260, rebounded to 265. The closing was steady. Total sales approximated 5,000,000 shares.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, March 22.—Sharp breaks in the price of wheat today resulted largely from selling out on the part of holders and from absence of adequate buying support. The general run of crop advices from the United States winter wheat belt was favorable for plant growth, and in some quarters it was contended that present prospects were better than average for the belt taken as a whole. Export demand today for wheat from North America was again slack.

Wheat closed heavy, 2½ to 3¾c net lower, corn 1¾ to 1¾c down, oats unchanged to 1c off, and provisions varying from 20c decline to a rise of 2c.

In addition to bearish aspects of various domestic crop reports today, considerable talk was current that friends of higher prices for wheat had already discounted the advantage looked for from farm relief legislation. Meanwhile, Liverpool wheat quotations were proving responsive to price setbacks here, and absence of milling demand abroad was noted, with Argentine shipments this week increased almost 2,500,000 bushels over last week.

Moisture indicated for the greater part of domestic wheat territory tonight and tomorrow, with temperatures continuing favorable, tended to give a further advantage to the selling side of the market, but at times it required only moderate buying to bring about rallies. In this connection, some Chicago crop experts touring in Kansas, sent word today that over a large part of the state wheat growth was small, that a number of fields were badly blown, and that in places the farmers were plowing ridges to obstruct soil drifting.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, March 22.—Raw sugar was unchanged per Sunday sale of 25,000 bags of Cubap for early April shipment reported at 3.71, duty paid.

Raw futures opened 1 point lower to 1 point higher. There was some selling by houses with trade and European connections and commission houses bought later deliveries. Subsequently the whole list eased a little under Sunday sales of 50,000 bags with Cuban connections. At midday the market was not unchanged to 2 points lower, influenced by more liberal spot offerings. Trading on the whole was not very active and operations appeared to consist chiefly of evening up for over-the-week-end adjustment. Refined was unchanged. Refiners listed 4.80 for fine granulated, but second hands were available below this level.

Lumber Industry Forms Association as Recovery Aid

By B. C. FORBES

IN THE MIDDLE WEST, March 21.—Almost every basic industry is learning to co-operate. Ruinous competition has inspired this.

This new economic trend is spreading.

THE oil industry is wrestling with what has become a major American industrial problem, over-production. The sooner this invaluable national asset can be handled sensibly, the better will it be for us all. Flagrant waste never pays ultimately. Incidentally oil men in this territory tell me that encouraging progress is now being made in the direction of regulation of over-production, although one or two interests, including one of conspicuous importance, are still disposed to hold aloof from the movement.

The steel industry has its national association. So has the copper industry. So have the rubber industry, the cotton industry, public utilities, the chemical industry, the bankers, dry goods merchants, the silk industry, the railroads, foreign trade interests, etc., etc.

With the advent of President Hoover it is expected that trade associations will feel somewhat freer to carry out more effective programs for co-operative action.

ONE industry which has suffered unusually severely during recent years because of unsatisfactory trade practices is the lumber industry. Lumber too often has been virtually given away, without any real net profit to the producer. Overproduction has been rife.

Competitive tactics frequently have been destructive. Quality standards have been lacking; much second rate timber has been palmed off on the public by irresponsible sellers.

Everybody has consequently suffered. The public interest has been too often sacrificed by helter-skelter methods of using up forests.

THE lumber industry, whose importance to the well being of the nation cannot easily be exaggerated, is now to make a vigorous effort to set its house in order.

To get the facts concerning the new movement I sought out M. B. Nelson, president of the Long-Bell Lumber Company, whose operations are enormous, including the unique, gigantic enterprise established under the direction of the veteran head of the company, R. A. Long, at Longview, on the Columbia River.

MR. NELSON explains the situation thus:

"Until recently statistical and promotional efforts have been confined largely to regional associations in districts widely scattered. This has created a highly competitive situation between the various species of wood, and so progress has been slow. The only reliable information we could get was through government statistics, but these were more than a year old before they were available.

"However, during the past 18 months there has been greater activity on the part of a large number of manufacturers to bring about better co-ordination, because, after all, wood is wood, and one species can often be substituted for another. Data are now being compiled in such a way that it will more nearly reflect the true picture of the entire lumber industry as to capacity, actual production, actual demand, production coming in and production going out.

"With this reliable information before him, the lumber manufacturer can conduct his business in a more intelligent manner.

"For years manufacturers have realized the importance of the public being informed in regard to lumber, and some 18 months ago the National Lumber Manufacturers Association inaugurated an informative advertising campaign. Much time has been given to the study of the manufacture, distribution and use of lumber, and it has been found that not enough attention has been given to the proper drying and caring for lumber and that this has had its effect upon consumption.

"With this in mind, through the consent of its subscribers, the association has adopted a 'Tree' trade-mark, the use of which is authorized by a contract, which obligates the manufacturer to mill mark and grade mark and give a financial guarantee that his product meets the grades of the American lumber standards which were established by the national lumber standardization committee, composed of all branches of the industry, manufacturers, distributors and consumers working in conjunction with the Department of Commerce."

HEREAFTER, when we buy lumber we should get what we pay for. And the industry should be able to rehabilitate itself.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, March 22.—(AP.)—The curb market turned reactionary at midday after a strong opening as rumors spread throughout Wall Street that the Chicago Reserve Bank would raise its rediscount rate. The meeting of the Federal Reserve Board in Washington also contributed to the nervousness of the traders.

Ford Motor of Canada, after advancing 10 points to 1,000, fell back to 964. Zenith Radio broke sharply at noon. In the aircraft group, Aviation Corporation of the Americas continued heavy and lost 3 points.

Oils also joined the slump after early strength. Standard of Indiana was ex-dividend of 50 per cent in stock and ranged from 63 to 61⅝. Humble started off with a 2-point rise, but soon turned reactionary. Losses in other oils ran from 1 to 3 points.

Utilities were heavy all day, although Electric Bond and Share chalked up gains in the early trading.

Advance in copper to 24 cents failed to bring active buying in the mining group, which was dull.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

SOUTH PENN OIL EARNINGS SET RECORD

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE South Penn Oil Company has been showing record-breaking earnings since the beginning of the new year. The full benefit of the high prices for Pennsylvania crude established in the latter part of 1928 is being shown on current production and sales. Unless the price situation should undergo a radical change before the close of this year, the company will be very prosperous during 1929.

The current price of $4.10 a barrel for Pennsylvania crude is $1.30 a barrel more than at the beginning of 1928. The price advances during the year were principally responsible for the fact that last year's earnings reached $3,911,165 or $4.76 a share on the 800,000 shares of stock outstanding at the end of the year.

With only one setback in 1927, when the industry was in a serious depression, South Penn has been showing a steady year by year improvement. In 1922 a deficit of $1,-536,337 was reported. In the following year the loss was cut to $358,955. In 1924 operations were established on a profitable basis with a net of $1,527,468. Profits were increased to $2,875,330 in 1925 and to $3,152,917 in 1926. In the latter year net was equivalent to $3.94 a share. Earnings slumped to $1,-677,774 or $2.10 a share in 1927.

THE company is now engaged in an extensive drilling campaign under the spur of the higher prices prevailing for its products. Although the oil industry as a whole is in a bad statistical position, Pennsylvania crude has been running an independent price course during the last year. The nation-wide advertising of the superior qualities of lubricants made from Pennsylvania crude by the Penzoil Company, controlled by South Penn, and by other refiners has given the oil of this district a market throughout the entire country. As a result of this, even though the oil industry should suffer severely from overproduction this year, Pennsylvania crude is not likely to be as seriously hurt as oil from other districts.

In addition to having a production of about 8,000 barrels of crude oil a day in Pennsylvania and West Virginia, the South Penn Oil Company buys all of the crude oil run by the New York Transit, Southwestern Pennsylvania and Eureka pipe lines. This oil it resells to refiners. Through Penzoil the company refines a large share of its own crude production.

ALTHOUGH a large part of last year's profits were probably derived from the sale of stocks of oil at far higher prices than their original cost, the company is now in a fairly liquid position so that it is not in danger of having to take serious losses in the event of a falling market for crude. At the end of 1927 inventories, consisting mostly of crude oil, amounted to $12,126,734. At the end of 1928 they had declined to $7,478,279, the lowest level shown on the reports for recent years.

As a result of this liquidation of oil stocks, cash and accounts receivable increased to $7,421,566 at the end of 1928, compared with $3,926,-551 at the close of the previous year. Accounts payable declined to $1,632,-$12, compared with $2,527,657.

FOLLOWING the payment of a 50 per cent stock dividend to stockholders of record February 14, the regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share was declared payable on March 30. This did not represent an increase in return to stockholders, however, since the original stock had paid extra dividends of 25 cents a share with the regular dividends in the two quarters preceding the payment of the stock dividend.

South Penn has no preferred stock and no bonds. The capital stock represents a prior lien on the earnings. The physical properties are valued at $22,-121,236 and the total assets amount to $50,063,663. Surplus at the end of 1928 had reached a total of $28,033,686. The stock dividend which took place after the end of the year accounted for the distribution of $10,000,000 of this.

FLAG CONTEST WRITERS ARE URGED TO BEGIN ESSAYS

WORLD CRUISE AWAITS THE WINNERS

WASHINGTON, March 22.—A request that the 250,000 boys and girls participating in the great annual flag contest of the United States Flag Association start at once to prepare their essays on "Old Glory's Greatest Glory" has been made by Col. James A. Moss, president general of the association.

Col. Moss said he believed most of the contestants already had found the answers to the 75 questions about the flag and the things for which it stands, and that the answers to those questions would provide the inspiration for the essay.

The questions have appeared in the Hearst newspapers, sponsors of the contest, and thousands of reprints of these questions have been sent to schools and patriotic organizations throughout the country.

WINNERS GET TRIP

The grand national award for the two boys and two girls who submit the best sets of answers and the best essays is a trip around the world, while each of the 18 sponsoring newspapers will send one boy and one girl on a patriotic pilgrimage to historic shrines of the Eastern United States. School and organization champions will receive medals.

"Just what is 'Old Glory's greatest glory?'" asked Col. Moss, in discussing the essay phase of the contest.

"It is hard to tell. It may be the American home, it may be American manhood or womanhood, it may be America's vast resources. It may be the unlimited opportunity that is afforded to everyone who dwells beneath the folds of the American flag."

CLOSES APRIL 12

It was pointed out that contestants must submit their answers to the questions and their essays to the head of the school or organization that is conducting their contest not later than April 12. The essays must be of such length that they can be recited in five minutes' time, or less.

WHERE FIRE CAUSED $100,000 LOSS

RUINS OF WASHINGTON, PA., BUILDINGS AFTER BLAZE

A scene in Washington, Pa., as firemen poured water on smouldering embers of the $100,000 conflagration that destroyed 10 buildings in the town yesterday.

$100,000 BLAZE IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 22.—Business places and residences were destroyed in the fire which broke out here late yesterday afternoon in the Third street-Jefferson avenue section of Washington, causing a property loss estimated today by the owners as exceeding $100,000.

The heaviest loss was caused to the Landay holdings in this district, David Landay and the Landay estate suffering damage estimated at $50,000.

The fire was most spectacular, flames being fanned by a strong west wind. Traffic in the immediate district was sold up for hours.

Departments from Wheeling, Houston and Canonsburg sent men and equipment to fight the flames.

"BOMBS" IN MAIL PROVE DUDS USED BY LECTURER

NEW YORK, March 22.—(AP.)—Three bombs discovered in a parcel post package at the Grand Central Postoffice were found by the police today to be harmless lecture exhibits.

The package had been addressed to Chicago, and the police at first thought New York gangsters were using the mails to ship ammunition to pals in that city. They immediately placed the bombs in water to permit a later inspection without danger of an explosion.

It was not until George L. Hostetter, Chicago lawyer and author of a book on Chicago racketeers, appeared at police headquarters that it was learned the bombs were "duds." He said he had used them in a lecture at the Hotel Astor and that it was his practice to ship them from one city to another when he traveled.

BELGIANS AID ROMANCES

ARLON, Belgium.—An ancient Belgium custom which gives aid to lonely lovers is still maintained here, in the province of Luxemburg.

Twice each year Arlon celebrates "The Lovers' Fair." The first fair is held on St. Nicholas day; the second, not long afterward, on the Thursday following the New Year.

At St. Nicholas, the young farmer who is looking for a wife visits the fair. Blooming girls from remote villages and hamlets, of the Ardennes highlands, who are looking for husbands also attend the celebration in large numbers. There are many means of making them acquainted.

When the young man has discovered the girl who he believes will fulfill his dreams, he first gives her candy. If she takes kindly to this token of affection, he treats her next with beer and sausages.

At the post New Year fair, the young pair by custom make final settlement of the plans suggested at the former meeting and they become definitely engaged. It is customary for the wedding to take place within the next few weeks.

GARY HATCHET SUSPECT HELD

GARY, Ind., March 22.—(AP.)—Police today believed they were near solution of Gary's hatchet crimes through the admission by Gillis Mack, 28-year-old Negro, that he had participated in the attacks.

Mack persisted in denying he was the slayer of Josephine Adorizzi, who was clubbed, attacked and left dead in a vacant lot, but he said he acted as watcher while another man committed the crime. He confessed, police said, to having clubbed Mary Gigi, 16-year-old Milwaukee (Wis.) girl, and her escort a week ago. The girl's condition is critical, but her escort, Chester Dybalski, of New Chicago, Ind., is recovering.

Cleared of Selling Stolen Automobiles

William R. Thompson, Atlantic City, tried on 10 charges of false pretense, before Visiting Judge Charles M. Culver, Bradford county, was found not guilty in a sealed verdict opened in Criminal Court today.

The jury split the costs between Thompson and the prosecutor, Edward L. Hollahan, Ninth street. Hollanhan alleged that Thompson had sold him stolen autos, representing that they had been seized by prohibition agents.

Thompson denied he knew the autos had been stolen.

ALLIES-GERMAN PAY PLAN O.K., REPORT

(Copyright, 1929, International Feature Service, Inc.)

PARIS, March 22.—The Allied reparation experts have tentatively accepted Germany's offer of "conditional" reparation payments equal to the Allied war debts, it was learned today from an authoritative source.

Germany, however, stipulated that the offer is good only if Germany is granted a moratorium with the same delay the Allies obtained from the United States.

The actual sum was not mentioned in view of the United States' refusal to intermingle the war debt question with the reparation issue. But, Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, head of the German Reichsbank and leader of the German delegation to the reparation conference, will inform the Berlin government that the Allied experts accept the German offer in principle.

See Crucial Point In Reparation Plan

BERLIN, March 22.—(AP.)—German political and economic circles feel that the return of Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, to Berlin marks the beginning of the most crucial period of the course of the conference of reparations experts at Paris. Dr. Schacht, arriving this morning, denied himself to all interviewers and had his secretary announce that he would make no statements during his stay in Berlin. His office maintained its version of yesterday that there was no conference of industrialists and financiers scheduled.

The informant of the Associated Press, who is close to the German government, outlined the present situation, saying:

"From the beginning of the Paris negotiations those on the inside knew that the difference between the Allies' annuities demands and the German maximum offer was 800,000,000 marks (about $192,000,000)—that is, the Allies asked 2,200,000,000 marks annuities and the Germans offered only 1,400,000,000."

That the Mayor and the Director of the Department of Public Works be and they are hereby authorized and directed to make, execute and deliver in the name of and on behalf of the City of Pittsburgh, an agreement granting the consent o the City to the County in the following form, to-wit:

AGREEMENT

MADE THIS.....A. D. 1929, between the County of Allegheny, a public corporation of Pennsylvania, hereinafter called "County," party of the first part, and the City of Pittsburgh, a municipal corporation of the State of Pennsylvania, within the limits of said County, hereinafter called the "City" party of the second part.

WHEREAS—The Saw Mill Run boulevard, in the City of Pittsburgh consisting of the north branch, from Warrington avenue to Woodruff street, the south branch, from West Liberty avenue to the City of Pittsburgh-Borough of Overbrook line, and from the Borough of Overbrook and former Carrick Borough line to Library road (State Highway Route No. 247), and the McKinley Park branch, from the south branch to Bausman street, as located and opened by city ordinances, is to be a principal thoroughfare, and

WHEREAS—The County Commissioners of Allegheny County deem it advisable and necessary to improve said Saw Mill Run boulevard, in said City between the points mentioned, and are of the opinion that the County should bear a portion of the cost, and the corporate authorities of the City of Pittsburgh believe it will be greatly to the interest and advantage of said City and a great saving of expense thereto, if said improvement of said boulevard within its corporate limits be made, and the cost and expense thereof be paid jointly by the City and the County as hereinafter specified.

NOW, THEREFORE, THIS AGREEMENT WITNESSETH, That for the consideration hereinafter mentioned, the parties hereto do covenant and agree, to and with each other as follows:

FIRST. The name "Library Road" as located and opened by ordinances of the City of Pittsburgh, shall be changed by ordinance of the City, to "Saw Mill Run Boulevard," from Woodruff street to Library road; and to "Saw Mill Run Boulevard—McKinley Park Branch," from Saw Mill Run boulevard to Bausman street.

SECOND. The parties hereto agree that the Saw Mill Run boulevard, within the limits of said City, for a distance of approximately 13,640.0 feet shall be improved between the following terminal points:

BEGINNING at Warrington avenue and extending to Woodruff street comprising the north branch, beginning at West Liberty avenue and extending to the City of Pittsburgh-Borough of Overbrook line, and from the Borough of Overbrook and former Carrick Borough line to Library road (State Highway Route No. 247), comprising the south branch, and from the south branch to Bausman street, comprising the McKinley Park branch. The consent of the City of Pittsburgh is hereby given to the County of Allegheny to carry out the provisions hereinafter set forth.

THIRD. Said Saw Mill Run boulevard between the terminal points, shall be improved by the County to the following widths: North and south branches, thirty (30') feet of paving and forty-two (42') feet of grading, and the McKinley Park branch, twenty (20') feet of paving and thirty-three (33') feet of grading, all exclusive of slopes. The work shall be done to lines and grades established by the City and in conformity with plans and specifications prepared by the Department of Public Works of Allegheny County and approved by the Commissioners of said Allegheny County and the Director of the Department of Public Works of the City of Pittsburgh, to the limits shown on said plans.

FOURTH. The improvement of said Saw Mill Run boulevard as set forth in the first and second paragraphs under this agreement, shall be done by a contract or contracts, awarded therefor, by the County of Allegheny, after approval of the plans and specifications by the Mayor and the Director of the Department of Public Works of the City of Pittsburgh, pursuant to the Acts of Assembly relating to same. The County shall have charge of the work and the City may, at its own cost and expense, furnish whatever engineering and inspectional service it so desires. And complaint which the City may have as to the manner of construction or the materials or methods used, shall be made in writing to the Director of the Department of Public Works of Allegheny County, within three (3) days, otherwise all work and materials shall be considered by the County as being done and furnished, placed or erected, satisfactory to the City.

FIFTH. The City agrees at its own cost and expense, to construct all sanitary sewers or storm water drains, including house or other connections required within the limits of this improvement, prior to or during the construction work to be done by the County under this agreement, exclusive, however of the storm water drains shown on the boulevard plans as approved. The City also agrees to require the construction of any water lines with the necessary house or other connections, fire hydrants, gate boxes, etc., within the limits of this improvement, at the cost or expense of the City, individuals or public utility companies, prior to or during the construction work to be done by the County under this agreement. All work on sanitary sewers, storm water drains and water lines, shall be done by the City or utility company in such a manner that no interference or delay shall be occasioned to the County's contractor on this work. The altering, repairing or reconstructing of existing catch basins or storm inlets within the limits of this improvement shall be included in the construction work to be performed by the County under the terms of this agreement.

SIXTH. The City agrees to enact any ordinance which may be necessary to locate, relocate open or widen, establish or re-establish the grade and curb lines of said Saw Mill Run boulevard, as shown on the plans as approved as well as any existing streets or alleys affected by this improvement to condemn or otherwise secure all private or public property necessary for this purpose.

SEVENTH. The City agrees to assume and become liable for all damages occasioned by reason of this improvement by the opening, locating, relocating, widening, establishing or re-establishing of grades required for the aforesaid improvement o the Saw Mill Run boulevard, as shown on the plans as approved, between the terminal points hereinbefore mentioned. The City agrees that it will assume and become liable for all damages to property, including surface and sub-surface structures, caused by said improvement of the Saw Mill Run boulevard, including damages to person or property occasioned from any obstruction on said boulevard or part thereof, not due to the negligence of the said County or its contractor or contractors. The City agrees to affect the re-construction of the bridge of the Pittsburgh Railway Company, so that no bents or supports of said bridge shall be located within or encroach upon the lines of the Saw Mill Run boulevard—McKinley Park branch, and further agrees to relieve the County of any cost or expense whatsoever occasioned thereby.

EIGHTH. The City agrees to light the boulevard and maintain the necessary lighting system. It is further agreed that after the completion of the improvement aforesaid, the City shall maintain and keep the Saw Mill Run boulevard, including all structures incidental to the improvement, between the terminal points hereinbefore described, in good repair, and the County shall be forever afterwards relieved of any responsibility for the maintenance or repair thereof.

NINTH. The City agrees to give all notices to fully advise all parties concerned of the proposed improvement, and require all service companies and private parties to make the necessary repairs and connections to existing utilities and to install any new utilities with their house or other connections to points outside the limits of this improvement, prior to or during the construction of the boulevard.

TENTH. In case the City installs either water or sewer lines on this highway after the signing of this agreement, the City agrees to backfill the trench or trenches in a workmanlike manner and place any concrete over the same that may be required to reinforce the subgrade to permit the paving of the street. Where public service corporations or individuals open such trenches, the City shall require said corporations or individuals to back, fill the trenches in a workmanlike manner and provide any concrete necessary to reinforce the subgrade to permit the paving of the street; or the City may require said corporations or individuals to pay for said work, which shall be done by the City of Pittsburgh's forces. The City agrees to relieve the County of the responsibility for the failure of any part of the paving of the roadway or any structures occasioned by the subsidence of any trenches opened by the City, public service corporations or individuals, whether said trenches are opened before or after the paving of this boulevard by a contract or contracts let by Allegheny County.

ELEVENTH. The City agrees to pay to the County the additional cost of backfilling any trenches with slag over the cost of removing and re-placing concrete used for pavement over said trenches, when trenches opened by either the City or others are found in such condition as to endanger the strength or stability of the work to be done by the County. In case such trenches are found, their condition shall be brought to the attention of the Director of Public Works of the City by letter, and if the condition is not corrected by the City within three days after the delivery of such letter, the County shall correct the condition and bill the City for the actual construction cost of the same.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, The County has caused its common and corporate seal to be affixed hereto, duly attested by the Chief Clerk of the County Commissioners, and this agreement to be signed by its County Commissioners, and this agreement is signed and executed in the name of the City of Pittsburgh, by the Mayor and the Director of the Department of Public Works, and the Seal of the City is by its proper officers hereto affixed, they being duly authorized so to do by Ordinance of said City, all done this day and year aforesaid.

All of the said work, including the paving of the street damaged, shall be done in the manner and at such times as the Director may order, and shall be subject to his approval and supervision.

SECTION 5. The rights and privileges granted by this Ordinance are granted upon the express condition that the City of Pittsburgh, within its discretion, reserves the right to cause the removal of the said pipe lines, upon giving six (6) months' notice through the proper officers pursuant to resolution or ordinance of Council to Crandall-McKenzie & Henderson, Incorporated, its successors and assigns, to that effect; and that the said grantee, when so notified, shall at the expiration of the said six (6) months forthwith, remove the said pipe lines and replace the street to its original condition, at its own cost and expense.

AGREEMENT

MADE AND ENTERED INTO this ..... day of ....., 19...., between the City of Pittsburgh, a Municipal Corporation of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, hereinafter called the "City," by Charles H. Kline, Mayor, and Edward G. Lang, Director of the Department of Public Works, party of the first part, the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, a corporation of the State of Maryland, operating the Pittsburgh Junction Railroad Company, party of the second part, hereinafter called the "Railroad Company."

AND

WHEREAS—The City of Pittsburgh contemplates the construction of a relief sewer in the Thirty-third Street Drainage Basin, extending eastwardly along Thirty-third street and Liberty avenue to a point in the vicinity of Cayuga street; and

WHEREAS—The tracks and structures of the Railroad Company are located along and adjacent to Thirty-third street and Neville street practically throughout the entire length of the proposed relief sewer construction; and,

WHEREAS—In connection with the construction of the Thirty-third Street Relief Sewer, eastwardly of Liberty avenue, it will be necessary to cross under the tracks and structures of the Railroad Company, and parallel said tracks and structures of the Railroad Company in close proximity to same, all of which location is shown in red on attached plans, drawing No. 12879, Railroad Plan, copy of which is attached hereto and made a part hereof; and,

WHEREAS—In order to protect the tracks and structures of the Railroad Company, the said Railroad Company desires that certain portions of said relief sewer work shall be done by the Railroad Company and that certain portions of the work to be carried out by the City shall be done in a certain manner,

NOW, THEREFORE, THIS AGREEMENT WITNESSETH, that for the considerations hereinafter mentioned, the parties hereto do covenant and agree to and with each other as follows:

THE RAILROAD COMPANY WILL

1. Without compensation grant to the City easements for the construction of its sewer where same crosses private railroad property at the corner of Liberty avenue and Thirty-third street and at points between Thirty-third street and the Railroad's "High Line" in Neville street, all as shown on Railroad Plan No. 12879, as easements 1, 2 and 3.

2. Build the sewer for a distance of about 135 lineal feet from station 28 plus 35.42 to station 29 plus 70.98, crossing under the retaining walls and tracks of said Railroad Company's "High Line," including special work necessary to support said retaining walls and tracks, and in accordance with plans approved by the City and under the supervision of the City. The Railroad Company to receive from the City a contribution at the rate of $125.00 per lineal foot of said sewer to apply on the cost of this construction as hereinafter provided.

3. At its own expense construct switchback arrangement shown in yellow on drawing No. 12879, and remove same on completion of the work, restoring streets and ways to their original condition.

4. Reimburse the City of Pittsburgh for special precautions to be used in the construction of that part of the sewer along Neville street extending from Station 29 plus 70.98 eastwardly for approximately 2100 feet, as follows:

(a) For additional sheeting and bracing	$ 7,392.00
(b) For bolting knee braces	1,890.00
(c) For concrete backfill	10,773.00
Total	$20,055.00

all as shown on Plan Access. No. D-3809, City Drawing, dated January, 1929, and revised under date of March 2nd, 1929, on file in the Bureau of Engineering, Department of Public Works of the City of Pittsburgh.

5. At its own expense take up and relay its tracks on Neville street progressively as required during the construction of the sewer.

THE CITY WILL

1. In general, exercise all reasonable precautions for the support of the adjoining ground and structures, leaving in place all timber bracing and sheeting and having the trench backfilled with suitable material properly tamped, wherever said sewer construction adjoins or affects the tracks and structures of the Railroad Company.

2. Construct said sewer under the tracks leading to the Thirty-third Street freight house of the Railroad Company by the tunnel method, or in lieu of that, at its own expense support said tracks to the satisfaction of the Railroad Company's engineer during the excavation for and construction of said sewer. The tracks so supported to include any affected portions of the main lead track to the freight house, at or near the point where the City sewer turns across the Railroad "High Line."

3. Contribute at the rate of $125.00 per lineal foot toward the cost of the special construction of that section of the sewer to be built by said Railroad under its main tracks and retaining walls from Station 28 plus 35.42 to Station 29 plus 70.98, a distance of about 135 lineal feet as shown on drawing No. 12879 hereto attached and in detail on City plan dated January, 1929, as revised March 2nd, 1929, Access. No. D-3809.

4. For the remaining portion of the sewer to be constructed on the northerly side of and parallel to the "High Line" tracks of said Railroad, extending eastwardly from Station 29 plus 70.98, a distance of approximately 2100 lineal feet as shown on plan No. 12879, the City shall take special precautions for the support of retaining walls and tracks adjacent to its sewer excavation, as shown on plan Access. No. D-3809, City drawing, dated January, 1929, and revised under date of March 2nd, 1929, for which the Railroad Company will compensate the City as hereinbefore provided. The City will, however, at its own expense, put in bottom walers and cross braces at each section of the excavation where foundation is not in rock or hard shale.

5. The Railroad Company agrees to pay to the Treasurer of the City of Pittsburgh, within thirty (30) calendar days after the completion of all of the portions of the sewer contemplated in this agreement, the difference between the totals of the City's contribution and the Railroad Company's reimbursement to the City, as above provided.

6. The City is concerned, together with the Railroad Company, in the maintenance of railroad sidings serving industries on the northerly side of Neville street and to that end will assist the Railroad Company by the issuance of the necessary permits for occupation of streets and by using its influence with adjoining property owners to provide for the construction of a switchback arrangement of tracks, shown in yellow on said drawing No. 12879, so that during the construction of its sewer on Neville street, the Railroad Company may maintain service by track connections to both east and west ends of the Neville street tracks, portions of which will be taken up progressively during the construction of the sewer.

It is understood and agreed that neither the purpose nor intent nor obligation of this contract, if and when approved by the Public Service Commission of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in such as to impair or in anywise affect the exercise by said Commission of any of the powers vested in it by the Public Service Company laws, approved July 26th, 1913.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties to this agreement each, pursuant to proper ordinances and resolutions authorizing the same, hereto affixed their respective seals, duly attested by the proper officers the day and year first above written.

THIS is J. Botowalla Doakes, newly elected President of the Window Glass Manufacturers' Association, who asks the public to suspend judgment upon so-called gangster outrages in Chicago. As a matter of fact, says Mr. Doakes, there were only 138 bombings in Chicago during the last 12 months. And in some instances no one was seriously injured. Furthermore, he declares that the window pane industry has expansion plans which will meet the normal increase in bombings—and that glaziers are being brought to Chicago from all over the world. Is it fair, he asks, to criticize the so-called gangsters, who, after all, are just up to boyish pranks?

Kinloch Mine Disaster Shows Risks Too Great

Pittsburgh again has been shocked by news of a mine accident, another of a series of disastrous occurrences which, over a period of years, have been the tragic element associated with wresting coal from the seams of this district.

Around the wrecked entrance of the Kinloch mine of the Valley Camp Coal Company, near Parnassus, there is visible the evidence of the latest demonstration of the fact that we have not yet learned to mine our coal in a way that will not be so extremely hazardous.

Fortunately, the loss in life was not as great as was at first indicated, yet the toll was far too great. We cannot escape responsibility by stating that mining is a risky occupation and that those who engage in it accept its risks. The answer is that we must reduce the hazards. We have tried to do that, of course, and will keep on trying. Technical genius has expended some of its greatest efforts toward the end of making mine working a more safe occupation. Yet accidents continue to occur. We should not accept that as an evidence that they must continue to occur.

Humanity will welcome the day when underground operations of collieries will become entirely mechanical. As mining now is, the risk is too great to expect men to assume it. The tendency is in the direction of mechanical operation, though it is likely that many years will elapse ere the ideal is fulfilled. Meantime men must go into mines to earn a living for which they too often sacrifice their lives, as so many of them appear to have done at Kinloch mine. Necessity drives them underground and women and children wait anxiously on the surface for their return. Bread! How dear it is to some! Death! How near at hand!

Sympathy, of course, goes to those who are bereft through martyrdom to industry at Kinloch mine. We would not stay the hand of sympathy nor modify its consoling touch. But we would—oh, we would—that it never were necessary to extend it and that instead we could say to the miner: "Go to your work in safety and prepare for the day when you never will have to enter a mine again."

Pleasures of Motoring Greatest of Our Boons

The motoring season again is at hand. From now until the snow flies again pleasant Sundays will see our highways thronged with cars. The last two or three Sundays warmed the blood of the more eager of those who find great pleasure in a journey into the country, even when the trees are bare and the fields are brown. Yet there always is charm in nature. Lack of verdure is compensated by less obstructed views of the hilltops as they roll away into the distance presenting vistas of magnificance.

Already trees are taking on a softer appearance and here and there green begins to appear in brown sward, presaging the advent of the panoply of spring. Each day now brings a slight change that in a few weeks will be reflected in that great transformation that is so familiar yet so mysterious and enchanting. It is magic that never grows stale, never becomes altogether understandable.

So, during the next few weeks, Sundays, and later, pleasant evenings, will witness a revival of pleasure driving, the greatest boon ever given to us. Our fathers did not have the automobile, so sat at home. We have it, and stay at home or seek the joys of the road according to inclination. We have much to be thankful for.

With the coming of touring weather, The Sun-Telegraph resumes the publication of routes that can be covered in a day's

We Recognize Mexico

Why Not Russia? What's the Difference?

Russia more than 10 years ago set up a government TO SUIT THE RUSSIANS. That government began by proving its ability to hold back the united forces of Europe, with the United States HELPING those united forces. It has succeeded in establishing one of the most stable of European governments.

There are some things about the government that we Americans don't like. It interferes with religious liberty. In fact, on conspicuous posters outside churches the Bolshevik government declares "Religion is the opium of the common people, stupefying them, keeping them from thinking."

We don't like that. A man may think as he pleases on religion.

We don't like especially the fact that the new Russian government now refuses to pay money that the Czar's government and Kerensky's government borrowed from foolish American financiers, who should have known better.

This country declines to recognize the government of Russia—but we DO recognize the government of Mexico.

Revolutionists in Mexico, against whom we send arms, complain, truly or otherwise, that the Mexican government treats religion as the Russian government treats religion, but not quite so badly.

Mexico is alleged to owe money to American citizens, as the Russian government is alleged to owe money to American citizens. Yet we support Mexico's government and nobody criticizes that.

Mr. Hoover has made clear—forbidding shipments of arms to Mexican revolutionists while sending 10,000,000 rounds of ammunition, machine guns, rifles and airplanes to the Mexican government—that he thinks the established Mexican government worthy of support.

Russia surely has an ESTABLISHED government. Why not support that on the theory that each nation has a right to the kind of government it prefers, and that it is NOT the business of outside nations to criticize other governments or dictate laws or policies for another country. We dealt with the Turks when they were polygamists and Mohammedans.

We recognize most politely the government of Mustapha Kemal, who has taken possession of Turkey, and runs it in accordance with his views.

We recognize as Shah of Persia a stableman recently employed by the British Embassy, now, by force of arms, sitting on the ancient Persian throne.

We recognized Kerensky when he took the place of the Czar without any "By your leave."

If we could stomach the comic opera government of Kerensky, with his comic opera marriage, why not recognize a REAL government set up by powerful Lenin and ably maintained by Stalin?

That is one of the questions for President Hoover to settle.

Flying On!

Tales That Are Told

Price of Silence

THE Negro preacher had successfully concealed the fact that he had served a term in prison, but long years of upright living had not destroyed his fear of exposure.

One Sunday, on rising to begin his sermon, his heart sank on seeing a former cell mate in one of the front pews.

Quick thinking was necessary. He fixed his eye on the stranger and delivered himself slowly and impressively as follows:

"Ah takes mah text dis mo'nin' from de sixty-fo' chapter an' de fo' hundre'th verse ob de Gospel ob Saint John, which says, 'Dem as sees me, an' knows me, an' says nothin', dem will Ah see later.'"

Stop!

THEY had stood on the edge of a crowded platform on the underground railway. It was obvious that the young man was very much in love with his pretty companion. As a matter of fact, he was pleading with her to marry him. The girl could not make up her mind. The young man was desperate.

"If you won't listen to me I'll throw myself in front of the train that's just coming in!" he cried.

The girl was frightened.

"For goodness sake give me time to think," she said, anxiously. "In any case, there'll be another train in a minute."

Safe!

AN old lady was going down a coal mine for the first time in her life. As the cage descended she suddenly noticed how she and the rest of the party were dependent upon a single rope.

"Do you think it's quite safe?" she asked rather anxiously of a miner as she glanced at the rope.

"Safe as the bank, ma'am," returned the grimy miner cheerfully. "There's nothing to be afraid of. These ropes are guaranteed to last exactly 12 months, and this one ain't due to be renewed until tomorrow."

Business First

THE old gentleman had wandered into a big store, and in a moment was surrounded by shopwalkers.

"What is your pleasure, sir?" a clerk asked.

The old gentleman was rather embarrassed.

"Er—er—well, my pleasure is fishing," he replied, hesitatingly, "but I—er—rather wanted a new hat."

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

THERE was a Scotchman making such a terrible rumpus at a coin-box telephone that a clerk from the telephone headquarters went there as fast as he could in a car. He took two policemen and the president of the company with him.

"Now what's the matter?" says a cop to the Scotchman, who was wrecking the booth.

"Matter?" he says. "Why, mon, this box is a bonnie swindle! I put a nickel into it, and oot pours 20 cents. Then I put in another nickel, and nothing at all comes oot!"

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

EVER since I became aware that the human race was divided into Hes and Shes I have been informed that women are the sentimental sex and men the practical.

Men might have their amorous periods, but they were really cold brutes at heart, much more interested in the stock market than love. To the ladies were alloted all the refinements of passion, all the exquisite delights of romance. Only females knew what love was all about and lived worthily of it. In short, men were at best, crude, unfeeling monsters and women were chock full of loyalty, devotion, self-sacrifice and beautiful thoughts.

"Man's love is of his life a thing apart,
'Tis woman's whole existence."

In common with the rest of the world I accepted that ancient couplet as one of the eternal truths. But with the passage of the years I have come to have my doubts.

Women are NOT the sentimental sex.

They are infinitely more practical about love than men.

Men are really idealists about love—romantic dreamers.

WHEN HE FALLS IN LOVE A MAN LAYS ALL HIS CARDS ON THE TABLE. BUT A WOMAN ALWAYS KEEPS AN ACE UP HER SLEEVE.

And this is but right and natural. Live is a "woman's whole existence." It is her main business in life. It is a sternly practical business which involves a home for herself and her children, protection in illness, life insurance, social prestige, desirable leisure.

A woman cannot afford to be vague or too impulsive in these matters. However much she may love she must always think where love may lead her. And she always does. A woman always sees a potential husband in every lover. She analyzes love—audits it—

BUT A MAN BOLTS LOVE, HOOK, BAIT AND SINKER.

And he can do this because love actually is "a thing apart" in his life.

The hardest boiled Bad Hombre usually sets more store by love than the most fluttering young virgin. He has more illusions about it—will believe more romantic impossibilities. He may be exceedingly cynical when the dream has faded, but while he is in the throes he abandons himself as few women would dream of doing.

Women boast much of their superior faithfulness in marriage and pin many medals on themselves for the same. The answer to that is—WOMEN NEED MARRIAGE. MEN DON'T. Women are not more loyal because they love more deeply. They are loyal because they would suffer more greatly from disloyalty.

GRAVITATION PROOF

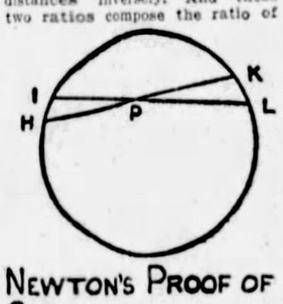
By Garrett P. Serviss

"In you article entitled 'The Earth's Center,' you stated that if a feather were placed in a spherical hollow at the center of the earth, it would remain listlessly in the same position. But if the feather were placed nearer to one part of the wall than to others would not the greater gravity of that part draw the feather to it? I believed that the force of gravity varied inversely as the square of the distance.—George F. Taylor, Brooklyn."

YOU are perfectly right in your belief about the variation of the force of gravity with distance, but that is also perfectly consistent with what was said in the article about the motionlessness of a particle placed inside a hollow gravitating sphere. The statement is based on one of the earliest principles used by Newton in establishing his law of gravitation. As the demonstration he employed is very simple, you may be interested in seeing it, together with the same drawing that Newton used in illustration.

Here is the drawing, together with what he said about it, translated into English from his "Principia." This is the way Newton explains the drawing, and I think you can follow his meaning without difficulty.

"Let H I K L be a spherical superficies and P a corpuscle placed within. Through P let there be drawn to this superficies two lines, H K and I L, intercepting very small arcs. H I and K L; then, because the triangles H P I and L P K are alike (similar), those arcs will be proportional to the distances H P and L P; and any particles at H I and K L of the spherical superficies, terminated by right lines passing through P, will be in the duplicate ratio (i. e., in the ratio of the squares) of those distances. Therefore, the forces of these particles exerted upon the body P are equal between themselves. For the forces are as the particles directly and the squares of the distances inversely. And these two ratios compose the ratio of equality. The attractions, therefore, being made equally toward contrary parts, destroy each other. And by a like reasoning, all the attractions through the whole spherical superficies are destroyed by contrary attractions. Therefore, the body P will not be any way impelled by those attractions. Q. E. D."



NEWTON'S PROOF OF GRAVITATION INSIDE A SHELL.

"Q. E. D.," indeed, for it certainly was a proposition that needed to be demonstrated, so unlikely must it have appeared to the average man in Newton's day, and so unlikely does it appear today to all who have not studied it carefully. But it is true, by Newton's law, whatever be the thickness of the spherical shell. There might be a hollow only a few feet across at the earth's center, surrounded by a spherical shell thousands of miles thicker; or the thickness of the shell might be reduced to a mere film like a soapbubble, yet the attractions of all its particles would destroy one another's effect upon a particle placed anywhere inside.

Bible Passages

God's Grace

(Psalm 65)

PRAISE waiteth for thee, O God, in Sion: and unto thee shall the vow be performed.

O thou that hearest prayer, unto thee shall all flesh come.

Iniquities prevail against me: as for our transgressions, thou shalt purge them away.

Blessed is the man whom thou choosest, and causest to approach unto thee, that he may dwell in thy courts: we shall be satisfied with the goodness of thy house, even of thy holy temple.

By terrible things in righteousness wilt thou answer us, O God of our salvation who are the confidence of all ends of the earth, and of them that are afar off upon the sea:

Which by his strength setteth fast the mountains; being girded with power:

Which stilleth the noise of the seas, the noise of their waves, and the tumult of the people.

They also that dwell in the uttermost parts are afraid at thy tokens: thou makest the outgoings of the morning and evening to rejoice

Thou visitest the earth, and waterest it: thou greatly enrichest it with the river of God, which is full of water: thou preparest them corn, when thou hast so provided for it.

Thou waterest the ridges thereof abundantly: thou settlest the furrows thereof: thou makest it soft with showers: thou blessest the springing thereof.

Thou crownest the year with thy goodness; and thy paths drop fatness.

They drop upon the pastures of the wilderness: and the little hills rejoice on every side.

The pastures are clothed with flocks; the valleys also are covered over with corn: they shout for joy, they also sing.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

The Road

THERE is a road where many pass
And upon one side there lies
A stretch of weird, mist-wreathed morass;
Beyond, great trees arise.
Through all that forest dark and drear
Lurk grisly, shapeless Things of Fear!

But bordering the other side
Are sunlit hill and plain
And gleaming lakes and meadows wide,
With fields of waving grain;
And here, while plying seasons go,
The sturdy farm hands plant and hoe.

Some travelers at close of day
Tell tales with muted breath
Of dreadful scenes along that way,
Foreboding pain and death,
Of phantoms peering through the mist
Of forests where grim ghouls keep tryst.

And others tell, instead, of joy
In many a harvest field;
Of laughing lass and toiling boy
And patient hopes revealed.
Through foul and fair the roadway lies,
And where men choose, they cast their eyes.

The New Conscience

By Herbert Kaufman

BIG BUSINESS has developed a conscience—and has found it in the balance sheet. It's cheaper to be right, than to fight confiscatory legislation.

The old school too often believed that every man had his price. But time and statutory retribution have shown that the price was eventually too high.

Insiders remember when monopoly and public service corporations not only controlled judiciary appointments, but dictated judicial decisions besides.

Judges and officials, who didn't jump to their whip-crack, were erased from subsequent caucus slates.

Railroad and power czars carried political bosses in change pockets, and manipulated party organization with their slush funds.

Consequently, entire commonwealths were dominated by invisible government and popular welfare was thwarted at every hand.

We'd have half as much regulation, if we'd had half as much rapacity.

Every supervisory law in the codes was inspired by the very interests that now squirm in its handcuffs.

Federal authority didn't turn policeman and swing the Sherman Act until drunken greed and insolent predacity evoked its restraining influence. The radical tendencies of certain states—the Blue Sky Laws—the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Federal Trade Board—are natural descendants of Grandfather Plunderbund.

They wouldn't exist, if special privilege hadn't once used so many black-jacks and brass-knuckles, or set up so many toll-gates along the routes of distribution and opportunity.

America has never desired to rob the victor of his honest spoils—yet refuses to be a further victim of its despoilers.

Far-sighted capital recognizes the distinction. The greater captains of affairs generally realize a concurrent obligation to good citizenship and dividend production.

Nine concerns in ten understand that they can't fare so far if they don't play fair.

Trade bodies have for years proved their capacity for self-correction—to define their own field limits and foul lines.

The triumph of the Rockefeller faction, at Whiting, was only possible because the leading bankers and fortune-makers of the United States voted their vast Indiana holdings for honorable business practice, and against the now repudiated principle that "success justifies its processes."

Never forget, it was big business, and not small investors, that delivered this last rebuke upon the Continental Oil transaction.

There are still dirty tools and corners in the house of business. But the profit and loss account will gradually disclose and disinfect 'em.

President Hoover isn't disturbed at the prospect of continued consolidations and expansions.

Both he and the engineers of these colossal ventures know, that they can't build high if they don't build straight.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 22.—Thoughts while strolling: The fascinating foreign periodical counter at Brentano's. Gorgeous cushions for Persian cats. Irene Hayes, the Park avenue florist. Doll house shoe shops. H. I. Phillips, a New Haven (Conn.) boy, who made good in the city. Phil Baker and Aileen Stanley.

That crowded co-operative cafeteria. Something alert about a red-headed man. Dr. Joseph Collins, who writes of love and things. And sports a goatee. Nothing makes a house so friendly as a window box of blooming flowers. What's become of Mencken's syndicated articles?

A chestnut vendor with velveteen coat and a big ring in his ear. A stray dog with wistful eyes sniffing at a cafe grating. Lee and Jacob Shubert. They say they never forget a slight. Neither do I, but what does it get me? No one seems entirely satisfied with a clipping bureau.

Bill Robinson, who is a celebrated colored tap dancer at 53. One of the most tragic figures in New York to me is James Stillman, the banker. Whatever became of milk crocks? Airplanes taking passengers for 20-minute rides over the city. The Von Hindenberg doorman. Mike Keefe, ask any one in Cincinnati.

Ladies with shiny nails and run-over shoes. Richard Bennett and his daughter Joan—appearing in the same play. Grantland Rice graying, too. Those fortress-like warehouses with a single entrance. So many are enticed into a magic shop, but few buy. What's become of the fighter with a name like uncorking a bottle? O, yes, Firpo.

The Warwick—where many movie stars stop. And the Buckingham, where May Allison lives. The Japanese fish store on Sixth avenue. And the parrot that recites "Mandalay." Alison Smith, New York's only woman dramatic critic. Broadway's odd desolation—when traffic is suspended.

Spaghetti joints, ravioli dens, oyster bars, chili caverns—but no haunt like Jack's. What became of the Hippodrome's diving tank? Bench warmers beginning to drift to Bryant Park. Five hurryup lunch rooms smack in a row. Back home they are making spring soap in big kettles.

New York hostesses are unable to set the dinner hour later than 7 o'clock. Those who have fixed the hour at 8 or 8:30 face a "strange interlude." The few who came had to be helped over the door sills, and a messy evening resulted. Earlier cocktail parties among guests are responsible for the derelictions, and the later the dinner, the fewer the guests, if any. One gentleman, touched by a continentalism, moved up his dinner to 9:30. Out of 40 guests, three, which included a deaf maiden aunt from Vermont, arrived. "The others," sighed the host, "either acquired unconsciousness or new ideas."

The Italian Quarter on the north fringe of Chinatown has resulted in mixed marriages between Italians and Chinese. And girls become what are known as "Chink-Wops"—wives of Chinese and moved into Chinatown. Those who oppose the domestic intermingling admit, however, the Chinaman is a good husband if he does not become an addict of the opium pipe. In such cases he usually makes an addict of his wife. There are, it is said, some 200 white wives of Chinese in the spidery streets running off Chatham Square. Once settled, they rarely leave the quarter, and a number are able to converse fluently in Chinese.

Nothing, not even a camel smell—is left to remind New York of old Madison Square Garden. A 34-story building of a life insurance company occupies the historic site. There is one room 50 feet below the surface where its wealth is cached. It has steel walls three feet thick and swinging doors at each end of the room weigh 30 tons. Get a load of that on your jimmy, you bad, bad burglar.

One of those female precisionists who insists upon her legal rights was annoyed by a lady in front of her at the theater who did not remove a tight-fitting turban. "Please remove your hat!" she demanded testily. The lady did, and a wild crop of frizzed hair ballooned out all over the place, almost completely obstructing the view. And two guesses only for the identity of the fellow in D4 nearby who tittered behind his fan all evening.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

IF YOU are a golf player your thoughts may be turning to beautiful greens and fairways.

You are anxious for the weeks to pass along so that you may swing your driver and make those chip shots and putts which your imagination has pictured during the winter months.

In your golf game or in any line of sport in which you engage you exhibit great interest and vigor.

Have you ever entered upon your daily job with the same spirit?

If you should, would there not be great improvement in your production and increase in its volume?

You are willing to make every possible effort to concentrate on all your shots in golf, yet your daily work you do in a dull and routine style.

You do not try to become enthusiastic over your bread and butter job.

Instead of exerting yourself you try to get through with as little effort as consistent with holding yourself on the payroll.

You take pride in your golf game, but you haven't sufficient pride in your daily work to give the best you have.

Isn't it more important to do your best in the business that furnishes you a livelihood rather than in amusements you could not enjoy but for your job?
